

HST: PARTY DOESN'T NEED SOUTH

THREE LONELY GUYS AND NO DOLLS — These three prominent and very eligible Dunn men portray here the plight of loneliness as they sat on stools and ate supper the other night at Erwin Gordon's Minit Grill. No doll to feed or care for them, they eat out. Left to right are Captain L. R. Williams, distinguished Dunn attorney; Roger Crewe, highly successful business man who owns a chain of Mall power saw stores; and Dr. Bel-

Charles Carroll, Education Head, Speaks Monday

Charles Fisher Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction, will be the speaker at a meeting of the Harnett County Education Association Monday night. It will be in the Lillington High auditorium, starting at 7:50 p. m., and Mrs. Fred Byerly, president of the chapter, states that any "lay people" who want to may attend. Carroll has been the state's public instruction chief since 1952, when he was the successful Democratic nominee for the office in the november elections. His service actually began on the preceding August 20, when he was appointed by Governor W. Kerr Scott to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Clyde A. Erwin. His career began in 1921 when he was a teacher of history and latin and coach of the Vance County Farm Life School. In 1923 he became principal of Newport Consolidated School and followed an upward trail which eventually led him to a place on the state education commission and a term as president of the Associated Public School systems, a national organization consisting of 184 systems in 39 states. Supervising principal of Bryson City elementary and high school for five years from 1932 he became superintendent of the High Point city schools in 1937.

HIGH OLD TIME — Everything, including radio interviews, was going on at the Muse Super Market yesterday, as the new store on West Broad held its official opening. One of the interviewees was Mrs. Mattie Washburn, who told Lincoln Faulk of WCKB some of her experiences as a longtime customer of her favorite groceryman — market owner Locke Muse (right). Predicts Loss Of Some Votes On Segregation

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Truman said today the Democratic Party would probably lose "some" votes in the South in the 1956 presidential election because of the civil rights issue.

"But we don't need the solid South to win the election," Mr. Truman said. "That was proven conclusively in 1948."

Talking with reporters this morning as he walked to the home of Gov. Averell Harriman for breakfast, Mr. Truman indicated he would be quite active at the Democratic National convention this summer.

NO HARNESS — "You'd better watch me at the convention," the former chief executive said. "You can't keep the harness of an old fire horse just because he's retired."

Mr. Truman breakfasted at Harriman's East Side townhouse at the invitation of the New York governor. Mr. Truman also planned to confer at his own hotel with Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) at Kefauver's request.

Asked what he would discuss with Kefauver, Truman replied: "I suppose he wants to talk a little politics, wouldn't you think?" (Continued on Page Six)

Prison Terms Cut For Pair

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The prison sentences of Rosalie and Milton Schwartz in the abortion death of heiress Mrs. Doris Jean Ostricher were reduced today to county prison terms of 11 to 23 months.

Originally, Mrs. Schwartz was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the state industrial home for women and Schwartz was sentenced to 3 to 10 years in a state penitentiary. The term of Mrs. Schwartz could have run 10 years, under the new sentence pronounced today by Judge Vincent A. Carroll, the two become eligible for parole at the discretion of the judge at any time. He was the judge who first sentenced them. The Schwartzes and Mrs. Gertrude Silver, mother of the dead girl, pleaded no defense on the abortion charges Monday. Sentence was suspended on Mrs. Silver which, in effect, puts her on probation for 10 years but without the necessity of reporting to a probation officer.

Sex Fos Sale Won't Sell; She's Busted

LONDON (AP) — Voluptua, who used to perform on a sexy bedtime show on TV in the U. S. is a "complete flop" in Britain and is going home broke, it was reported today. People said Gloria (Voluptua) Fall "will be stranded here without a penny," if she stays in Britain a few more days.

"British viewers won't buy your sex-for-sale act," she was told by the paper.

The article was accompanied by a photo of Gloria in a bubbly bath.

"STILL A NATION UNDER GOD"

Religious Revival Is Hailed By Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today the revival of religion in America has demonstrated to the world that "this nation still is a nation under God."

The President spoke briefly to a group of about 500 prominent Washington figures, including members of the Cabinet and Congress, who met at breakfast to pray and discuss methods of bringing religious influence to bear on the conduct of business and government affairs.

Hotel owner Conrad N. Hilton was the host at the breakfast which marked the start of a three-day conference of the International Council for Christian Leadership. Hilton presented to the President a silver plaque on which was engraved the prayer he offered at the start of his inaugural address in January 1953.

"I know very few people who have ever told me that they are atheists or agnostics," the President said.

