TV COMEDIENNE SUED

Martha Raye Denies Stolen Love Charge

WESTPORT, Conn. (P) — Television comedienne Martha Raye and a handsome young policeman today denied charges by the patrolman's wife that Miss Raye stole his affections while he worked as her bodyguard.

Mrs. Barbara Anne O'Shea, 20, wife of Patrolman Robert O'Shea, 27, and mother of his 18-day-old baby, made the charges in a $50,000 allegation of seductions suit against Miss Raye.

"Miss Raye is completely shocked at this totally unexpected action," her attorney, Shirley Woolf, said in Miami Beach. "She has never had any romantic alliances with Mr. O'Shea."

It's all gossip and it's a frame-up," a friend of O'Shea's quoted the policeman as saying. "I haven't even seen Miss Raye recently."

Mrs. O'Shea said her tall, slim and handsome husband took a part-time off-duty job last year as Miss Raye's bodyguard and soon made it apparent that his interest in the five-time-married comedienne was more than professional.

FAMILY BACKS WIFE
The young wife charged that her husband walked out on her the day she brought their baby home from the hospital last week and said he was in love with Miss Raye. O'Shea's family sided with his wife in the dispute and at one time his brother and O'Shea got into a fist fight in Miss Raye's Westport home.

O'Shea's sister-in-law, Mrs. Clifford O'Shea, said the patrolman told her he was "madly in love

Ford County Young Republican Club. He's a brother of Archie Burns of Dunn. Honor has also come to another former Dunn resident, Attorney Charles Crockett of Elizabethton, Tenn. has been elected vice president of the Carter County Bar Ass'n. He has been practicing there for about a year and a half. Charlie is a brother of Mrs. Ruby Newsome of Dunn. The new issue of Redbook Magazine gives a preview of the forthcoming reports to be made by Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, the sextuplet. Among other things, Dr. Kinsey will report in his new book that one out of every six pregnancies end in deliberate, illegal abortion, that more abortions are performed on married women than single, and that if adultery laws were enforced about half the married males in America would be jailed. In some States, adultery is not a crime; in other states, the penalty runs as high as ten years imprisonment. Sextuplet Kinsey is advocating a movement to harmonize and standardize sex laws in all the 48 states. Former U. S. Senator Alton A. Lennon will address a "Mothers' Night" banquet of the Godwin Lions Club in the Godwin Community building Wednesday night. The congressional candidate will spend Thursday campaigning in Eastern Harnett and will spend Friday campaigning in Western Harnett. On Friday night, he will hold an organizational meeting with his friends and supporters in the county courthouse in Lillington. Roger Mann and Venable Baggett are handling the arrangements in Lillington. Fred Byerly, an old schoolmate at Wake Forest, Louis Baer, Nathan Carney and Howard Godwin are handling arrangements for his day of campaigning in the Dunn area. Fayetteville has a General Lee Street named in honor of Dunn's World War II hero.

BIRTHDAYS: Today is the birthday of Marjorie G. Warren, Charles D. Hutaiff, Sr., Mary Norfleet Tilghman and Mrs. Minnie Matthews.

OUR CULINARY ABILITY CHALLENGED — One of these fine days we're going to throw a big feed for all of our doubting friends — all of those (and they seem to be in the majority) who doubt our ability as a cook. The other morning for instance, we came down to work about 7 o'clock and a little after eight we told Grace Moore, one of our society editors, that we were going home to cook breakfast as our wife and son were probably getting hungry. Grace gave us a funny look that said "Oh, yeah, and kinda snickered." "Well, what's so funny about that?" we asked, both our feelings and our pride slightly jarred by her skepticism. "Oh, nothing," smiled Grace, who's a very sweet girl, "except that I just never pictured you in the kitchen." So we informed her that ever since our wife got sick over two weeks ago we've been cooking breakfast and serving her in bed every morning. And the poor girl is recovering so slowly that we'll probably be doing it for another two weeks. "But I saw you eating in the restaurant at noon yesterday," countered Grace, thinking she had tricked us. That's right, we explained. We do the cooking at breakfast; we take her lunch from the restaurant at noon and the maid who works afternoons and evenings prepares supper. So Grace diplomatically drops the subject, with a tart, "Well, it doesn't hurt husbands to do a little work around the house now and then." Came Sunday and we cooked all three meals and this morning we try to impress Grace so we bring her a copy of the luncheon menu: apricot nectar, canteloupe, tomato soup, fried chicken, mashed potatoes, peas and carrots, french fried potatoes, baked beans, toasted English muffins, pickles, relishes, jelly, peach pie ala mode, a punch mixture of orange juice and ginger ale, coffee and milk. And for supper we had all the leftovers from lunch, plus Mexican enchiladas, fresh strawberries and ice cream. (It took us so long to fix supper the office got robbed while we were gone.) "But do you think Grace was impressed?" Not one bit. She just snorted — in the way that only a female can snort. Believe it or not, that was the actual menu. But before the devil gets us we'd better confess to Grace that all of it was either frozen food that just needed warming or canned food that only had to be heated. But our wife will vouch for it — we quite often bake a cake. (Using that Pillsbury prepared cake mix, of course.)

