DEMOCRATS SEEK DARK HORSE TO RUN

THE BIG LINEUP — This is a fragment of the 22 tractors which lined up for a rush job on the Jackson's cotton and tobacco acres. Joining efforts, they had a beautifully plowed 30 acres only 35 minutes from the starting time. Woodmen of the World organized the plowing yesterday afternoon at the Jackson farm, which is just beyond Mingo. (Other Photos on Page Six.)

A CITY HALL, HAIL ESTES, HENRY, CHIKS, LOVE, ETC.
City Manager Archie Uzzie is awaiting a reply from the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad on the town's request for part of the cotton yard property as a site for a new city hall here. "If the Coast Line will just let us build there," pointed out Mayor Ralph Hanna, "I think we can get the new city hall without difficulty." Mayor Hanna envisions a combination city hall and civic auditorium which would serve as the center of events for this entire area. The idea is receiving popular support from the taxpayers, too. Nearly everybody agrees that Dunn needs both a new city hall and a civic auditorium and one building could serve both purposes. W. G. Patrick, manager of the telephone company here, is predicting that Senator Kefauver will win the Democratic nomination and that he'll beat Ike in November. The fellows were talking about the outcome of the Minnesota primary yesterday at Upchurch's. "I sure can't see running Stevenson again," declared Former City Commissioner B. A. Bracey, pointing out that four years ago he couldn't carry the solid South or even his own home. (Continued on Page Two)

Wild Highway Chase Brings Jail Term

Will Rogers Arnold, namesake of a famous comedian, has faced a lot of serious trouble including a conviction for bank robbery. Today he is back in the soup. Despite favorable testimony from four youthful witnesses, a Harnett Superior Court jury convicted Arnold on several driving counts and he was sentenced to a total of five months in jail by Judge William Bickett of Raleigh. The conviction may cost him more than that. Arnold is currently on probation from an earlier sentence for careless and reckless driving. Following the jury ver-

Pity These Poor Hubbies, They Need It!

TOKYO — Scores of Tokyo husbands paled in bewildered fright today. And scores of angry Tokyo wives waved torrid, perfumed letters under the noses of their husbands and demanded an explanation. "That night when I, an innocent little girl who knew nothing about worldly things ran away from home to you my beloved," the letters began, "was for me my first embarrassing, yet happy experience as a woman. We have now become inseparable. Recalling memories of that night, my little heart will be filled with your lovable face. Your Tsuyuko—I am and shall always remain lovable." That was about as far as most of the wives read before they turned on their stunned spouses. The husbands read further and found the answer. The letters were an advertisement for a Tokyo picture, "Irdo Zange," or "Penitence for Sexual Passion."

Wage Meeting With Erwin Mills Is Postponed

Wage talks scheduled to resume yesterday between Erwin Mills management and union representatives of productive workers at Erwin and Neuse have been put off to a later date. Lacy Dawkins, manager of the Textile Workers local at Erwin, said (Continued on Page Three)

Neill Fuquay In Lillington

Neill Fuquay of Beaumont, Texas, was in Lillington Thursday for a brief visit with his mother, Mrs. J. N. Fuquay. The Lillington native was accompanied by his wife, and two of his three sons, Jimmy and Robert, while a third, Charles Spears Fuquay, was in Greensboro with meals. Fuquay, who holds an executive position with Sun Oil Company of Texas, has been in France for six months in connection with a contract to lay a pipe-line for the French government. While in Europe, he and his family visited many other countries and crossed the Atlantic to New York City by boat. They flew to Greensboro yesterday where he has a sister, Mrs. Harry Neelley and a brother, Richard Fuquay. This marked Fuquay's first visit in Lillington in over three years. He is a brother of Clerk of the Superior Court Elizabeth Fuquay Matthews. Another sister, Mrs. Bill Spain of Burlington, joined the visitors in Lillington for the day.

Professors Hit Infringements By Colleges

WASHINGTON — A special committee of the American Association of University Professors has recommended censure of five universities and colleges for allegedly violating academic freedom and tenure. This is the largest number of institutions to be recommended for censure by the association at one time. The institutions are the University of California, Ohio State University, Rutgers University, Temple University, and Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia. In each of the schools faculty members have been dismissed for refusing to cooperate with congressional investigating committees or for pleading the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination when called before the committee. The special committee also strongly condemned the practice of forcing teachers and other citizens to swear they never have been Communists in order to get jobs. It criticized the dismissal of faculty members solely because of their use of the Fifth Amendment.

The exercise of one's constitutional privilege against self-incrimination does not necessarily or commonly justify an influence of criminal guilt," the report said. The association will act on the censure recommendations at its annual meeting in St. Louis April 6-7. The association has 38,000 members and is one of the most influential groups in higher education. It said one consequence of security procedure in recent years has been a threatened shortage of qualified teachers just as mounting enrollments are beginning to require an increased number of able recruits.

