But Ike Still Unchanged In His Opposition

WASHINGTON (P) — President Eisenhower has not changed by "one iota" his opposition to the rigid high farm price supports voted by the Senate Agriculture Committee, the White House said today.

Ignoring the threat of a presidential veto, the Democratic-controlled committee today approved 12 to 3 an omnibus farm bill including a 1.1 billion dollar "soil bank" and a return to 90 per cent price props on corn, cotton, peanuts and millable wheat.

The high price supports barely squeaked through 8-7. Both friends and foes predicted they would be approved by the Senate after a hard fight, expected to get underway about Feb. 20. The House narrowly approved 90 per cent supports last year.

Oppose Rigid Supports

White House news secretary James C. Hagerty said President Eisenhower and the administration have not changed their opposition to rigid supports "one iota."

He recalled that Mr. Eisenhower only two days ago wrote Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) that high rigid supports would defeat the purpose of the soil bank which is designed to curb costly crop surpluses.

Officials of the newly-formed National Farmers Organization urged the White House to order a "bold and aggressive" program to support prices of hogs and cattle.

Sells Sister-In-Law Into Prostitution

YOKOHAMA, Japan (P) — Police reported today that Ichitaro Shimizu has confessed to selling 101 women, including his wife's younger sister, into prostitution for about $1,900.

The 68-year-old said he used the money to support his political activities, police said.

Ike Could Make Front-Porch Race Two Bound Over To Federal Court

WASHINGTON (P) — The Eisenhower-will-run school of Republicans visualized President Eisenhower today in the role of a second term candidate conducting a "front porch" type of campaign by television.

That was the inference drawn by some Republicans from the President's news conference remark Wednesday that he had never contemplated a barnstorming campaign, even if he had not suffered a heart attack.

While President Truman made effective use of that technique in 1948, Mr. Eisenhower made it clear that he regards it as improper for a president.

Mr. Eisenhower's new conference again provided evidence to strengthen the belief of both those who believe he will and those who think he will not run again.

Some Republicans saw the President fitting himself for a strenuous campaign by television. Others saw evidence that he would not run in his continuing stress on his health and the fact that he expects to announce a decision by the end of this month.

"I feel confident that the President could confine his campaign to television appearances and win on that basis," said Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa.). "I don't think the Democrats have any candidate who can lick him."

"Every public poll of his popularity shows it continues to maintain itself at an extraordinarily high level. I not only still think he is going to run, but I'm confident he is going to win."

FAYETTEVILLE — A Greensboro woman charged with prostitution on the Fort Bragg reservation and her alleged procurer were bound over to federal court in a hearing yesterday before U. S. Commissioner J. L. Hon.

Charged with prostitution is Romaine Royal Barefoot, 25, McArthur Hotel, Greensboro. Earl Dewayne Green, 24, Sacramento, Calif., is charged with aiding and abetting in prostitution and assault.

The pair was picked up by military authorities and the F. B. I. after they were reportedly engaged in prostitution from an automobile on the military post.

An assault charge was placed against Green after he allegedly assaulted Joel Frederick Martin, 307th Eng. Bn., Fort Bragg. It was reported that Green became angry when Martin failed to pay the full price.

Green has been released under $1,000 bond pending trial at the next term of U. S. District Court and the woman has been placed in jail in default of $750.

Guy Must Pay His Ex-Doll $500 A Week

NEW YORK — A hefty award of $500 weekly alimony — believed to be topped only by the $700 Eleanor Hahn tapped Billy Rose for in 1953 — was awarded to attractive red-haired Mrs. Anna Marie Goldmuntz, 32, to keep her comfortable while she is suing her diamond-dealer husband for separation.

In making the award, Supreme Court Justice Samuel Gold also ruled that Mrs. Goldmuntz could live in a swank, five-room co-op. Gold said he had taken into consideration the style in which Mrs. Goldmuntz had lived with her husband, Sylvan Goldmuntz, president of the Allied Industrial Diamond Co. The co-op is at 875 Fifth Ave.

Style They Lived In — Gold found that "it is clear that the parties lived in a style and on a scale grossly at variance with the husband's claims as to his finances."

He cited Mrs. Goldmuntz's jewelry and wardrobe, the couple's plush apartment and their trips abroad, to prove his point.

In addition to the temporary alimony, Gold approved counsel fees of $7,500 for Mrs. Goldmuntz's lawyer, Sol A. Rosenblatt. Trial of the suit was set for April.

Constable Jackson Seeks Second Term

His hat's on in this picture, but by this morning Lonnie B. Jackson had it officially off and in the ring. He is entering the forthcoming Democratic primary to seek re-election as Constable of Averasboro Township of which Dunn is a part. Jackson, who lives on Dunn, Route 4, is a former Dunn police chief and also a former deputy sheriff.

In declaring for re-election, Jackson said, "I've had the honor of serving in this post, and believe the people the kind of law enforcement which they can expect from me."

Mr. Jackson has made an outstanding record as constable, rendering outstanding service to the people.

No opposition has been hinted and none is expected.

THIS GIRL SENDS 'EM — Teen-age Evangelist Renee Martz has drawn audiences all over the world, landed one of her biggest in Milwaukee. Photo shows some heads and backs of chairs from that engagement, as well as the very pretty head of Renee herself, a dedicated soul-saver since the age of six. At seven, she spoke in Australia from a piano stool and has been known to speak on every medium, including television.

SHE'S GROWING UP — NOW SHE'S A GLAMOUR GIRL

Famed Renee Martz To Open Campaign Here February 26

By TED CRAIL
Record Staff Writer
Renee Martz, the little girl evangelist, is a big girl now, she even admits to having been kissed, but she is still riding the trail of prayer, song and headlines that began for her many years ago.

With father and Jack and Esther Martz, Renee stopped in Dunn for a few hours yesterday before rushing to Augusta, Georgia. But she promised she'll be back to start a week of revival services starting February 26.

The trip to Augusta seems like nothing to Renee because she has circled the globe twice. She has visited 37 nations, learned to sing gospel songs—in what a reporter called "a definite teenaged bebop lilt"—in 15 tongues, and has spoken at "Murderer's Crossroads" in Paris, converted a Mohammedan in Singapore, taken a screen test at Universal-International, and recorded four sides for Decca Records.

Yesterday she had on a brightly striped t-shirt and dark slacks, not the quiet "Princess" dress which she wears when singing and sermonizing. A man said she was so pretty she ought to "hug his neck," and without embarrassment, in a brief, sisterly way, she hugged his neck.

SHE'S DIFFERENT — She is not exactly a quiet girl, and far from being a suffocating, goody-goody type, but she also is very different from the yippy type of teen-ager so often seen. Renee is 15 years old, and full of serious plans and talk. She doesn't (Continued On Page Two)

STRAP BREAKS — PHOTOGRAPHERS HAVE FIELD DAY

"New" Marilyn Makes Her Debut As Serious Actress

NEW YORK (P) — The "new" Marilyn Monroe was unveiled Thursday but another, unscheduled unveiling left little doubt that the old Marilyn Monroe was still around.

Miss Monroe, a blooming young actress who wants to do dramatic parts, met the press with her new associate, Sir Laurence Olivier.

For a time everything went along just fine and the "new" Monroe discussed a picture she plans to make with Olivier as photographers duly recorded the spectacle of a black sheath dress that covered roughly the lower two-thirds of her famous frame.

BUSTS OUT ALL OVER — Then, a strap broke and the old Marilyn Monroe busted out all over.
