No Bond For Alleged Stabber

Twenty-eight-year-old James Marler has been charged with first degree murder in the death of his stepfather Herman R. Anderson. Knife-wounds took Anderson's life at his home in Meadow township Monday evening.

The accused man, now lodged in jail without benefit of bond, allegedly killed his stepfather in spite of efforts by his own wife and his mother to stop him. His wife reportedly knocked him out of the door with a chair.

Sheriff Barney A. Henry said

Marler, the stepson, has often been convicted of illegal liquor activities. In the past, he said, Marler reportedly had accused his stepfather of tattling on his liquor operations.

The accused man's mother—wife of the man he allegedly killed—said her son first came to the home Monday morning. The first visit was harmless—he was told to come in and get some sleep or go to his nearby home. On his second visit of the morning, he carried a rifle and threatened "to kill them all," his mother claimed. Returning a third time, about noon, he threatened to kill several persons, she said, but she had ma-

Evangelist Preaches On Teenage Violence

Billy Says Christ is Answer

NEW YORK (UP)—Billy Graham outlined plans Tuesday night to help combat the recent outbreak of teenage killings and violence in New York.

"Christ is the only answer to this great problem facing police and social workers," the 38-year-old evangelist said.

Graham said he would devote all six of his Madison Square Garden sermons next week to "New York's number 1 problem," combating violence by teen gangs.

"We're contacting gang leaders and their members and many of them are coming here next week," Graham said.

"We'll have outstanding teenagers from the city here to testify how Christ has revolutionized their lives. One of them will be a former gang leader whose best friend was killed by a rival teen gang."

"If in Moscow the Communists can get thousands of young people to march under the hammer and sickle, surely we can get thousands here in New York to march for Christ."

Graham said that the Protestant Council of New York, one of the organizations sponsoring his New York crusade, is working through social agencies to contact leaders of some of the 60 known teen

Ike To Name Big Soap Man

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower announced today he plans to nominate soap manufacturer Neil H. McElroy to succeed Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defense.

He said the actual nomination will not be made, however, until the Cincinnati businessman passes an extensive but routine government investigation of his fitness for the key Cabinet post.

The President said Wilson notified him some time ago that he wanted to leave the Cabinet before the Defense Department starts this fall to prepare next year's budget.

Eisenhower called McElroy one of the most capable men in America. He is president of Procter and Gamble, a big soap manufacturing concern.

For the past two days he has been conferring with Wilson and other administration officials about the job. He had a brief conference with Eisenhower at the White House Tuesday.

The President's statement confirmed earlier reports that McElroy has agreed to take the post and make whatever disposition of his holdings of securities as required to comply with the "conflict of interest" law.

The 52-year-old business executive left Washington at mid-morning to return aboard his company airplane to Cincinnati.

THEY'RE ON TRIAL—Fred and Marjorie Meade, operators of Hollywood Research Inc., pass a police line at the hearing of Confidential and Whisper magazines in Los Angeles. More than 100 leading movie stars and filmland figures are under subpoena—all on "two hour" call—awaiting the defense attempt to prove the truth of spicy stories about them. The Meades are charged with conspiracy to commit libel.

Stars To Testify On Scandal

Confidential Trial Getting Underway

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., (UP)—The first of a parade of witnesses that may include more than 100 reluctant movie stars take the stand today at the Confidential Magazine criminal libel trial which the state ropes to "keep clean."

The prosecution and defense late Tuesday finally settled on a jury of seven men and five women after three days of questioning 71 prospective jurors. The trial was to open its fourth session with opening arguments today followed by testimony from prosecution witnesses.

New York bankers Anthony Ragan and Max Buchwalter were expected to be the first to take the stand. The men at the grand jury hearing testified that numerous checks were issued by Confidential Magazine to Hollywood Research, Inc.

The state charged defendants Fred and Marjorie Meade operated Hollywood Research as a gossip-gathering agency for Confidential. The Meades maintain that they are on trial rather than the magazine.

More than 100 celebrities have been subpoenaed to appear as 'de-

Jayne Mansfield Goes To Congress

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congress copes all right with atoms, budgets and civil rights. But when it comes to the curvaceous blonde, the greatest deliberative body in the world is tongue-tied.

At least that's what happened Tuesday when actress Jayne Mansfield showed up in the U. S. Capitol with her husky small voice, platinum hair falling over her eyes and her famous 40-18-35 figure displayed to advantage in a tight blue sweater and pink skirt. The figures are inches around the bust, waist and hips in that order.

RAYBURN GRINS
Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson blushed and stammered. Seventy-five-year-old House speaker Sam Rayburn grinned like a schoolboy. Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) offered her a coonskin cap.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) left the field in confusion when she called him "cute." Talkative Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) chewed on his pipe in silent and contemplative appreciation.

Observers agreed that in terms of her effect on the intrepid lawmakers it was like Grant taking Richmond. Only Miss Mansfield led her attack in teetering white sequin—trimmed spike—heeled shoes that required publicity agents at each elbow to help her

Agreement Needed For Disarmament

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today that world disarmament would follow almost automatically from any East-West agreement to free the world from the fear of surprise attack.

If progress is made on relieving the world of the fear of surprise attack, the President said this would be the greatest ray of hope on the dark world scene since he has been in the White House.

Eisenhower told his news conference that he has the utmost hope that Russia will agree to the latest American Allied proposals for aerial and ground inspection zones. These proposals were put before Russia by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at the London disarmament talks.

Other major points in his news conference:

He said Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson had notified him some time ago that he wanted to quit before work started this fall on a new budget. He said he expected to name Cincinnati soap manufacturer Neil H. McElroy to replace Wilson, if McElroy passes a thorough government investigation of his qualifications.

The jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill as adopted by the Senate would seriously hamper the operation of the federal courts system. He declined to say whether he would veto the rights bill if it reaches him in the Senate

Russian Spy Is Indicted

NEW YORK (AP)—A Brooklyn federal grand jury indicted Rudolph Ivanovich Abel, a Russian citizen arrested in McAllen, Tex., on spy charges today in connection with collecting national defense secrets for the Soviet Union.

Abel was reported to have been held on charges of transporting photographs, photo negatives, maps and notes on the U. S. national defense system. Some of the information was described as atomic energy program data.

The grand jury named four co-conspirators in the indictment, but not as defendants.

It was not known immediately whether Abel's activities were connected with the espionage ring headed by confessed spy Jack Soble. Soble, his wife, Myra, and Jacob Albam are scheduled to be sentenced on conspiracy charges in federal court, Manhattan, Friday.

Abel is scheduled for arraignment in Edinburg, Tex., this afternoon before U. S. Commissioner J. C. Hall. He was held in McAllen's house of detention for aliens.