HE WANTED IT

NEW YORK — Paddy Chayevsky, screen and television writer, said on winning an Oscar for his film "Marty." "If I had not got it I would have been awfully hurt and disappointed. I wanted it. I have friends who say they don't care about it. I wanted it." Pugh, the Most Worshipful Grand Master of the state of North Carolina, said the meeting was smoothly planned, one of the biggest and most informative he had attended. There was 51 Masonic district in the state, and this was the 51st year to hold its meeting. In his hour and twelve-minute talk which was well received by fellow Masons, Pugh outlined his point-by-point program for improving organizational work. He discussed the need to continue good relations with churches and (Continued on Page Six)

Pre-School Clinics Begin In Harnett

Pre-school clinics for school children who will enter the first grade next year, began this morning in Harnett County under the joint auspices of the county health and education departments. The first clinic was held at 9:30 a. m. at Bule's Creek. Next week the clinics will be held on Monday, March 26, at Anderson Creek, Angier, and Angier Color School. On Tuesday, March 27, the clinics will move to Shawtown, Bethlehem, both colored schools, and to Bunn-level. Wednesday, March 28, is the day for Benhaven prospective first graders to report, and March 29 is the date for Buckhorn. After Easter, similar clinics will be completed for all county schools from Tuesday, April 3 to Friday, April 6. Boone Trail and Cedar Grove will be served on April 3; Johnsonville on April 4; Norington on April 5; and McLean's Chapel on April 6. The clinics are designed to introduce the young child to the school room and to the building into (Continued on Page Five)

THE FIFTY-FIRST MEETING — Fifty other districts of the Masons held their annual get-together earlier than members of the 14th district who convened yesterday in Dunn. But the meeting here was described as highly successful and one of the best he has attended by state Masonic head Charles K. Pugh of Gastonia (left). Looking over his shoulder are Willie J. Hall of Fayetteville, district deputy grand master, and Nathan Johnson, Jr., master of Palmyra lodge in Dunn. (Daily Record Photo.)

District Masons Convene

Yesterday in Dunn Masons of the 14th district played host to representative Masons from throughout this area, and heard an address by the state head of the Masons, Charles K. Pugh of Gastonia. IT WOULD ONLY TAKE A MIRACLE

Stevenson Given Slim, Slim Chance

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Past performances suggest that Adlai E. Stevenson retains a fighting chance, no more, to win this year's Democratic presidential nomination. But fight and chance are the words for it. Overwhelming defeat in a strategic presidential primary election more often than not benches the loser soon if not immediately. Minnesota was a key state in Stevenson's pre-convention strategy. Farmer - Labor - Democratic state leaders teed the contest sweetly for Stevenson's suave swing. He sliced the duffer's drive. Minnesota's Farmer - Labor - Democratic Gov. Orville Freeman and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey have been painfully stabbed in their pride. WILKIE'S UNHAPPIEST DAY Past performances include Wendell L. Wilkie's unhappiest day, April 4, 1944. On that day he was skunked in Wisconsin's presidential primary. Wilkie had all the confidence and the only complete slate of delegates in the field. He ran last behind Thomas E. Dewey, then governor of New York; Harold E. Stassen, then a Navy lieutenant commander, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Wilkie promptly withdrew, hollering foul, and died the following October a heartbroken man. Wilkie was bitter against the party leaders he suspected of a double cross. Your correspondent took the precaution a fortnight later to obtain his acknowledging initials on each page of an interview. His quoted language had been explosive, almost libelous. Stevenson can get a bit more comfort from the primary glory of 1948, but not much. Stassen was a candidate again. He had Dewey as a candidate again. He had Dewey (Continued on Page Five)

"MARTY" BEST MOVIE OF YEAR

Borgnine, Magnani Win

HOLLYWOOD — Homely newcomer Ernest Borgnine and his picture, a low-budget little film named "Marty," swept over veteran actors and expensive pictures Wednesday night to win Hollywood's coveted Oscars. Another offbeat newcomer to Hollywood films, Italy's fiery Anna Magnani, was honored as the best actress of 1955 for her explosive role in "The Rose Tattoo," her first U. S. movie. The supporting player awards made it an all-newcomer year. Jo Van Fleet snared the award for "East of Eden" and Jack Lemmon was honored for "Mister Roberts." But it was the toothy Borgnine and the unpretentious "Marty" that captured the sentiment of (Continued on Page Two)

Anti-Kefauver Group Ponders Big Question

WASHINGTON — Anti-Kefauver Democrats began surveying the field of dark horses and favorite sons today for a presidential candidate. There was a widespread feeling among these Democrats who dominate the party organization that Adlai E. Stevenson had suffered a serious and perhaps fatal defeat in Tuesday's presidential primary in Minnesota. He lost to the underdog, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. This reaction was evident, among that wide segment of party professionals who favored Stevenson or at least considered him more acceptable than Kefauver. But they also were asking, "If not Adlai, who?" SIX NAMES MENTIONED The names being tossed around included: Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma. There was no evidence yet of an organized stop-Kefauver movement but one can be expected if Stevenson fails to get up off the ground. Kefauver is out of favor with many southern Democrats because they regard him as a southerner who has turned against them. And he is unpopular with many Democratic professionals because he campaigned against the "bosses" four years ago, when he lost the nomination to Stevenson, and is doing the same again. TO "WORK HARDER" Stevenson responded to his defeat by declaring his intention to "work harder than ever" for the nomination. He must slug it if he expects to reverse the result in Minnesota, where the backing of the state organization seemed to stack the cards in his favor. Kefauver flew from Minnesota Wednesday to the far west. After stops in Montana and Washington, he was headed for California for more campaigning. He hopes to knock out Stevenson in the June 6 California primary in which 64 delegates votes are at stake. The Minnesota result on the heels of the New Hampshire primary last week generated much uncertainty among Democrats. Stevenson refused a direct contest in New Hampshire, but Kefauver's national convention delegate slate swamped one pledged to him. DISAGREEMENT IS NOTED A sifting of Democratic reaction to these developments showed: 1. Stevenson backers disagreed as to whether their candidate had (Continued on Page Five)
