CLAIMS ANSWER TO $64,000 QUIZ

Welles Makes Debut At Las Vegas Club

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Orson Wells, making his Las Vegas night club debut, went out on a limb last night by predicting the outcome three weeks hence of television's "$64,000 question."

Following an hour of magic tricks and extra-sensory perception experiments, Wells told a crowd of 800 persons that through "pre-cognition" he knew "the key question" he always and the final prize to be reached on Tuesday night, March 13.

"Boy wonder" of the movies while still in his 30s and perpetrator of radio's "Martian invasion," in the 1930s, Wells now claims powers of prophecy. He wrote the answers to the $64,000 question and placed them in a strong box, to be held in a bank.

"When the TV show is over, the box will be returned here under guard," he said. "It will be closing night for me—and as a finale I will read what I've written concerning the status of the program. I could tell you now, but it would spoil the show."

Asked if he was able to predict a roll of the dice or turn of a card in gambling casinos, Wells said he thought he could, but refused to try for fear of destroying customers' confidence in the honesty of the game.

"I average between 80 and 85 per cent accuracy," he concluded. "But I can not exercise these powers if I personally am involved in their execution."

Dad Accused Of Helping Seduce Girl

LOUISEBURG, N. C. — Police held a 70-year-old man in state prison at Raleigh today on charges of having illicit relations with a 14-year-old girl, and accused her father of allegedly aiding and abetting him.

The father, James R. Barham, about 40, was free under $1,000 bond after his arrest yesterday at his home in the New Hope area of Franklin County.

The 70-year-old man, Pat L. Kirkland, who was arrested at Barham's home, was held on the carnal knowledge charges.

Rochelle Barham, described by Sheriff C. W. Terry as "mature" for her age, was suspended from classes at an elementary school.

The arrest warrants were signed by Lucy P. Burt, county welfare superintendent. Miss Burt refused comment on her investigation but said she will testify at a hearing March 6.

Interne Is Slain By Aged Chinaman

CHICAGO — An aged Chinese laborer, crying "You cut me once, now I cut you," stabbed a young intern to death in Cook County Hospital yesterday.

Dr. Bruno Epstein, 25, died minutes after the laborer, 76-year-old Jim Go, stabbed him in the chest and abdomen.

Doctors and nurses grappled with the berserk patient and finally subdued him by smashing a chair over his head. He carried two six-inch butcher knives.

Dungaree Doll Held For Robbery

PITTSBURGH — A 19-year-old girl in dungarees was charged with armed robbery today in the knife-point holdup of a theatre cashier and the attempted stickup of a cigar store.

The girl, Emma Jane Jennings, last night told theatre cashier Dorothy Porter, 35, she was blue because her boy friend had jilted her.

"She began telling me her troubles, then she pulled out a long knife," Mrs. Porter told police. "When she pressed the knife close to me and asked for the money, I handed her a $20 bill."

An hour later the girl, wearing a leather jacket, entered the store of Harry J. Hardy and again pulled the knife and asked for money. She fled when Hardy picked up a hammer and ordered her out.

Police found the "dungaree doll" and arrested her after a brief struggle.

Thurman Favors Return Of Two-Thirds Rule

WASHINGTON — Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-SC) today called for revival of the old "two-thirds rule" at Democratic national conventions.

The "two-thirds rule"—abandoned in 1936—gave the South a veto for more than 100 years over selection of Democratic presidential candidates.

Thurmond, 1948 presidential nominee of the States Rights party, called for revival of the rule in his weekly report to South Carolina. He said it would "prevent the nomination of a person who is antagonistic to the views of the South."
