NAVY PLANES COLLIDE; FOUR KILLED

NEW LANDMARK - The tall, tall chimney which will rise above the building housing elementary classrooms on a site just below the present Dunn High School will be an imposing new landmark. Jerry McCall, photographed on the scene of the stack which was completed Friday, is general superintendent for the Player Realty Company of Fayetteville which is pushing three local school projects simultaneously. Classroom space at Dunn and Harnett High will be finished by the next term, said McCall, and the new Dunn High gym should be ready before Christmas. (Daily Record photo by Ted Crall)

THREE PEOPLE INJURED

Man Killed In Harnett Today

Benson resident William Jernigan, 48, was driving a 1940 Chevrolet when it collided with a 1955 Chevy at 3 a. m. this morning. He was killed instantly.

Three other persons, divided between the two cars, all were rushed to Dunn Hospital with serious injuries. Cosner Grover Henderson, who was on the scene an hour after the accident occurred, listed the injured.

They were Jasper Tart of Benson, Route 2, a passenger in the Jernigan car; Jerry Raeborn Johnson, 19-year-old driver of the '55 Chevrolet; and Billy McLamb, 17, a passenger riding with Johnson.

Both youngsters are residents of Angier, Route 2. Coroner Henderson said McLamb had chest injuries and a cut lip. Tart multiple cuts on the right side of the face, and Johnson cuts of the lip and a possible pelvic fracture.

Only McLamb was in condition to talk when he visited Dunn Hospital, the coroner said. He quoted the 17-year-old as saying that the old Chevrolet, coming from the opposite direction and headed for Coats, made a left turn in front of them and "hit us head on."

The accident occurred two miles west of Benson at the intersection of Fairgrounds road and the Coats-Benson Highway.

HALLELUJAH!—Actress Anna Magnani throws up her arms in jubilation when she learns in Rome, Italy, that she was named the best actress of the year. The Italian star was honored for her work in "The Rose Tattoo" at the annual Academy Awards presentations in Hollywood. Roused from sleep to be given the news, she shouted: "It's great... I feel just as if I'd built the Colosseum—it's all an earthquake inside."

Plane Wreckage Strewn Over Three-Mile Area

LOXLEY, Ala. (AP) — Two Navy training planes collided near this south Alabama town today, killing four men. A flight instructor and a student pilot were in each plane.

The Pensacola naval air station said the propeller-driven SNJ trainers were on a routine mission when the collision occurred at 7:30 a. m.

Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Wreckage was scattered over a three-mile area around where the planes crashed within a half-mile of each other.

One of the hurtling planes barely missed the home of Mrs. D. E. Hastings.

She said she heard a noise "like someone blowing stumps." On looking outside, she said, "I saw pieces of metal falling all around. I saw that plane crash into a fence. One man was thrown out."

"I ran to him but there was nothing I could do for him. The other man was still in the wreckage but he was beyond help, too."

The Navy said the second plane crashed into a plowed field owned by Alton Haskinson. A wrecker was needed to get the bodies from the plane.

The man thrown out in Mrs. Hastings' back yard had an unopened parachute strapped to his back.

Chief's Wife May Come Home Thurs.

Dunn's police chief, whose wife was stricken with spinal meningitis, hopes she will be able to come home this Thursday.

Her doctor, said Chief Alton Cobb, gave him a favorable report and said if she kept improving there should be no lasting effects from the illness. Mrs. Cobb is at Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill.

PRE - EASTER REVIVAL UNDERWAY

Prominent Minister Leading Services

Rev. Bert Webb of Springfield, Missouri, opened the Pre-Easter campaign, sponsored by Dunn's Ministerial Association, with a sermon last night at the First Baptist Church.

The prominent churchman, who is assistant general superintendent of the Assemblies of God, will lead two services daily throughout this week. They are at 7:30 in the morning and 7:30 at night in the First Baptist auditorium.

Ministers from Dunn churches and church choirs will alternate in having charge of evening services during the week. Tonight, Gospel Tabernacle Church will send its choir and Rev. Bane T. Underwood of that church will be in charge.

Easter Sunrise services, which will be held around the old well at Greenwood Cemetery, have been carefully planned.

Rev. Leslie C. Tucker of Dunn's First Presbyterian Church will be the speaker. Rev. J. W. Lineberger will have charge of the services. The Dunn High band will furnish music. At 12:30 p. m. on March 28, Rev. Webb will be in charge.

O. W. Godwin Gets Benson School Job

O. W. Godwin Construction Company of Dunn has been awarded the general contracting job on a new gym and lunchroom for Benson. Benson Principal W. J. Barefoot announced the letting of contracts last week. The Dunn firm had bid $89,887. Total of the contracts which were let was $119,731.65. Heating and ventilating will be done by J. J. Barnes Heating and Plumbing Co. of Angier which bid $14,459.15. The same firm received the plumbing contract with a bid of $9,275.71. The electrical contract went to the Self Electric Company of Graham for $5,100. (Continued on Page Two)

Blonde Held In Extortion Try With Pix

NEW YORK — A buxom blonde ex-model and fashion designer was jailed on charges of having attempted to extort $30,000 from a 60-year-old Mount Vernon businessman by threatening to let "certain pictures" get into the wrong hands. Displaying high indignation, Joy DuPont, 35, of 15 Central Park West, denied the accusation of Morris E. Starratt, 280 Collins Ave., Mount Vernon, who is in the electrical supply business. Morris, Joy said in a countercharge of assault, bruised her right thigh and right breast while slapping her around in her apartment on March 2.