THINGAMAJIGS: The John A. McKay Manufacturing Company of Dunn is now sponsoring Jim Thornton's "Country Style TV" program Saturday nights over Durham's TV station. J. Vivian Whitfield, the candidate for lieutenant governor, made a fine impression on his visit to Dunn Friday. He's a very distinguished — looking fellow and slightly resembles former Governor Oreg Cherry and the late Senator William B. Borah of Idaho. Back during World War I Whitfield was a military drill instructor at Carolina. His students included Governor Luther Hodges and Jonathan Daniels, editor of The News and Observer. James Snipes has promised Dunn Rotarians "the best program of the year Friday night," but won't tell them what it'll be. "It's going to be a surprise," says James, adding, "There'll be a lot of real pretty girls." That air-conditioning at the Presbyterian Church felt mighty good Sunday morning. And Parson Leslie Tucker preached another good sermon, too. Congressman F. Eitel Carlyle has introduced legislation which would give ministers and missionaries reduced rates on overseas flights as well as on domestic airlines, according to a piece in yesterday's Charity and Children, a State Baptist publication.

Whitfield

racial integrity of the South. Pointing out that "we have ample resources with which to adequately educate our children of both races, Whitfield declared: "I know of no land where a Negro could have achieved more in these 91 years since Appomattox than he has achieved in North Carolina and in the South. We can make of this Negro race of ours — if we are let alone — the greatest Negro race in the world."

COLORFUL CAREER
Whitfield, has wide experience in the field of public service. He served as commandant of Horner Military Academy from 1915 to 1917, then joined the U. S. Consular Service and during the next eight years served at Montevideo, Uruguay, Bahia, Blanca, Argentina, Havana, Cuba, Matanzas, Cuba and Monterey, Mexico. He has represented Pender County in both the House and State Senate.

HITS VEILED THREATS
The speaker also lashed out vigorously at those who issue veiled threats to the South and warn that we will lose industry and business unless we integrate the races. "We need industry and business, and industry also need us and we in the South can help business and industry."

"But," he added, "The pocketbook interest of the moment is not the first consideration of our citizens. We know that no nation can achieve its ideals as long as the pocketbook interest of the moment is the first consideration. We are not going to sell our souls for a mess of pottage. We will not integrate the races in exchange for promises of new industry. We shall protect the racial integrity of the South at any cost. Mr. Whitfield also discussed the farm problem, the problem of public health and various other important issues. He admonished that, "We must correct the defects in our economy and agricultural program that is destroying the small farmer," and also called for a fair marketing system that will assure the farmer a fair price for his products in the marketing places. He also warned that the little farmer must become mechanized, that small farmers must pool their resources to buy and share modern equipment if they are to survive and keep progress with the times.

HEALTH PROBLEM
Mr. Whitfield cited figures showing that 52 per cent of the youth of North Carolina came from homes of one or more parents or were reared by parents failed to pass the physical examination of the armed forces in World War II while only two and a half per cent of those reared in orphanages failed to pass. "Our State's health program cannot be fully effective without discipline and self-control," he admonished. Discussing his own campaign, Whitfield said he was pleased with the progress and declared: "The people are just now beginning to realize that there is one candidate in the bunch who has the courage to take a stand — and they know what my stand is."

Accused Rapist Subdued After 9 Shotgun Blasts

NEW ORLEANS (P) — A powerful Negro, accused of rape and a fugitive from prison, was brought to earth today but it took nine blasts from a shotgun and police pistols to do it.

Then, although critically wounded, ex-prize fighter Leonard Caesar managed to get to his feet. "I'm not going to die; I'm too tough to die." In the pre-dawn manhunt in the storied French Quarter section of town, an elderly Negro couple, trying to escape from their apartment where Caesar had sought refuge, also were injured.

Robert Staves, who tipped off police of Caesar's hiding place by tossing a note out the window, was shot by officers who mistook him for the fugitive as he fled down a stairway to get away from Caesar.

Staves' wife, Mary, received severe injuries when she jumped from a balcony to the street 30 feet below, also trying to escape from Caesar as police closed in.

Officers moved in on him, the 33-year-old Caesar kicked a hole through an old brick wall in the apartment and jumped or fell about 30 feet to the court yard below.

Patrolman Jesse Lampart said he shot him at least once in the back with his service pistol as Caesar wiggled through the hole in the wall.

Policeman Philip Bourgeois, stationed in an alley next door, fired as Caesar hit the ground. Sgt. Hubert Badjeux said Caesar then jumped a nearby fence.

"I waited for him to get clear and then I popped him with a shotgun," the officer said. "He was thrown to the ground. As he reached into his left pants pocket where he had his gun, I popped him again. He didn't get up then."

In all, Caesar was shot nine times. Charity Hospital authorities said the fugitive was paralyzed from the waist down as the result of shotgun slugs in his spine. He was in critical condition. Caesar was wounded and captured only a few blocks away from where he was accused of raping two white women. He escaped from Parish prison April 20 after wounding Warden Alton Dikert.

Police had been searching the area since 2 a. m. after an officer had spotted the fugitive in the area. Staves said Caesar broke in on them about 5 a. m. "I didn't know it was Caesar," he said. "I had never seen him before. But I figured it was him. I scribbled a note, tied it to a rock and told Mary to toss it out the bedroom window. "The note said, 'The man police are looking for is here. Come back in 10 minutes.'"

One of the officers found the note on the sidewalk and called for help.
