BIG 3 FOREIGN MINISTERS TO MEET

IN CUSTODY BATTLE—Jayne Marie Mansfield, 5, combs her hair while her mother, Broadway actress Jayne Mansfield, uses a powder puff in the star's New York apartment. Paul Mansfield, the child's father, has demanded custody of their daughter charging that the actress "is not a fit and proper person" to raise the child. The suit is rumored to be in retaliation of Jayne's divorce action against him.

Court Recorder Finds Her Job Nicely Exciting

Until she took over the job of recording verdicts and collecting fines in Dunn Recorder's Court, Mrs. Louise Lee was not too familiar with the courtroom.

Now, every Monday and Thursday, she sees the parade of humanity with fresh and curious eyes. Court, she says, is fascinating.

Mrs. Lee replaced Miss Louise McGugan who has taken a job with Civil Service in Washington, D. C. She is a Dunn resident who has held a number of jobs since her graduation from Dunn High in 1945.

Actually, Mrs. Lee preceded Miss McGugan to Washington. From 1948 to 1950 she was a stenographer with the Veterans Administration in Washington.

Prior to that she worked for Johnson Cotton Co. in Dunn, serving as secretary to W. C. Fowler, then in charge of personnel. From November of 1950 until April of 1953, Mrs. Lee was secretary to the post chaplain at Fort Bragg.

Mother of two children—Jimmy, who will be three in July, and Ronald, four months old next week—she has recently been doing the bookkeeping for her husband at his service station (J. P. Lee's Texaco) on the Dunn-Erwin Highway.

Mrs. Lee took years of night school while she was in Washington at the Stenotype Institute. Although stenotypy is now a familiar weapon for the court reporter who records word for word, fast-moving and important cases in superior and federal courts, Mrs. Lee will not need it in Recorder's Court here in Dunn.

"I'm a little rusty, anyway," she said.

Rita Gam Weds; Grace Kelly There

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Rita Gam, who will be one of Grace Kelly's bridesmaids, was married today to wealthy publishing executive Thomas H. Guinzburg.

Miss Kelly, whose own wedding to Prince Rainier III of Monaco is less than a month away, was among the small group of Miss Gam's friends attending the 12:30 p. m. ceremony at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Guinzburg. The elder Guinzburg is founder and a board chairman of Viking Press.

The princess - to-be said her bridesmaid's wedding would keep her too busy today to give her time to begin shopping for her own trousseau. She attended the ceremony attired in a navy blue silk faille dress, pink straw turban, mink stole, and long white gloves. She was accompanied by theatrical producer Gant Gaitther.

Miss Kelly told reporters who met her at the airport that she would spend most of the time shopping for her trousseau before she sails for Monaco on April 4.

"I've had no opportunity to do any shopping because I've been working so hard on the picture," she explained. She recently completed the film "High Society" for MGM studios, which may be her last movie.

"I have not asked for a release from my MGM contract," she said when reporters asked about her movie plans. "I'm taking a year's leave of absence."

The prince had said earlier that she would not make any more movies.

Middle East Action Will Be Discussed

LONDON (AP) — The Western Big Three foreign ministers will meet in Paris in May to complete plans for joint military action should a Middle East war break out, official sources said today.

