Alvis-Collins Vows Are Spoken In Angier

The Angier Baptist Church was the setting Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock for the wedding of Miss Shirley Collins and Jerry Alvis, Elder Jimmy Collins, assisted by the Rev. Lewis Beal, used the double ring ceremony.

Music was presented by Mrs. Roy Williams Jr., pianist, and Mrs. Whit Morgan, soloist.

Mrs. Roy Lee Earp of Richmond, Va., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a ballerina length princess style gown of turquoise crystaletta taffeta with matching shoes and face veil, topped with pearls.

Charlotte Collins of Raleigh and Nancy Elizabeth of Fuquapine, neices of the bride, were flower girls. They wore white nylon or-gandy dresses over pink with embroidered pink roses on the bodice. Ring bearer was Thomas Greene Collins Jr. of Raleigh, nephew of the bride. He carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Collins of Angier; Mrs. Thomas White Jr. of Greensboro; Miss Jane Ryley of Onancock, Va.; and Miss Pearla Ann Revele of Woodland. They wore ballerina length gowns like that of the matron of honor and carried fan bouquets of pink and white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Thomas G. Collins of Raleigh, wore her sister's gown of gossamer nylon tulle and imported rosepoint chantilly lace over ustrous bridal satin fashioned with a long-sleeved pointed bodice and a scalloped picturesque neckline trimmed with tracings of seed pearls and spalescent sequins. The full skirt with red-tinge panels of scalloped lace merged into a back fan effect sweeping out into a cathedral train.

Her two-tier fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a tizara of opalescent sequins and seed pearls like those on the bodice of the gown. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of tuberoses and stephanotis centered with two white orchids. Her only ornaments were tiny pearl earrings and an heirloom sapphire brooch belonging to her maternal grandmother.

The bridegroom had his father as best man. Ushers were Joe Collins, brother of the bride; Joseph Creech Jr. of Selma; Willard Hinant of Pine Level; and Alton E. James of Robersonville.

The bride's mother wore an afternoon gown of light green and white chiffon over taffait with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother.

For travel, the bride wore a two-piece dress of black silk shantung with matching black and white bag, and white gloves. Her corsage was of orchids.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Furman G. Collins of Angier and the late Mr. Collins. She was graduated from the University of North Carolina in June, where she was a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority.

Mr. Alvis is the son of Carl Alvis of Richwood, W. Va., and Mrs. C. R. Gray of Princeton, W. Va. He is at present a student at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where he is a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, pursuing a degree in advertising.

After a wedding trip in the Smoky Mountains of Tennessee, the couple will be at home in Chapel Hill.
