NASHVILLE SCHOOL IS DYNAMITED

THEY'VE LAPPED HER—Not so many years ago Mrs. Hubert A. Register (at left in black and white dress) and the husband of Mrs. Charles Norris (center, seated, with two children) were being taught by Mrs. Thad Pope. Now they've lapped her—gotten married, had children, sent them to her to be taught.

Mrs. Register came to school last week to introduce her daughter, Lillian Fay, 6, Mrs. Norris brought her son Randy, 6, and two-year-old Gloria came along for the ride. Mrs. Pope (standing, right) no aged schoolmarm by any means, cheerfully accepted these second generation students. (Daily Record Photo by Ted Crail.)

3 Men Arrested, Armed With Billy Club, Machete

NASHVILLE, Tenn., (UP)—A thunderous dynamite blast demolished a newly-integrated school here early today, climaxing a day and night of demonstrations and violence protesting racial mixing at the first-grade level.

Police later arrested three white men sitting in a car near another of the seven Nashville grade schools that were integrated Monday. Officers said a detonator was found in front of a school about an hour before school opening time.

The car was plastered with Ku Klux Klan signs. Inside, police found a billy club and a machete—a large heavy knife of the variety used to chop through South American jungles.

Seven persons demonstrating around other Nashville schools today were arrested for disorderly conduct. Scores of students stayed away from classes on this second day of the school year here.

Parents' Boycott

An early check indicated that a boycott of the schools by white parents was spreading. Glenn School Principal Mary Brent said "200 at most" were present of 550 enrolled. At Fehr school observers doubted that more than 20 had reported. Attendance at others with Negro pupils was slim.

The four Negro children who enrolled at Jones school Monday were reported in classes, and one or two were at Fehr. Classes began at Glenn with no Negroes present.

The $500,000 Hattie Cotton School, where one Negro child began attending classes Monday, was shattered at 12:45 a. m. by a dynamite explosion that left only the exterior walls standing. No one was injured but nearby residents were knocked from their beds and windows were blown out over an area of several blocks.

Police officials, angry over the early morning school bombing roped off integrated elementary schools and in some instances let nobody through the lines but the youngsters themselves. Even the parents accompanying them were turned back.

Six persons—some carrying signs and others riding in cars—were arrested at the Glenn school, site of jeering and rock throwing Monday.

'Patience At End' On Faubus

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., (UP)—The federal government's patience ran out on Gov. Orval E. Faubus today and the Justice Department filed an injunction petition against him for his continued defiance of school integration orders.

The petition, which could eventually bring Faubus into open court, was requested Monday by U. S. District Judge Ronald Davies. The judge is expected to issue an order in the case soon.

The action, which must travel through legal court processes, came too late to give Negroes a chance to enroll in a controversial high school here this semester.

The Justice Department asked for both temporary and permanent injunctions against Faubus. Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, state adjutant general who is commander of the National Guard, and Lt. Col. Marion T. Johnson, unit commander of troops Faubus has used to prevent integration of Central High School.

Faubus Stand Secret

Faubus, who claims his action was taken to preserve the peace and prevent violence, has not disclosed whether he will willingly accept a subpoena from the government.

The Justice Department petition did not request a temporary restraining order against the governor, apparently dismissing the chance for an early court showdown between the government and the Arkansas state officials.

President Eisenhower, gravely worried over the trouble in Arkansas, chose an avenue of patient waiting in hope the situation would clear up in Little Rock without the necessity for drastic federal measures.

Davies was expected to set a hearing date for some time next week on the government's petition.

The Justice Department cited six points in which it contended the governor and his military officers had prevented integration at strife-torn Central High in violation of U. S. court mandates!

Points of Violation

1. The governor's order to General Clinger a week ago ordering the officer to place the school off limits to Negro pupils and Negro schools off limits to white students.

2. It named ten students it said were "forcibly prevented" from entering classes at Central High. (Continued on Page Five)

SANTA MONICA, Calif., (UP)—Charles Lee Guy III, 19, son of a Dunn, N. C., attorney, today was scheduled to be arraigned on charges of murdering his mother's sweetheart, 45-year-old meat packing firm executive Guy Roberts.