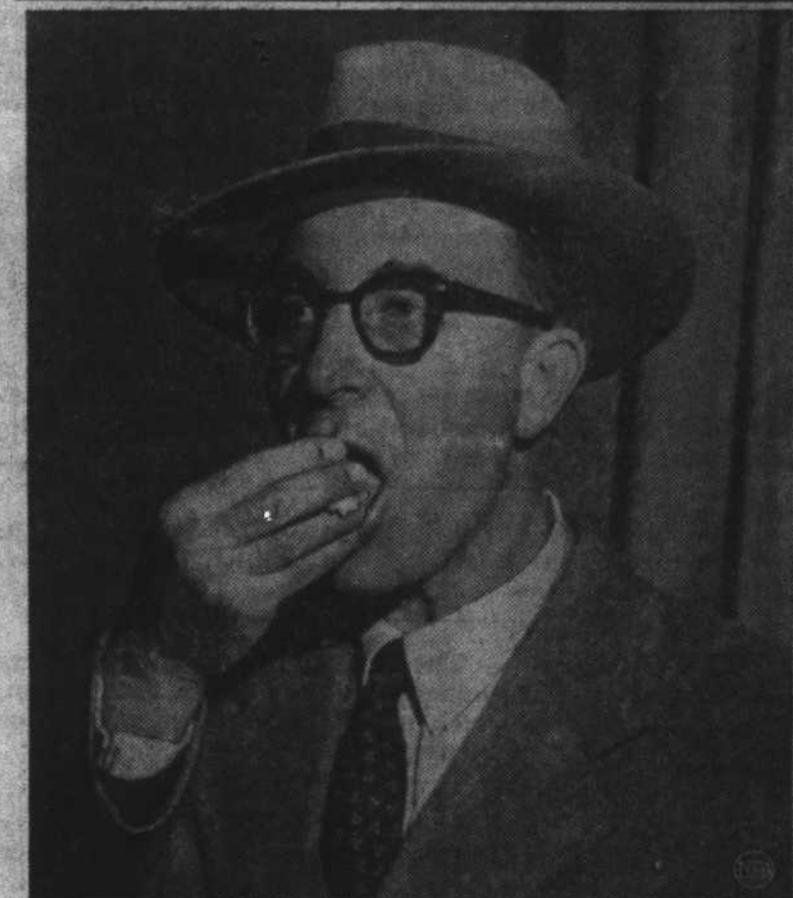

The source said that June and July are considered the most critical months in the danger of a full-scale war between Israel and the neighboring Arab states.

The meeting was announced yesterday, but sources disclosed the military nature of the meeting only today.

The conference of the foreign ministers of Britain, France and the United States will coincide with a meeting in Paris of the NATO Council. The North Atlantic Council meeting opens May 5.

The Middle East Conference was proposed by France. Official sources said the Western ministers will review the critical situation in the Middle East in the light of what, if any, action is taken during forthcoming United Nations conciliation moves.

The United States has asked the U. N. Security Council to consider mounting a Mid-East tension and the threat there of a hot war.

SCORES UPSET—Sen. Estes Kefauver, the Tennessee Democrat who scored a stunning upset victory over Adlai Stevenson in the Minnesota presidential primary, eats a handful of popcorn as he waits in Minneapolis to board a plane for Billings, Mont. Returns indicate that Kefauver won 34 of the 30 votes Minnesota will have at the national Democratic presidential convention.

"Missile Master" Unveiled By Army

FORT MEADE, Md. (AP) — The Army today unveiled the "missile Master" — a huge electronic brain whose lightning-like action can launch scores of Nike guided missiles against enemy air raiders.

Army Secretary Wilber M. Bruckner said that missile masters will be installed at major industrial, population and military centers to control the fire of Nike batteries against attackers.

The secretary created a flurry by asserting that the electronic brain can detect aircraft "and missiles," and control counter-attacks on such invaders.

REVISE AT FIRST Army officers conducting a demonstration here at first refused to say what kind of missiles Bruckner referred to. But eventually it became clear that he meant the winged types that travel about the same speed as modern bombers.

He did not mean, it was clear, ballistic missiles against which defenses still have not been devised. The Army said that plans for constructing Missile Master facilities throughout the country are included in its program for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 and are currently being considered in Congress. It made public its plan at a time when the Senate Armed Services Committee has raised questions about the comparative effectiveness of the Army's Nike and the Talos missile developed by the Navy and planned for later use in continental defense by the Air Force.

Army officers said that the Missile Master, a combination of electronic computers and long range radar, can be used to control the firing of "any current anti-aircraft missile," including the Talos.

Up to now, Nike batteries, ringing major target areas, have had to operate independently. As a result, there was danger that in a mass air raid uncoordinated fire would result in some planes eluding the Nikes while others were attacked by more than necessary.

Gilliland previously had been dropped from the membership of Warrenton Lions club. He is also under fire to resign as solicitor of Warren County recorder's court.

Pope Changes Holy Week Observances

Father Vincent Stokes, priest of Dunn's Catholic Church, has announced that, in accordance with a direction from Pope Pius XII, Holy Week observances will be changed this year to conform with the schedule followed in the first thousand years of Christianity.

The changes are especially for the working people, to help them relive the sacred events of the closing days of Christ's life. Holy Week rites will be performed at about the same hours of the same days at which the events in Christ's life occurred.

