Every Woman To Have Furs For This Fall

NEW YORK (UP)—The fashion industry hopes to trap every woman into fur come fall.

Furs, both long and short hair, are featured in everything from at-home to grand occasion costumes.

"There is a touch of fur everywhere," said Bettina Ballard, chairman of the New York Fashion Group's ready-to-wear committee at the group's roundup of fall style trends.

Fur is used for collar and cuff, for hemline border, for hat, for coat, for coat lining, for suit, for over-blouse, even for a sweater. About the only part of the wardrobe yet unfurred is footwear. But give the industry time.

Other Lush Materials
Designers have dreamed up combinations of fur with wool knits, flannel, broadcloth, chiffon, crepe, satin, and other lush materials. They've revived broadtail, leopard, red, black and gray fox, and racoon, showing them in as wide usage as sable, chinchilla, mink and ermine.

Designer Greta Platty featured a lounge costume consisting of river otter jacket topped plaid trousers, which pick up the same soft brown shade of the fur. Furrier Leo Ritter combined a chinchilla "cardigan" with a pair of slim-cut grey flannel slacks, in what is perhaps the costliest at-home costume around this season—$3,500.

Collar Of Sable
Several designers trim suits or coat-dress costumes with fur. Lar Aldrich put a shawl collar of sable on a slim-cut black wool suit. Marusia - Travis Banton used cross-fox, a golden shade of fur, as trim for a hopsack wool suit in the golden shade. The same design team combined black fox with black chiffon broadcloth in a silky evening dress—coat combination.

A cheetah over-blouse topped a brilliant red wool skirt by designer Anne Klein. Another designer, Anna Miller, cut the half-length bodice of an evening dress from leopard. The rest of the full-length formal is of beige chiffon.

Salmon Drowns In Pond Saturday

Fred Salmon, 43-year-old farmer of Lillington, Route 2, drowned about 5:30 p.m. Saturday in an Anderson Creek township pond, while swimming with three other men.

Coroner R.L. Pate Sr. said Salmon apparently died of a heart attack. The coroner added that no inquest will be held.

Salmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Salmon, was swimming in Welton—Wommack's pond with Wommack, John Norris and Lewis Mason when the mishap occurred. The quartet had been fishing, then decided to swim.

The survivors told the coroner and Sheriff Claude R. Moore that Salmon made no outcry. Mason said he saw the man go under the water for the last time, but was unable to reach him.

The body was recovered at 7 p.m. by Bobby Wright, game warden, and three rural policemen, Walker O'Quinn, Buddy Temple and Stanley Byrd.

Azar-Byerly Rites Are Solemnized

In a five o'clock wedding on Saturday, the twenty-second of June, Miss Anne Schuman Byerly and Mr. Raymond Wahid Azar, Junior were united in marriage. The double-ring ceremony took place at the Divine Street Methodist Church with the Reverend J. W. Lineberger officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moffitt Byerly of Dunn, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wahid Azar of East Hampton, Connecticut.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Henry Whittenton, organist, and Miss Margaret Cathey, vocalist. Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Whittenton played "Ich Liebe Dich" by Grieg, "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life" by Herbert, "Angel's Serenade" by Braga, "Prayer from Hansel and Gretel" by Humperdinck, "To A Wild Rose" by McDowell, "Ave Maria" by Schubert, and "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" by Saint Saen. Miss Cathey sang "All for You" by Bertrand-Brown and "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee" by Guonod. During the ceremony Mrs. Whittenton played "Clair de Lune" by Debussy. Miss Cathey sang "The Wedding Prayer" by Dunlap as the response to the benediction.

The ceremony was performed before a background featuring spiral candelabra garlanded with white chrysanthemums and emerald fern tied with white satin. A large silver urn of chrysanthemums centered the altar and arrangements of chrysanthemums and candelabra were used in the choir.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of Italian silk, fashioned with a cummerbund ending in a large bow at the back and featuring a full skirt with a chapel train. Her two-tiered "finger-tip veil of French illusion was attached to a cap made of the same silk and braid as her gown. She carried a white Bible covered with cattleyas white orchids and showered with stephanotis.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Betsy Ray Byerly, who wore a waltz-length dress of mauve pink organza with square cut neckline and bouffant sleeves and a matching bandeau. She carried an arm bouquet of pink minkie daisies and pink roses.

The honorary bridesmaids were Miss Martha Ann Butler, Miss Kathryn Butt, Mrs. Murphy Upchurch of Dunn, Miss Anne Smith of Fairmont, Mrs. William Churn of Washington, and Mrs. Graham of Greensboro. They wore floor length pastel dresses and corsages of baby orchids.

Mr. Joe Wyrick of Alliance, Ohio attended the groom as best man. The ushers were Mr. Jack Seltzer of Durham, Mr. Billy Thompson of Dunn, Mr. Alvin Flick of Richmond, Virginia, and Mr. Phil Wagner of Point Pleasant, New Jersey.

The mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of blue lace and taffeta with matching hat and shoes. Her corsage was a colored-lip white orchid.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a dress of champagne lace with matching accessories. Her corsage was of green orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a reception at the Woman's Club.

The bride's going-away outfit was a dress of white crepe with self-cummerbund and a short navy jacket, with which she wore white and navy accessories and the orchids from her wedding bouquet. After a wedding trip through the New England States the couple will make their home in Hartford, Connecticut.
