can bet we're going to take in everything we can." He's a prince of a fellow—a mighty fine speaker, too. If you're a Jayne Mansfield admirer (and what real, red-blooded he-man isn't?) you should, by all means, buy a copy of the current Pageant magazine. Ten whole pages of pictures of the "Body of the Year," as it refers to her. Every pose imaginable—and very, very revealing, too.

A friend of ours went to New York a few days ago and, on his return, claimed he didn't see Miss Mansfield in her hit play on Broadway. "Still don't believe him! Unless he was sick or something."

Told him so, too. Senator Sam Ervin of North Carolina has an excellent article, "The Case in Favor of Segregation" in the new issue of Look. North Carolina's junior senator gets top billing and there's a big picture of him along with the story. Senator Ervin was one of the three senators who wrote the Southern Manifesto.

In fact, we wouldn't be surprised if he wasn't the sole author. All those phrases sound just like him.

Lostene Godwin Atkins informs us to use her married name if we should have occasion to write about her again. "Everybody wanted to know after you called me 'Lostene Godwin' if I had divorced my husband," she said. "Nope, she hasn't. (Not yet.)"

But can we help it if we can't remember all these local girls' married names? Harnett's own Campbell College received a high tribute the other day from Dr. John D. Messick, president of Eastern Carolina College and one of the South's top educators. He declared in a civic club address that students who go to ECC from Wilmington High School and Campbell College rarely ever fall in their studies at the college of higher learning. Take a bow, Dr. Leslie.

THINGAMAJIGS: A. B. Johnson says the Duke University band concert to be given here Friday night will be tops in the way of entertainment. Rotarians are sponsoring the concert and A. B. is chairman of the project. He, or any other member of the club will be happy to deliver tickets to you.

The popularity of Senator Estes Kefauver as a presidential candidate seems to be growing by leaps and bounds around here. A surprisingly large number of local citizens favor him over Adlai Stevenson and are very emphatic and plain-spoken about it. It's surprising the large number who say "anybody but Adlai," about it, too. Women, particularly, don't like Stevenson a bit.

We once were luke-warm toward the Tennessee Senator but the more we hear and read about him the better we like him. Perhaps it is because he's the underdog. For one thing, we'd like to see a Southerner in the White House. Kefauver has a lot of spunk, is a good sport and is conducting a magnificent campaign despite the odds against him. And some of the Stevenson supporters have been downright rude and insulting to him. That turns voters against anybody. We hope Kefauver lacks Stevenson in tomorrow's Michigan primary. This column stated through error Friday that Coy Lucas is the only candidate for county commissioner in District II.

Our apologies to Jarvis Pleasant. He was the first to answer for the office. And is making an aggressive campaign. Lee Sharon, that lovely and exotic dancer from Texas, is coming up in the world. She made the cover, the center-fold two-page picture and the feature article in the current issue of People Today magazine. The 22-year-old blonde beauty, who who started her career at 15, had a tough time of it until she scored a smash hit at New York's Latin Quarter; now she's eluding everywhere and presently is in Hollywood. That gal has an abundance of what it takes. Rita Hayworth, the Goddess of Love until Johnson County's Ava Gardner came along, says in an article in that same magazine that Husband No. 4, Dick Haymes, "was the best lover I ever had—when he wasn't drunk." Surprising as it may seem, the red-headed fireball insists that she's looking in a husband the "protective, generous father" she never had. Neither Edward Judson, Orson Welles, Aly Khan or Haymes filled the bill. Rita says her ambition is really to make a good home. Just goes to prove you never can tell what a pretty girl is thinking. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Eldridge, Jr. have taken over the management and operation of Dr. Eldridge's tourist court at Wilson. Edna Barefoot says she, too, much, much prefers cold weather to hot. It's the season for baby chicks. If you don't believe it, visit the Dunn post office and listen to them chirp. They're arriving daily—almost by the thousands. It's about time for the flower shops to begin putting together those Easter corsages. They have to start making them two or three weeks in advance in

HOME ON LEAVE — A. C. Godwin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Godwin has completed his basic training at San Diego, California, and is home on leave. He will report back to San Francisco, California.

Girl Scouts Celebrate At Lillington

Forty, plus four, birthdays held little to dismay, but much to please the Lillington Girl Scouts as the local organization on Wednesday afternoon joined in the nationwide celebration of the birthday anniversary of Girl Scouting.

Juliette Gordon Low founded the Girl Scout movement in the United States in Savannah, Ga. on March 12, 1912 with one troop of a dozen girls. Now, two and half million girls across the nation his week joined in tribute to the founder.

Mrs. Charlie Morton headed the arrangements for the Lillington birthday party. She was assisted by Mrs. Chester Brown, Mrs. Wilson Farrell, and Mrs. J. B. Lee. They decorated the Community Center with yellow daffodils and arranged a refreshment table which utilized the same gold and green of the Scout colors.

A square, tiered white birthday cake, decorated with 44 yellow candles, was placed at one end of the table which had daffodils in the center bordered with yellow tapers. Lime punch, cake and salted nuts were served.

Earlier, three brownies, Cramer Davis, Pamela Roberts and Diane Clayton were chosen to blow the birthday candles and express appropriate birthday wishes as more than 100 Scouts sang "Happy Birthday."

Mrs. W. A. Johnson, Girl Scout Association president, presided at the brief program which preceded the social hour. Troop 13 sang the Girl Scout hymn. Troop 33 led song numbers. Brownies sang a patriotic song and intermediate troops recited the Scout laws. Senior Scout Barbara Morgan reported on the National Girl Scout Round-up to be held in Pontiac, Michigan this summer. Janet Dean, who will be one of eight girls from the Central Carolina Council to attend, was recognized as were alternates Ann Renn and Jerry Lynn Bradley.

Troop 17 turned entertainers and presented a skit they entitled "Hepcats of 1957" to end the program on a gay note.

Miss Sophia White, field director of the Central Carolina Council, was recognized, as were local troop leaders. They include: Mrs. George Ray, Mrs. James Renn, Mrs. C. S. Fowler, Mrs. Neill Ross, Mrs. H. D. Carson, Jr., Mrs. Floyd Autry, Mrs. Hal Bradley, Mrs. Peggy Weaver, Mrs. Caviness O'Quinn, Miss Thelma Register, and Miss Vera Lee Thornton.

Gifts from the Seven local troops to the Juliette Low fund totaled $237.17. Each Scout was asked to give a penny for each year of her age. Money will go toward restoration of the home of Mrs. Low in Savannah as a National Scout Shrine.

MRS. GUY RETURNS

Mrs. C. L. Guy Sr. returned home Sunday after visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ross in Washington, N. C. for several days.

regular evening stroll with his dog. An autopsy performed yesterday showed the cause of death was a heart attack, although his doctor said his blood pressure and an electro-cardiograph registered normal the day before.

The comedian's widow, Portland Hoffa, was reported to be under a physician's care.

Allen and his wife were married in St. Malachy's, known as the "Actor's Chapel," in 1922. They worshipped there every Sunday.

THE SHOW WENT ON

The humorist's death plunged his fellow entertainers into mourning, but they followed the theatrical "show-must-go-on" tradition by proceeding with the regular Sunday night presentation of "What's My Line," a television show in which Allen had appeared for two years.

In Hollywood, comedian Jack Benny, privately a close friend of Allen, who feuded publicly with him over the air waves for years, was stunned.

"This is a most shocking thing," Benny said. "The American public has lost its greatest wit. Fred's humor and brilliance was comparable to that of Will Rogers."
