Dulles Hopes Russia Will Accept Plan

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the danger of a major war between East and West will recede if Russia accepts the West's latest proposals for guarding against surprise attacks.

Dulles told a news conference that the proposals made by him in London last week represent the most significant offer in terms of peace made in recent history, or perhaps in all history.

Speaking with great feeling, Dulles said he believes world public opinion will demand acceptance of safeguards against either East or West launching a surprise attack.

He said the advantages of such safeguards in terms of security, lower military budgets and other factors will be irresistible to the United States and Russia alike.

Surprise Big Factor
If ironclad agreements can be reached to prevent surprise attacks, Dulles said, all nations can feel with reason that the danger of major war has receded.

Dulles warned however that he is dubious about making progress on control of armaments unless agreement is reached first to guard against surprise attack.

A major war, he said, will not be started unless the aggressor believes he can attack his adversary with surprise.

Sufficient inspection to ward off the danger of a surprise attack, the secretary said, would be a real move toward making arms reduction almost inevitable.

Dulles returned from London Saturday after arranging an agreement among the North Atlantic Treaty nations on a new aerial-ground inspection program. This was the proposal presented to the Russians at the London disarmament talks.

DOMESTIC TEAM-UP—Shirley Jones, star of "Oklahoma!" and "Carousel" and singer Jack Cassidy, her husband of a year, are making a bid for Hollywood stardom as a Mr.-and-Mrs. team. Here she displays the "new" Shirley—she's lost her cornfed look and her long tresses and in her new movie, "April Love," she'll join the whistle-bait set.

A New Shirley Jones Returns To Movies

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Shirley Jones, the voluptuous singing star of "Oklahoma," is back in the movies—but in name only.

The rest of Shirley is a shock to movie fans who remember her in the musical classic. The apple-cheeked miss has slimmed down to a sleek, more grown-up actress with a short chic hair-do and whistle-bleat figure.

"I just decided I should lose weight," explained Shirley, who was wearing the shortest shorts in history today to keep cool on her movie set.

"I looked a little too heavy in 'Carousel' and 'Oklahoma.' I thought it would give me more scope if I were thinner."

Shirley has been busy on TV but has not been assigned a role by her studio, 20th Century Fox, since her second movie, "Carousel." She confessed having a renoir-type figure is "limiting" when it comes to roles.

Her first move was to shed 10 pounds by cutting out desserts and starches. Next she trimmed her long blonde curls to an Italian hair-do, lightened her eyebrows and added make-up.

Her wardrobe changed to include clinging sheath dresses. She also got married a year ago to singer Jack Cassidy, and she thinks "naturally, that matured me."

The first result of the new Shirley Jones came when producer Milo Frank spotted her singing in a TV Cole Porter spectacular last season and gave her a "Playhouse 90" script to read.

"I almost passed out when I read it," the fresh-faced Shirley said.

Plays An Alcoholic

"I told him I couldn't be happier to play the role of an alcoholic in 'The Big Slide.' I never dreamed anyone would consider that part for me. There was a wonderful reaction from my performance. It opened many other doors."

Now Shirley is back in films, co-starring with Pat Boone in "April Love." They've tacked on a false pony tail hairpiece and made her a farm girl—but at least she gets to wear tight blue jeans and do a strip tease in a shower bath during one musical number. It's her first film job in modern dress.

"Most fans and even some friends don't recognize me these days when they see me on the street," she said. "I'd love to get the part now of a sexy other woman or villainess."

Thundershowers are forecast today in a leap-frogging pattern from Florida across to Texas and up the western third of the country. Fair skies and warming trend will prevail over most other points.

Bus Line Would End Dunn Route

RALEIGH (UP)—Carolina Coach Co., filed petitions with the State Utilities Commission Monday asking to abandon service on a route from Lillington to Dunn.

In one petition the company asked to be allowed to halt service on a route which begins at the junction of U. S. 401 and 421 about one mile north of Lillington. The route runs southeast on U. S. 421 to Dunn.

The firm has presently leased the operating rights to Southern Coach Co., which has requested Carolina Coach to amend the lease deleting that part of the route. The companies blame lack of passengers for the action.

The second petition asked the commission to approve an amendment to the agreement deleting service from Fukuay-Varina to Lillington to Dunn. The companies entered the agreement to lease the route Jan. 5, 1953.

Witness Says Dio Got Payoff

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Labor Rackets Committee heard testimony today that New York labor racketeer John Johnny (Dio) Dioguardi demanded $2,500 "protection" from management to bar other unions from picketing shops which signed a "sweetheart" contract with a Dio-controlled union.

Stanley Lehrer, attorney for the Auto Glass Dealers Assn. of New York, told the committee that his 140 to 150 members agreed to pay Dio $25 per employe to ward off jurisdictional picketing which could drive them out of business.

