Rich Boy Licks Wealth

Shortly before he died in 1937 at 98 years of age, John D. Rockefeller, "the richest man in the world", declared: "My greatest fortune in life has been my son."

Whatever the cause, the Rockefeller bounties which John D. had begun when a clerk in his teens, and which by the early 1900's included the founding of the University of Chicago, gained new impetus and grew hundreds of millions upon hundreds of millions.

Still more Rockefeller millions went into the restoration of the Palace Versailles and the more familiar Colonial Williamsburg, and for the site of the United Nations.

"The handicaps that shape human life," says Mr. Fosdick, "take many forms—poverty, deformity, ill health, an unhappy environment. In the case of John O. Rockefeller, Jr., the handicap was wealth—a stifling kind of wealth that might have sapped his energies and blighted his life."

Margaret's Boy Friend

"A girl of 27 and a man of 23—what's so terrible about that?" So asks the Daily Express in commenting upon the rumored romance of Princess Margaret, the "girl" in question, and Lord Patrick Beresford, the "man."

A writer in the Journal of the American Medical Association has this to say about weight-reducing drugs: "No known drug or compound may safely be taken without medical advice to cause loss of weight. The word 'safely' deserves emphasis, since some drugs, which have succeeded in taking off pounds, have had the disadvantage of making some people blind and killing others."

U. S. News & World Report observes that U. S. demand for foreign automobiles is growing "at a surprising rate." These imports—consisting mostly of small, extremely economical machines—accounted for only 0.6 per cent of the U. S. car market in 1954. This year the figure is expected to be about 3 per cent.

Inflation note: The Wall Street Journal reports that a company decided to tear down an unused smokestack built in 1921. The original cost of the structure was $8,740—but it cost $13,470 to dismantle it.

A McGraw-Hill survey finds that American manufacturers will spend $7,300,000,000 on research this year, for an all-time record.

"If you ask me, it looks like our front room after Junior's crowd leaves!"

Plans Over N. C. Federal Judgeship

New Feud Shaping Among State GOP

GREENSBORO (UP)—A new feud may be shaping up in the Republican Party in North Carolina over the selection of a successor to retiring federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes of Wilkesboro.

President Eisenhower Monday approved the 71-year-old jurist's application for retirement as presiding judge of U. S. Middle District Court here, a post he has held since 1927.

The question of a successor has boiled down to a choice between U. S. Dist. Atty. Edwin M. Stanley of Greensboro and Hayes' nephew, Kyle Hayes of Wilkesboro.

Clinic

(Continued from Page One) address to having the X-ray picture made requires only two minutes. Those tested will receive a report on this picture from the State Board of Health within three weeks.

A health educator will be on hand in Harnett three weeks prior to the clinic for the purpose of publicizing the program. Dr. Smith said even those who were checked by one of the mobile units in other years should be encouraged to return; a person with clear lungs a year ago might have an advanced case of t. b. today.

Dr. Smith chose 1953 as a sample year to show the effectiveness of the t. b. program. At that time there were five units throughout the county. From 1700 tested 71 showed signs of tuberculosis. In addition 200 enlarged hearts and blood vessels showed up, many of which had not been discovered before.

Among those departments represented at the meeting were the local Health Board, Education, Welfare and Home Demonstration Departments. Immediately afterwards Dr. Smith met with the County Commissioners to review the plans. A second meeting concerning the mobile units will be held in November.

White Lake

(Continued from Page 1) "The wind had been blowing pretty strong here for the past several days," she said. "But it was calm this morning or we may have all been burned out."

She said the private residences and tourist facilities were "pretty full" of vacationers. "Everybody started dragging their things out when the flames got pretty big," said Mrs. Duncan.

Mrs. Duncan said that temporary bath houses will be constructed to take care of the holiday crowds and "we are going to try to proceed pretty much as usual during the holiday."

Humor Can Prevent Divorces Showdown Battle For Stock Cars

KINGSTON, N. J. — Humor could save many marriages from the divorce courts, a West Coast domestic counselor said today.

Reinhold R. Bietz, of Los Angeles, told the 54th annual conference of New Jersey Seventh Day Adventists that many of the irritations which lead couples to call a marriage finished "could be shut out by a sense of humor."

"Many homes have been shattered to pieces by the hard rocks of selfishness, spite and hate," Bietz said. "In order to be happy a partnership must have two parties who are cheerful most of the time."

There are many things in life which are not to be laughed at, he said, but there are many others which could be a funny incident instead of an irritation if we would look at them properly.

Coats Farmers See Nurseries

Thirty-three farmers from the Coats area went to Hartsville, S. C., last week for a look at the tobacco breeding nurseries on the Coker farms there.

Headed by Ag Teacher G. W. Dixon, the group looked over new varieties of heavy-bodied, orange leaf tobacco (low to moderate nicotine content) which the breeders are developing for 1958 production.

The farmers took a long look at the various new weeds, which represent an attempt to blend favorable characteristics with resistance to black shank and wilt.

The seed company's president, Robert R. Coker, said his firm will release three and possibly four new five-cured varieties for 1958.

Miss Johnson Honored With Luncheon Saturday

A red and white color scheme was used for the lovely wedding luncheon given at Parters restaurant in Dunn on Saturday at 12 o'clock by Mrs. Jasper Jackson, Mrs. Talmadge Wiggins, and Mrs. Paul Murry. Miss Ella Dean Johnson was the hostess.

The bridal table was covered with a white cloth and held a center arrangement of red and white roses and baby breath in a crystal bowl. Each guest's place was marked by a long stemmed red rose and the honor's place with a red rose corsage.

The menu consisted of tomato juice cocktail, tossed salad, baked ham, garden peas, potato salad, tomato and lettuce, rolls, jello and bridal cake swaves. The guests included, Miss Ella Dean Johnson, Mrs. E. C. Johnson, Mrs. Forest C. Maxwell, Miss Betty Wren Stancil, Miss Cleo Murry, Miss Marcia Harrell, Miss Lula Sheppard, Mrs. E. C. Johnson Jr., Mrs. Paul Murry, Mrs. Talmadge Wiggins and Mrs. Jasper Jackson.

Water Bill Hike Will Be 10 Percent

Water bills, slated to go up a full 20 percent as the result of action taken a week ago by Dunn's town board, will only go up ten percent.

That was the result of a meeting last night to give further consideration to the tentative budget now in the process of adoption.

Commissioners also took care to spell out the uses of the ten percent raise: All money from this source will be devoted to the water improvements program — of which Dunn has lots coming.

The issue became controversial locally when it was said that the 20 percent increase would be used to finance an all-hands raise for the town's 58 employees.

Those raises, as tentatively approved, remain in the budget but presumably will be financed out of the general fund. City Clerk Charles Storey said that none of the raises was removed from the budget last night.

Mayor Ralph Hanna has stated he supports the pay raises on grounds that good city employees will be lost to other jobs if he does not.

Several other actions were taken last night besides the decision to make the water bill hike ten percent.

Motor Credit Co. was authorized to keep a wooden fence they have established if it is kept 12 inches off ground. City Manager A. B. Uzzle Jr., was instructed to charge a $25 fee to anyone who wishes to tap on new water mains from old ones. The board decided that a house recently "sold" to Pope and Mixon will be advertised for resale if payment is not