WHAT A DAY IT WAS

That's the same day he claimed she tried to put the bite on him for 20 grand. Both were jugged yesterday pending arraignment today in Felony Court.

Starratt put the controversy in police hands several days ago. W. 54th St. station cops said he told them he had disrobed in Joy's apartment when "someone" suddenly took embarrassing pictures. Starratt said he got dressed and left in a huff.

Joy subsequently demanded dough for the pictures, he told police, but he elected to face court-room indignity rather than bank-roll shrinkage.

JOY DENIES EVERYTHING

Joy was brought in yesterday and denied all. "He's crazy," the cops quoted her. "I've known him for two or three years. He came to my apartment early this month. We had a few drinks. The next thing you know, he's belting me around."

Once Was Enough

Mrs. R. L. Warren, Sr. had an empty apartment for rent so she inserted a classified ad in The Daily Record for three days.

Late that afternoon she called to cancel the ad. Once was enough, she said. She could have rented the apartment many times as the result of that first insertion.

Mrs. Susan Black, who assists her husband in the management of Star Furniture Company, needed a maid so last Monday morning she placed a 12-word classified ad in The Record to run for five days. . . . Again, one time was enough.

At least a dozen maids had visited the store in response to the ad before Mrs. Black got down to work at 9 o'clock the next morning, she said when she called about an hour later to cancel the ad. They kept coming the rest of the day and she's still getting applications.

"I got a girl," said Mrs. Black, "and a good one too." She was highly pleased.

Both Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Black received refunds, of course, for the unused insertions. Charles Wade wanted to sell an automobile so (Continued on Page Two)

Before His Trial, A Second Arrest

You heard how fate twisted around, stalled the car of Junius Primrose Byrd until a train came along and hit it, and thereby enabled officers to discover some illegal liquor in the car? Well, the ink directing him for trial in federal court was hardly dry when he was found at a still by ATU agent S. C. Coats. It was back again to Commissioner Mallie Jackson in Dunn. Now he faces the additional charge of operating an unregistered distillery.

Byrd had expected the ATU officer earlier that day, Coats said. When Coats did not appear, Byrd figured it was safe to make one last run, the ATU agent alleged.

Spence Won't Seek County Judgeship

James M. Spence, native Lillington attorney who earlier announced plans to try for the judgeship now held by Judge M. O. Lee, is withdrawing from the race.

In a letter sent in duplicate to many court officials and other persons in the Lillington area, Spence stated that he is giving up the contest because of a position offered him by a prominent Fayetteville law firm — Nance, Harrington and Collier.

Jelke Vice Doll Marries Attorney

NEW YORK — Very demure in an Italian silk grey suit, carrying a corsage of sweetpeas and roses, Pat Ward, who testified in Mickey Jelke's vice trial to having received from $50 to $500 per night as a cafe society V-girl, eloped to Greenwich, Connecticut, with a 35-year-old lawyer.

In a short, single-ring ceremony, the 22-year-old Pat and Delavan Smith, tall, soft-spoken and good-looking, were united at the Park Inn on Putnam Ave. by Justice of the Peace William A. Maher, who is also a private investigator.

"We would like to live as quietly and privately as we can," Smith said. "We're very much in love. This past doesn't mean anything."

It's a Quiet Wedding An associate in the firm of Fish, Richardson & Neave at 20 Exchange Place, Smith described himself as a native of New York, living at 55 Morton St. in Greenwich Village, and married once previously. Pat gave her real name, Sandra Wisotzky, and said she was born in Brooklyn and never had been married before.

"This is my first—and last," she said.

The couple, Pat in her grey suit and saucer-type pink hat, Smith in plain blue business suit, were attended by Miss Caroline Furryk as maid of honor and Nevio Maggioro, a friend of Smith, as best man. Also attending the ceremony was Pat's mother, Mrs. Anna Wisotzky, of 133 Avenue D.

At Home in the Village After the 4 P. M. ceremony and a fast round of drinks, the wedding party motored back to New York, arriving at the groom's apartment in the Village at 5:30 P. M.

"Oh, gosh, I'm so happy!" Pat exclaimed. "This is the happiest point in my whole life."

Smith, a graduate of Brooklyn Law School who has been practicing about eight years, said he met Pat about a year ago at a party. For the last four or five months, they have been going steady.

They chose Greenwich, he explained hoping to avoid publicity. "The less publicity we get, the better we'll like it," he added. "We're principally interested in living (Continued on Page Two)