Lehrer said his association—largely composed of one-man shops—capitulated to picketing in the summer of 1955 because truck drivers would not cross the picket lines to deliver the windshield glass they needed daily.

He said the association negotiated a contract with President Harry Reiss of Local 227, United Auto Workers AFL—a union whose New York director was Dio, convicted labor racketeer.

complete, Lehrer said, some of the employers asked how they could avoid being picketed by other unions which had also sought to organize them.

He said Reiss told them Dio was the only man in New York who could help them.

Lehrer said he talked with Dio, who said his firm, Equitable Research Associates Corp., would prevent such jurisdictional picketing for $2,500. He said the association agreed to pay Dio's outfit $8.33 annually for three years for each employe, including owners of one-man shops.

Ike Rejects Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—Republican congressional leaders today pronounced the Senate's civil rights bill "unacceptable" to President Eisenhower. They said they will press for its amendment in a House-Senate conference.

House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) said after a two-hour session between the President and his congressional leaders that House Republicans would line up firmly against an expected Democratic move to win House adoption of the Senate bill as written.

Martin rejected a published report that some Republicans on second thought were leaning toward adoption of the Senate bill without trying to change it.

The fact is, he said, that some members of the Senate—he did not identify them—now are having second thoughts about having voted for the Senate's jury trial amendment that is at the heart of the President's objection to the bill as it stands.

"The bill is unacceptable to the President in its present form," Martin told newsmen after the White House conference.

Veto Not Definite

Asked whether the President said he would veto the measure if it is not further amended, Martin said the President did not say so specifically, but that "you can interpret from his remarks that he probably would veto the bill."

Mrs. Eisenhower Undergoes Surgery

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's wife was operated on this morning at Walter Reed Army Hospital for what the White House described as "a benign condition."

The surgeon was Dr. Humbert L. Riva, a colonel in the Army Medical Corps, a gynecologist.

Mrs. Eisenhower, 59, was reported by White House Press Secretary James C. Hargerty to be in "good condition" following the surgery.

She entered the operating room shortly after 7 a.m. e.s.t. this morning and was removed at 9:15 a.m.

Her admission to the hospital was kept top secret until the President was informed to the results. Eisenhower received news of the successful completion of the operation while he was conferring with Republican congressional leaders at the White House.

Issues Statement
Shortly after the President heard from the hospital, Hargerty issued this statement:

"Mrs. Eisenhower entered Walter Reed Army Hospital yesterday. This morning she underwent an operation for a benign condition, the operation performed by Dr. Humbert L. Riva, Colonel M.C. and it was successful. Mrs. Eisenhower's condition is good."

Pressed by reporters for the precise nature of the first lady's ailment, Hargerty pointed out that Riva was a gynecologist. A gynecologist specializes in women's ailments.

Under late questioning, Hargerty said the operation involved "no" (Continued On Page Six)

Judge Warns Actors To Show In Court

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker warned today he would issue bench warrants and send uniformed officers to haul into court any of the more than 100 subpoenaed movie stars who fail to appear as scheduled at the Confidential magazine criminal libel trial.

The warning came as the trial entered its third day with the selection of a jury still not completed. Both the prosecution and defense hoped to seat a jury sometime today and open testimony.

Walker said he issued the warning because of some reports that reluctant celebrities have indicated that they would ignore subpoenas to appear as "defense wit- (Continued On Page Six)

Ford Official Declares Seat Belts Would Halve Auto Deaths

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Ford Motor Co. official said today use of seat belts in all cars and trucks would cut the nation's highway deaths by more than 50 per cent.

Moreover, he said use of the controversial belts in all cars and trucks would cut in half the number of serious injuries resulting from traffic accidents.

Ford Vice President Robert S. McNamara said in a statement prepared for the House traffic safety subcommittee:

"It is our opinion that the use of seat belts in all cars and trucks on the American road today would reduce the 40,000 fatalities annually to less than 19,000 and would reduce the 1,000,000 serious injuries to no more than 500,000."

Belts Most Effective

Alex L. Haynes, Ford advanced product study director, said in presenting McNamara's statement that "tests and experience have proved beyond all reasonable doubt that seat belts are the most effective single item available in reducing traffic injuries and deaths."

"Ford Motor Company strongly recommends the use of seat belts in all cars and trucks," he said. Haynes said seat belts are "not a panacea for all accidents injuries."

But he said they will "materially reduce critically forces imposed on vehicle occupants at any speed whether the seat belts remain intact or not." He said they also "tend to keep the passenger inside the car" where chances of serious injury are cut 50 per cent.

Haynes said in prepared testimony that Ford has sold more (Continued on Page Six)