On Palm Sunday, beginning at 9 a. m., the Sacred Heart Catholic Church of Dunn will have the Blessing of Palm, procession symbolizing Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem, reading of the Passion and High Mass. At 11 a. m. there will be Low Mass and distribution of the Blessed Palm.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, there will be regular daily mass at 7:30 a. m. Maundy or Holy Thursday, 8 p. m., High Mass followed by procession to the Altar of Reposition. Nocturnal Adoration until midnight.

Tilghman Cites Evil Of Soil Bank Plan

Myers Tilghman, prominent local ginner and one-time head of the Carolinas Ginners Association, spoke out strongly today against the compulsory soil bank plan in the farm bill now before Congress.

The resulting clamp on cotton production would adversely affect many businesses in Dunn and throughout the South, Tilghman said.

"Look at the cotton-picking money that would be eliminated," Tilghman said. "And the ginners' business, warehouse and farm machinery trade."

FAY FOR IDLENESS "My biggest objection," he added, "is that I don't believe in paying somebody to do nothing. I think most farmers would rather get something for what they've produced than get paid for not doing anything."

"Our acreage is so small already through this part of the country," said Tilghman. "That eighty percent of cotton land could become part of this soil bank. Any apparent economic advantages would be offset by the difficulties it raises on several fronts."

The perfect solution to the cotton situation probably has not turned up yet, the prominent ginner stated, but the soil bank plan in the farm bill passed by the Senate would not be an improvement.

"It means," said Tilghman, "that if a man put his allotted crops in the soil bank, the government would pay him about as much as if he went out and grew the crops."

BETTY MAYTAG SEEKS MILLION AND A HALF

Maytag - Heiress Sues Doctor

NEW YORK — What a lady psychiatrist said about her lady patient, an heir to the $5,000,000 Maytag washing machine fortune, was false and catty, and violated the confidential, speak-no-evil relation between physician and patient, according to a $1,500,000 damage suit on file yesterday in Supreme Court.

The offended lady, Mrs. Elizabeth Maytag Revyuk, of Maryland, charged that Dr. Flanders Dunbar, the noted psychiatrist and author, of 1 E. 69th St., made the "malicious, false and untrue" remarks to the patient's brother, Frederick L. Maytag, head of the washing machine company.

As a result, she asserted, she was deprived of most of her $1,250,000 share in her father's estate for five years, had to spend more than $100,000 "to secure my rightful inheritance" and still hasn't got many thousands of dollars rightfully mine.

"SLEEPING COMPANION" This state of affairs came about, she charged, because Dr. Dunbar told her brother, Fred, a trustee of their father's estate, that Mrs. Revyuk, among other things, had chosen "a sleeping companion in place of continued psychiatric treatment."

On June 16, 1950, according to her complaint, the psychiatrist gave the following unflattering rundown to Maytag: "That I had rated very low on (Continued On Page Six)

Beauty College Slated For Dunn

By TED CRAIL Record Staff Writer

Hank Hanna has been a cosmetologist and hair-dresser ever since that far-away time when horse-tails were something which you found on horses.

More than 25 years ago, when the depression had scared many ladies right out of their bi-weekly hair-do, she enrolled in a beauty school because "it was the very cheapest thing I could do."

Her dad, a farmer and tobacco-ist in Virginia, had, like a lot of others, hit bad times.

Hak has never regretted this side-step into the field of female beautification. And she has learned a great deal in her quarter of a century among the curlers. She could very likely tell you, for instance, more about muscles of the head than you would care to know.

FROM KNOWS THE BUSINESS From diseases of the scalp to pedicure (care of the toes), she has learned all the beauty operators needs to know and then some. Her skill and good nature have brought (Continued On Page Two)

Pauline Tart Is Acquitted

The last case was heard today in the current criminal term of Harnett Superior Court, which has passed out sentences the past few days for everything from murder to bigamy. Final cases:

A verdict of innocent was directed at the close of state evidence against Pauline Tart, well-known Erwin business-woman who had been charged with operation of two stills and possession of whiskey for sale.

Judge William Y. Bickett told the jury they should return an innocent verdict because there was nothing in the testimony of Levi Stephens, Negro apprehended at one of the stills, to prove her ownership or connection.

