Three Drivers Injured In Labor Day Race

DARLINGTON, S. C. (UP) Three drivers were injured today in a spectacular three-car crash that interrupted the running of the Southern 500-mile stock car race.

Barely half an hour after the 11 a. m. start of the race, a Pontiac driven by Fonty Flock of Atlanta, Ga., tangled on the third turn of the 28th lap with an Oldsmobile driven by Bobby Myers of Winston-Salem, N. C., and a Ford driven by Paul Goldsmith of St. Clair Shores, Mich.

All three drivers were injured. Ambulances rushed them to a hospital at Florence, S. C.

Myers was reported in serious condition. He was still in surgery at 1:15 p. m. Flock and Goldsmith were sitting up in bed at the hospital, apparently not critically hurt.

False Report Broadcast—FYI it was announced at the Darlington race track that driver Bobby Myers was dead at a hospital in Florence, S. C. The hospital later said this report was erroneous. The hospital is not taking calls to check on the injured drivers.

Myers Has Relatives In Dunn—The three-way collision demolished all three cars and halted action temporarily in the Labor Day stock car classic.

At the time of the accident, Cotton Owens of Spartanburg, S. C., a three-time winner of the Darlington race, was leading with an average speed of 109.51 miles an hour. He was driving a Pontiac.

The smallest field in the 91st-year history of the 500-mile race participated in the event, witnessed by a crowd of some 75,000 persons.

Only 52 starters answered the starting gun at the international raceway. Of the original 60 entrants, eight either were not smashed up in qualifying heats to race for the money or failed to pass inspection by the National Association of Stock Car Auto Racing.

Winners will split a purse of $53,285.

Last Sermon Heard By Largest Crowd In History

NEW YORK (UP)—The largest crowd in the history of modern evangelism jammed Times Square Sunday night to hear Billy Graham deliver the farewell sermon of his New York crusade.

The 38-year-old preacher said he came to "the crossroads of the world," a place frequented by dope addicts, alcoholics and harlots, as well as "the finest citizens in the world," to make Times Square a symbol of the religious revival in America.

Police estimated the crowd at approximately 75,000 persons but Graham, in a statement later challenged the figure.

Questions Attendance—"Before I went to the rostrum I was told the attendance was over 200,000," Graham said. "Certainly to anyone present the attendance was far more than 75,000. I do not think anyone will ever know exactly how many were present but I'm certain it was the largest it has ever been my privilege to address."

Winding up his crusade in what he calls "the most unchurched city" in America, Graham told his followers, many of whom have attended nearly every one of his meetings:

"On the theater marquees here at Times Square, we can see many inscriptions that describe the condition psychologically, materially and spiritually of millions today.

Names Movies
The movies he named were "The Ten Commandments," "The Lonely Man," "The Walking Dead."

Broadway was jammed with crowds from 42nd Street south to Herald Square. Side streets were filled with persons who could not see the proceedings but listened to them over loudspeakers.

It was Graham's 100th sermon in 15 1-2 weeks of evangelizing in the nation's most populous city.

More than 50,000 persons have made "decisions for Christ" at crusade meetings that cost $2,500,000 to hold."

Banks Aiding Small Firms

RALEIGH—An agency established last year at the urging of Governor Hodges has received $681,000 from North Carolina banks to be used for loans to small business firms in this State.

The North Carolina Bankers Association reported today that every Tar Heel bank holding membership in the "Business Development Corporation of North Carolina" had provided money for the corporation promptly upon call.

The corporation was authorized by the 1955 legislature and established in 1956. Banks provide most of the lending capital used by the corporation.

Banks in effect lend the money to the corporation which, in turn, lends it to small business firms for the purpose of getting started or expanding. The loans are of a long-term nature which banks cannot make under the law.

Banks could make a greater profit by using funds for short-term loans, but they agreed to lend money to the corporation in order to generate more business activity in this State, the bankers association said.

Ironically, the corporation's call for bank money came just a few months after the State had withdrawn all of its invested funds from N. C. banks in order to obtain a fractional advantage in interest rates.

This action by the State contributed heavily to a drop in N. C. bank resources as of June 6. Resources were down by $63 million on June 6 as compared with last year.
