Little Things

Wake Forest College to Winston-Salem, but to move The Angel Farm (Meredith) from Raleigh would be taking things too far. Raleigh just wouldn't seem right without the Angel Farm. The Godwin Home Demonstration Club won the top award at the annual Cumberland County Achievement Day program. The Angier Junior Woman's Club held its Christmas Party at Johnson's Restaurant in Dunn Monday night. "Honestly," declared Ruby Newsome, a special guest at the dinner party, "that's the prettiest bunch of girls I've ever seen in my life." Sorry, girls, that we got there too late for that picture. If there's any assignment we enjoy, it's photographing beautiful women. And Ruby really rubbed it in about how pretty they were, too.

BIRTHDAYS: Today is the birthday of Virginia Young, Brent Adams and Mrs. J. Perry Thomas.

THINGAMAJIGS: Dunn Rotarians and their ladies were entertained Friday night at their Christmas party by Wimpy, billed as an international clown from England.

His British humor clicked with some of the guests; with others it didn't. But he was interesting.

Marilyn Maxwell, the prettiest actress who has played every other sort of role, took on drama last night in the radio presentation of "Double Indemnity" and was wonderful. Did a masterful job.

It was one of the finest dramatic shows we ever heard. Almost as good as the movie. The New York Daily News reports that the movie version of "Kismet" is going great guns at Radio City Music Hall.

Wilson, Tallulah (Hello, Dawling, she calls everybody) Bankhead is going to appear in a revival of the Ziegfeld Follies next spring.

That'll be worth a trip to New York. Patsy Hair of The Jewel Box says she knows people who finished their Christmas shopping back in August. "I haven't even started mine," she added.

Note to all eligible men: Mrs. Lollie Mae Wade says she doesn't mind washing dishes a bit but that she dislikes intensely to eat alone. Sounds like she might make an ideal wife. She's a very attractive lady, too.

If a fast-talking salesman knocks at your door and offers to sell you a supposedly "nationally-advertised perfume" at a fraction of that price, you'd better investigate before buying.

A couple of the gift operators are reported working in the Dunn-Fayetteville area. The National Better Business Bureau says there's a nation-wide campaign to mislead Christmas shoppers into the belief they can buy high-priced perfume at bargain prices, approximately $20 for a small bottle.

The perfumes are not known to have any national distribution. Good perfume is never cheap. If you really want some perfume for the little lady, just buy her a quart of "My Sin" by Lanvin. It only costs $500 (that's right five hundred smackers) a quart, plus Federal and State taxes. There's no extra charge for the bottle.

And they gift-wrap it free. In an interview recently, the Frenchman who is president of Lanvin, Incorporated said the company sells many, many quarts of the wonderful stuff. "You mean men buy perfume at $500 a quart for their wives?" asked the newsmen. "Oh, no, I didn't say for their WIVES," he corrected — for their girl friends and sometimes for the other fellow's wife! Now, is that nice? No, indeed! Anyway, the name is appropriate for such a gift, isn't it? But who can afford such high-priced sinning? Here's hoping that all the kids who want parakeets and parakeet cages get them.

Western defense policies since failure of the Geneva conference. Dulles left Washington by plane Tuesday for the crucial three-day meeting of the North Atlantic Council which opens here Thursday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The increasing cost of weapons and men will push defense spending next year about one billion dollars higher than the present level.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower followed his doctor's orders today and took it easy. He planned to stay away from his Gettysburg office and to see no callers — even members of his staff — if at all possible.

Shopping

Said Hildreth of anyone who would continue to complain now that the shopping is building up. "Some folks wouldn't be satisfied if the Lord took their hand."

"I personally feel that business is good. It's certainly better than last year, and I think everybody would agree to that."

"For one thing, I think it's true that stores are better equipped to take care of people's shopping needs than they ever were before. The merchants have never had stocks like they do now."

"If people want to shop here, they can."