He said regretfully that there was a recent time when much of the world believed that the United States was materialistic, arrogant. (Continued On Page Eight)

Davey Jo Lumsden Appointed Acting Welfare Superintendent

Miss Davey Jo Lumsden, case work supervisor for the Harnett County Welfare department, late today was named acting superintendent of welfare for a 60 day term.

Her election came after the county board of welfare met with Miss Ada McCracken, director of Field Social Work Service for the State Board of Public Welfare, to seek a successor for Miss Wilma Williams, veteran superintendent who was dismissed by the county board, effective Feb. 1.

J. E. Womble, of Lillington, chairman of the county welfare board, said that Miss Lumsden will draw $330 per month in the new position, in contrast to $300 she formerly received. The salary, set by the State Merit Council, represents a three step raise of less than $100 each.

However, Womble said the understanding was that the appointment is only for the 60 days mentioned. (Continued on Page Two)

England Learns Socialized Medicine Failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Anthony Eden's Conservative government has just sponsored some interesting reports on what the British term their National Health Service (NHS).

NHS also is known as socialized medicine, a tax-paid healing system which had former President Truman's sympathetic interest a long time but got nowhere in Congress. A British investigating committee set up in 1953 now reports that the cost of National Health Service in the United Kingdom still is going up.

It cost $1,032,000,000 in the 1954 fiscal year, an increase of more than $130 million since fiscal 1953. Costs long since had doubled original estimates of the Socialist government which set up the NHS system shortly after World War II.

The report estimated current costs at 324 per cent of British treasury revenue. On the same percentage basis, socialized medicine would cost the United States about $2,066,000,000 in the current fiscal year — and go up from there if British experience is a sound guide.

The committee reported that the administrative structure of NHS was sound and had a record of real achievement. It rejected the idea that some of the small fee imposed after experience with socialized medicine should be increased. The committee said some should be reduced.

Speacles For All edged after practical experience that they had been overly generous. (Continued On Page Eight)

IT'S TREASON MEN — FLAT, FLAT TREASON

Dior Again Trying To Flatten Bosoms

PARIS (AP) — Fashion czar Christian Dior introduced today the "Arrow Look" for 1956 — a new silhouette that flattened bosoms but flat.

The Dior silhouette for the coming year, highlight of the Paris 1956 fashion collections, was as straight and thin as an arrow.

He completely erased any trace of a curve this year as he introduced the "Arrow Look" to succeed the "A" and "H" lines of other years which had pushed the bust up to the breastbone.

Follies Gals Wear Halters, Given Hisses

ROME (AP) — The famed Follies Bergere of Paris drew more hisses than applause last night at its grand opening in Rome. The girls wore halter-type brassieres instead of the traditional rosebuds. Police and city officials sat in the first three rows of seats to protect both the public morals and Romans who had threatened to throw stinkbombs.

AFRAID TO WIGGLE With some 40 policemen looking on, the girls in the chorus line were almost afraid to wiggle in front of an overflow audience that nearly rioted in a stampede to buy tickets.

Police ordered the performers to cover up their naked bosoms after a Vatican City newspaper blasted the Follies as an "obscene carnival show."

Mostly the audience sat quietly in contrast to those at Naples who cheered wildly and applauded loudly where everyone of the rosebuds slipped. Many left before the show was over.

Police Director Paul Derval said, "It's hard to understand. All over Rome you see nude statues."

Billy Daniels Held In Nite Club Shooting

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Daniels "that ol' black magic" Negro night-club singer who faces charges of shooting a heckler in a Harlem bottle club, said today.

"I really need that ol' black magic now."

Daniels, 40, appeared in felony court on charges of felonious assault and carrying a concealed weapon. Magistrate Thomas Cullen Jr. ordered him continued in $2,500 bail for a hearing Feb. 28. (Continued on Page Six)

Durham Offer Is Unlimited

RALEIGH (AP) — The city of Durham told trustees of a planned four-year Presbyterian college today to say what it wants in the way of a site for the school and finances and Durham "would accept the challenge."

"They haven't heard another offer like that," said Frank A. Pierson, vice president of the Durham Chamber of Commerce.

SEARCHING AND FUNNY — Charles McCallers, executive vice president of the Kinston Chamber of Commerce, is both humorous and penetrating as a public speaker. He proved that in addressing a large Chamber of Commerce gathering at Benson last week. Tomorrow night he will prove it again when he appears as chief speaker at the annual banquet of the Dunn Chamber of Commerce.