Elizabeth Faison, 19-year-old Lillington woman who lives near Lillington, was found guilty of assault for cutting up another woman, Bertha Signal at a fish fry.

Judge Bickett gave her 30 days in jail. The defendant claimed that a man had drawn a pocket knife on her and that the other woman was accidentally cut in the ensuing scuffle.

A drunk driving trial for Fred Simuel McLean resulted in a guilty verdict, and McLean was given four months on the roads suspended on payment of $300 fine and costs. McLean was unable to meet all of the fine so Judge William Bickett suspended only one month of the sentence, and McLean has gone to the roads.

Carlton Jones, accused of larceny, withdrew a plea of innocent as the state concluded its evidence. He received four months on the roads, suspended on payment of $75 and costs.

WINNER TRIES FOR STATE CROWN

Lillington Jaycees Plan Kite Contest

Lillington Jaycees will sponsor a kite-flying contest on Sunday, March 25, at 2 p. m. at the Lillington Airport. The contest is open to any child from six to fourteen years of age. Separate contests will be held for different age groups with prizes for six to eight years olds, for nine to eleven years olds, and the twelve to fourteen year old group.

Each contestant will report with his or her kite at the airport. Application blanks with more instructions may be obtained in Lillington from Paul McDonald at Economy Cleaners on Main Street.

Joe Caviness, Jr., president of the Lillington Jaycee organization, said that the contest is part of a statewide kite flying contest which will be climaxed by the State finals to be held on top of Grandfather Mountain in the middle of June. The grand prize winner in Lillington will receive an expense-paid trip to the mountains for the State contest.

Roger Hawley and McDonald are assisting Caviness with arrangements for the contest which will see mayors of three Harnett towns in attendance. Mayor Henry Hamilton of Lillington will initiate the contest, and Mayor W. B. Williams of Angier and Mayor Gene Stewart of Coats will also be present.

There is no fee of any kind for contestants, but a fee of fifty cents (Continued On Page Two)

Mrs. Turlington Takes Church Post

Mrs. H. C. Turlington of Dunn this week assumed an important position in the Woman's Society of the Methodist Church, only a few weeks after her appointment as head of Dunn's Finer Carolina committee.

In Durham earlier this week she was elected vice-president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, holding its annual conference there Monday through Thursday. Mrs. Turlington was one of three from here attended.

Mrs. Marvin Wade was the delegate from the Methodist Church in Dunn, and Mrs. J. W. Lineberger, wife of the Methodist pastor, attended as a district delegate. She is secretary of the Raleigh district. Promotion secretary of the Raleigh district until her election as state vice-president, Mrs. Turlington is in line for the president's post.

The Woman's Society was observing the 15th anniversary of its founding at the Durham meeting. Mrs. Mildred Lee, wife of Rev. Allen Lee, Dunn native who is now pastor at Hamlet Methodist Church, was another newly elected state officer. She became secretary of missionary personnel. The president of the Woman's Society is Mrs. Pierce Johnson of Weidon.

Judge Orders Perjury Probe

Testimony of four youthful defense witnesses offered vainly in Harnett Superior Court in behalf of Will Rogers Arnold, 23, Lillington defendant, will be checked for possible perjury.

Arnold was tried on four traffic counts, including leading a highway patrolman on a wild, 90-mile-an-hour chase, and sentenced to five months on the roads. The jury failed to believe Arnold's alibi, supported by his four witnesses, that he was in Fayetteville on the night of the chase—Dec. 19.

JUDGE TAKES NOTE Judge William Y. Bickett said, after a jury convicted Arnold, "Mr. Solicitor, I want you to look into the testimony of these witnesses and see if you find any grounds for perjury indictments."

Taft Bullard, 23, one of the youths, testified he picked Arnold up after work on December 19 and took him to Fayetteville in Bullard's car. He said they visited several bars, ate supper and returned to Lillington to find the car which Arnold had left near the theatre missing. He took Arnold home, reached home himself around 2 a. m. The chase had taken place around 11:30.

Two other witnesses, Bobby Parker and Halford Bullard, claimed to have seen Arnold and Bullard in Fayetteville at the drive-in where they allegedly ate. Another witness, George Edward Newton, said he saw Arnold and Bullard together at the bus station after its closing.