ENOUGH FOR ALL
Dunn stores can supply all kinds of nice things for Mommy and Daddy, and especially for Junior, and for all the Uncles, Cousins, Aunts and Wealthy Relatives so dearly beloved.

Grown-up toys like record players and records, guns, Scrabble, tennis rackets, tents, barbecue equipment, books—a thousand unnamed things—are available for those who want to buy. For youngsters, the supply of toys is inexhaustible and almost incredibly varied.

A helicopter which will rise under its own power, for all the world like a Korean hospital rescue plane, is only one of thousands of toys which Grandma and Grandpa never heard of.

There also are such old favorites as a carom board (it's almost $10 now, but easily worth it) and a crop of dolls who are lovelier and more individual than a fully dressed Hollywood starlet.

DESIGNS BETTER
Practical shoppers will also find a good supply of the sensible things—clothes and household goods and car equipment—which are favored by many as the best and most lasting kind of gifts.

In recent years, designers of furniture, dishware and even dishpans have started to put as much thought into the beauty of their designs as they do the utility and there is full evidence of that in the goods now being sold.

You can have Christmas at any price you want. Several Dunn children trailed through the stores the other day, buying present for all their relatives with a couple of dollars as their total capital.

G. I.'S KNOW SECRET
The real gift problem remains riddling the gift to the recipient, regardless of cost. As G. I.'s used to prove with Hershey bars, it's not what you give, it's what they want.

The Dunn shopping is not going to be so extreme that people will have to be scraped off the sidewalk afterwards, but it looks strong enough to please the merchants.

And it should certainly please all those favored souls who will wake on Christmas morn to the beautiful sight of a tree that is branches deep in gifts.

of the decline of political and educational work among the population," the newsmen said.

It said similar revivals were reported recently in the neighboring Republic of Tazhikistan where the newspaper Young Communist reported some parents selling minor daughters into marriage that was the equivalent of slave status.

Construction work has been underway for several weeks and will require several weeks longer for completion. A date for the grand opening has not yet been set, but definitely won't be until after the first of the year, said Mr. Muse this morning.

Edwards and McKinnon, well-known Raleigh architects, designed the modernistic food center building. Sam Pittman is the general contractor.

No expense is being spared to make the building the most modern and the most attractive in this section.

Muse Super Market will be complete in every respect and will contain all of the large and varied departments found in the larger super markets. Fixtures have been specially designed and built for the new store.

NATIONALLY ADVERTISED
The store will feature many popular lines of nationally-advertised merchandise.

Mr. Muse, in announcing plans for his new store today, said: "It has been my privilege and pleasure to serve the people of this section for a quarter of a century. It has always been my ambition to have my own independent food store and I am looking forward to serving my many friends again as soon as it opens."

Citing the need for a large independent food store which can "not only compete with but undersell some of the chains," Muse also cited the fact that there is only

Barclay Fired; Seek New Coach

CHAPPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — The University of North Carolina started looking for a new football coach today to replace the fired George Barclay, and persistent reports said the job may be offered to Maryland's highly-successful Jim Tatum.

Barclay, Tar Heel mentor for three losing seasons, was informed Tuesday night that his contract will not be renewed when it expires Jan. 1. The action had been long-expected, but Barclay refused any comment.

Tatum, a North Carolina alum who has guided Maryland to one other food store on Broad Street for a distance of about ten blocks and said there is a great need here for a large downtown super market in that section of Dunn's business district.

It is conveniently located between the railroad and bus depots and right across from the Post Office, where walking traffic is always heavy.

Mr. Muse said he would announce members of his staff and other details of his new store a little nearer the opening date.

One of Dunn's outstanding young business and civic leaders, Mr. Muse is a former president of the Dunn Lions Club, is active in the Chamber of Commerce, is an officer of the Presbyterian Church and has held various other positions of honor during his long stay and service in Dunn.

Mr. Muse is married to the former Miss Lucille Godwin. They have one son, Locke, Jr.