Guy was ordered held for arraignment at a preliminary hearing Aug. 22. He is accused of killing Roberts with a shotgun in a Santa Monica motel on Aug. 15.

At the preliminary hearing the youth claimed that police obtained a confession from him under duress. He is being defended by his father, Charles Lee Guy Jr., a public prosecutor from Dunn, and attorney Hugh Kelly.

Enrollment Up 60 Students

Fates Kind To Dunn Schools

The fates smiled warmly on Dunn High School as it swung last week into the new school year.

Despite the teacher shortage, a last-minute break kept the high school from being without a band director. Popular Harvey Bosell, who had given warning that he was taking a Civil Service job in West Virginia, changed his mind the day before school opened.

"He decided he wanted to stay here because of his family," said Principal of Schools A. B. Johnson.

Accomplished band directors are a rarity and the high school was having no luck in seeking a replacement for Bosell. By the time school opened, though, all the teacher and classspace problems were resolved—at least temporarily.

On the third day of school—which was last Thursday—Johnson found that total enrollment at Wayne Avenue, Magnolia Avenue and the high school building was running to an even 1600, some 60 more than last year.

But additional classrooms have eased the situation which prevailed last year when students had to be staked out in nearby churches (Continued on Page Five)

Dulles Predicting Peace In Syria

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today he believes the crisis in Syria will be settled peacefully.

Dulles emphasized that the United States does not favor peace at any price, and is ready to act, if necessary, to meet Russia's efforts to undermine the independence of Middle East states.

He spoke as major elements of the powerful U. S. 6th Fleet patrolled the "east-central Mediterranean" and jet fighters and other arms were being sent to several Middle East countries.

Administration officials said the U. S. plane deliveries are in various stages. A dozen speedy F86 Sabre jets already have been flown into Saudi Arabia.

No Armed Force

Dulles, at a news conference, virtually ruled out the use of armed force by this country under the Eisenhower Doctrine—unless the situation becomes much worse.

He said he does not believe there will be outright aggression by Syria. Should it occur, he added, it could be dealt with by nations in the area.

ALLEN REUNION — The Elam G. and Malisse Allen Memorial Reunion will be held October 6th at Holt Lake. All descendants of the late Elam and Malissa Allen are cordially invited to come and bring well filled baskets.

It is the first movie for the comedian-director since he left the United States five years ago under a cloud because of his alleged pro-Communist sympathies. (Continued on Page Five)

Hurricane Carrie's Punch Diminishes

See Cartoon On Page Six

MIAMI (UP)—Hurricane Carrie unexpectedly lost some of its punch today. Its winds diminished from 160 to 130 miles per hour as it churned the Atlantic about 1,900 miles east-southeast of Florida.

A Navy hurricane hunter which investigated the powerful storm this morning reported a slight rise in pressure. This indicated the storm had lost some force.

But forecaster Paul Moore of the weather bureau's hurricane center here said the lessening of Carrie's force is "nothing unusual for hurricanes far out at sea."

"It doesn't mean that Carrie is dying out," he said. "In fact there is a good chance that it will pick up some of its force it lost during the next few days as it moves closer to the mainland."

A Navy Constellation plane located the center of the storm at 11 a.m. near Latitude 19.5 north, Longitude 51.8 west, about 950 miles east-northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico. It was moving in a west-northwest direction at the slow speed of nine miles per hour.

The San Juan weather bureau advisory said the storm would probably pick up speed slightly to 10 miles an hour and continue in the same direction.

Man Is Digging For Gold In Western Harnett

There might be gold in them thar hills. At any rate, Dougald McLeod aims to find out if there is any—them thar hills being just beyond Broadway something like half a mile from Mt. Pisgah church.

Down on a creek bank in the midst of his 70-acre tract of land, McLeod is looking for gold. He has had a bulldozer clear the land around the site of an old mine shaft where his father once searched for the precious metal.
