Christian Church Circle Met At Willifords

Mrs. Paul Barefoot and Mrs. John Riley presented an interesting program Monday afternoon at the Circle No. 2 of the Hood Memorial Christian Church met at the home of Mrs. W. P. Williford. Spring flowers were attractively arranged throughout the home. Mrs. Freeman Wood presided over the business session in the absence of Mrs. Hugh Williford, leader.

After the routine business session, the hostesses served a delicious sweet course to the following: Mrs. Paul Barefoot, Mrs. George Owens, Mrs. Lorman Dupree, Mrs. R. F. Jernigan, Mrs. Woodrow Hill, entirely new and different.... The hero is a handsome and romantic young minister who is assigned to a small church in a small town.... It's the first time in a comic strip has ever dealt with the ministry and it reflects all the ups and downs of pastoring a small church.... It's a sensation all over the country.... A total of 119 daily newspapers most of them big papers, across the nation are carrying it, which set a new initial record.... Both Life and Time magazine are doing a feature on the strip.... Watch for it, beginning next Monday in this newspaper.... A pretty Dunn bride, who has been married only a short while, told us the other day that during the few months she has been in Dunn not a single man has worked at her.... "And I always got worked at everywhere else," she sighed.... Didn't know these Dunn wolves ever passed up a trick — But then we wouldn't know about such things because we always go straight home at night.... And that's where we're going right now.

Mrs. Freeman Wood, Mrs. C. H. Pope, Mrs. John Riley, Miss Mary Phillips, and Mrs. Williford, the hostess.

2 Receptions

her family home in Lebanon, Mo., where a wedding reception was held on the purported "honeymoon." Later, when they returned here, another reception was held for them by their friends although they still were not married.

Little Things

nett... Everette and D. K. already knew what the law was so, anticipating some expert medical testimony, they spent days before the trial studying a medical book on the human brain—in fact, they practically memorized it. They borrowed the book from Dr. Bill Lilly. So when Dr. Guy Odum, head of the neuro-surgery department at Duke Hospital took the witness stand, Everette was just saying for him—and he let him have it with both barrels. The fiery Dunn lawyer bombarded the famed brain surgeons with questions pertaining to the functions of the brain probably never propounded by a layman in a courtroom before. And he ended up with a verdict of $15,000, of which the team of Dofferymyre and Stewart no doubt kept at least five grand. And Everette and D. K.'s complaint in the lawsuit of Mrs. Lillie Dupree of Dunn was such a masterful job that Presiding Judge Hamilton Hobgood requested a copy of it for his judicial files. In the complaint, the lawyers traced the route of the two automobiles involved to the point of impact in such a forceful manner that both drivers were held liable. Another verdict of $12,000 and another grand for Dofferymyre and Stewart. (The estimate of fees, of course, is our estimate. None of this information came from either of the two attorneys and they'll be surprised—and probably sore as a wet hen—when they read this.) Anyway, we'd hate to have to pay income tax on all the money those two mouthpieces coughed during the two weeks of court. Dunn's First Presbyterian Church has a Covenant Sunday School Class and Charlotte has a Covenant Presbyterian Church. So the Presbyterians evidently believe in Covenants as well as predestination. The Charlotte church celebrated its fifth birthday Sunday. In those short five years, it has acquired property worth two and a half million smackers and an auditorium, that seats 1,250 people. If Rev. Leslie Tucker keeps up the fast pace he has started, the local church will probably pass it in a few years. On Sunday, the Dunn church members held a congregational meeting and voted to go ahead and raise funds for a new building here.

BIRTHDAYS: None are listed on our calendar for today. Must be an unlucky day for the stork.

THINGAMAJIGS: Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Godwin have named their handsome new son Timothy Locke. We like that name—it's different. Timothy made his debut on February 24th in Watts Hospital. All this time and Papa (Nu Homer Tommy hasn't been around with a cigar. Whatsamatter, pal? A baby with a high-sounding moniker like that deserves to be announced with nothing less than a 50-cent story. One of the prettiest new tunes of the year is "Forever Darling," isn't it Darling? Dr. Randolph and Margaret Dofferymyre had a wonderful time in Chicago. They ate fancy food at Don The Beachcomber's highbrow jern, took in the Chicago version of "Pajama Game," and a lot of the other bright, gay and swank spots. "We just didn't have long enough time there," sighed Margaret. So they're planning to go back this summer.

In case you're planning a trip
