Sec. Benson Gets Pelted With Eggs

SIoux FALLS, S. D. (UP) — Gov. Joe Foss has demanded full prosecution of a band of embittered farmers who pelted Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson with eggs.

Benson barely escaped being hit by a half-dozen eggs which showered on the platform Thursday as he made a speech demanding repeal of federal price support floors on corn and other major crops.

One splattered over his hat and another smeared Foss' suit. Benson was addressing about 7,500 farmers who had gathered for the National Mechanical Corn Picking Contest which begins today. Ten cornbelt states are entered in the "World's Fair of Agriculture."

Despite the shellin from the group, Benson went on to finish his speech while state troopers picked their way through the crowd and nabbed five men who admitted throwing the eggs.

Later, he said "It's nothing — let's forget about it."

Foss apparently didn't intend to forget about it and made it known he intended to have the men prosecuted. "The next time they might throw bricks," he said.

Elephants Kill Three, Injure 12

SAIGON (UP) — A wounded elephant led an assault on a South Viet Nam village killing three persons and injuring 12 others, Saigon newspapers said today.

The enraged elephant first attacked the village alone and then returned with seven other elephants for a massive assault, the reports said.

The elephant warfare destroyed part of a village near Pleiku, about 230 miles north of Saigon.

According to the reports, an elephant wounded by a hunter chased the man to his village. The elephant battered the hunter's house, injuring five persons.

The hunter escaped injury and fired several more shots at the elephant. The elephant fled but returned three hours later with reinforcements.

These elephants killed three persons, injured seven others and destroyed 23 houses, the newspapers said.

FARM WAGES RISE

A department farm labor report indicated wages of hired farm hands since the 1910-14 period have risen more than twice as much as the prices farmers received for crops and livestock.

Lawyer Says He Has Been In Daze

Ottis Jackson Sent To State Hospital

Superior Court Judge Lee Carr today signed an order committing Ottis Jackson to the State Hospital at Dix Hill for a mental examination.

The widely known bootlegger and ex-convict is awaiting trial for assault on his wife with intent to kill in a dramatic shooting episode that occurred last summer.

The Dunn man seriously wounded his wife and resisted officers at gunpoint when they attempted to take him into custody early in July.

Officers had to use tear gas to rout the Jackson from his home.

Indictments were returned against Jackson as the last term of court. One charge assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill and another charge simple assault.

The order directs of confinement of Jackson in the State Hospital for 30 days.

During this time doctors will determine whether or not he is mentally capable of standing trial.

The mental examination for Jackson was requested by Defense Attorneys Duncan C. Wilson and Bill Johnson. The petition for his admission to the State Hospital was signed by his sister, Mrs. Rittie Wood of South Erwin and by Dr. J. K. Williford and Dr. A. W. Peede, both of Lillington.

Attorney Willson said today that Jackson is clearly insane. He said the man has been "in a daze" ever since the dramatic crime occurred, and that he is incapable of cooperating with defense attorneys or anyone else.

Jackson has spent some time in the Veterans Hospital.

Annette Dionne Married

MONTREAL (UP) — Annette Dionne, one of the four surviving quintuplets, and a 24-year-old finance company executive were married today to the popping of flashbulbs by photographers who invaded the private church ceremony.

Despite efforts to keep the wedding strictly private, nearly two dozen photographers and reporters had found open at the rear of the church and joined the small wedding party around the altar where the ceremony already was under way.

The Rev. Germain-Marie Lallonde did not halt the proceedings but glanced with sharp annoyance at the newsmen.

Three policemen were on guard in front of the modernistic, year-old Notre Dame de Sallette Church, but no one watched the rear.

Annette and the bridegroom, Germain Allard, 24, had hoped to confine the service to a small group of relatives and friends they had invited. A table in the church basement was set for only 25 persons for a champagne lunch.

The couple wore brown suits cut from the same bolt of cloth. Annette wore a white hat and carried a large bouquet of red and pink roses. Allard had a white carnation in his buttonhole.

Annette, 23, thus left the fame of her girlhood behind and embraced what she hoped would be the anonymous role of housewife.

She was nervous during the ceremony, and trembled as she signed the register, almost dropping the pen.

Two Other Quints There

Only two of the other quintuplets, Marie and Cecile, were there. Yvonne was in a hospital with Asian flu. Emilie died during an epileptic seizure on Aug. 6, 1954.

Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Dionne, parents of the quints, came to Montreal from Callander, Ont., and Annette walked to the altar on the arm of her father, Allard's father, Pierre Allard, a janitor in Drummondville, Que., was best man.

Wedding guests entered the modernistic Notre Dame de Sallette church by invitation only. Police were on hand to keep all others out, including a small army of newsmen and photographers.

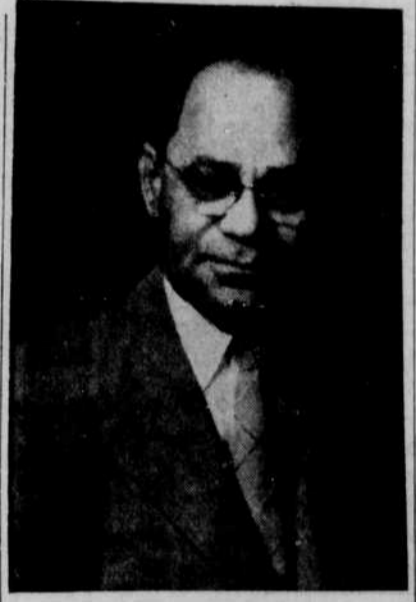

A reception in the form of a champagne lunch was held in the church basement following the ceremony.

Other officers for the county Association are: Mrs. L. E. McKnight of Buie's Creek, Vice-president; Mrs. H. C. Turlington of Dunn, Treasurer; and Mrs. Roy Cameron of Erwin, Executive secretary. Also on the executive board are Dr. C. W. Byrd of Dunn, and J. K. Bruton of Erwin. Representatives from all sections of the county are included on the Board of Directors.

Trial Of $100,000 Damage Suit On Trial of a personal injury suit for $100,000 as a result of alleged brain injury, appeared apt to continue until late Friday in Harnett Superior Court.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Wimberly have brought suit against Marcelle Brown to recover compensation for injuries received by their young son Ronnie. The child was hurt in an automobile truck collision on January 23, 1956 near Lillington.

The boy then two years old was riding in his mother lap in a pick-up truck along the Johnsonville Road when the Brown car allegedly ignored a stop sign on the Flat Branch Road and hit the truck.

The same case ended in a mistrial at an earlier term of Court. Taylor and Morgan appear for the plaintiff and Franklin Dupree, Jr. for the defendant.

The State Highway Patrol R. B. Leonard and Mr. and Mrs. Wimberly had completed their testimony before the noon recess. Testimony of medical experts as the extend of the brain injury to the child was expected to follow.

Meanwhile a revised calendar was set for next week, when Judge Zeb Vance Nettles of Asheville will serve as judge.

A mistrial was declared yesterday in a suit brought by H. E. Honeycutt against his former landlords W. R. and John Sorell, Jr., Honeycutt alleged that he being dismissed in the middle of the farming season resulted in the loss of expected earning for him and his family.

At the last criminal court assault charges brought by the same defendant was heard. The Sorrell men were acquitted by a jury.

Mechanical Brain Aids Science Study

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP) — A robot moonwatcher today fixed precisely for the first time the orbit of the Russian satellite's rocket.

An IBM mechanical brain, working nightlong, determined that orbit on the basis of photographs and visual observations of the rocket which trails the world-girdling satellite.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek of the Smithsonian astrophysical observatory said the orbit previously had been estimated by radio signals.

"But this," he said, "is the first orbit derived from actual photo and visual observation. It is subject to change, however, as we do further checking on the data."

Getting Somewhere

"This means that we're really getting places in our studies of the satellite."

The mechanical brain is set up at nearby Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

On the basis of the computations, Hynek said, the "period of the third stage rocket the time it takes for the missile to circle the globe is 96.03 minutes. The third stage rocket traverses the globe almost exactly 15 times a day."

He said the minimum altitude was figured at 143 miles and the top altitude at 583 miles.

Scientists now will be able to predict accurately when the rocket will zoom over a given point on the globe, Hynek said. Previously, the observations were limited to estimates which had proven relatively accurate.

Credit to Brain

Hynek said much credit goes to the machine itself. "There were no flaws whatsoever in the machine operation," he said.

Dr. Gian Rossoni, satellite coordinator for IBM, directed a six-man team doing the computation work.

Earlier today, four scientists on a rooftop here spotted what they believed was the rocket but a group of observers in a plane missed the show.

IBM data was compiled and processed through the night and the machine produced an answer in 21 seconds. The same computations would have taken a 12-man crew eight hours to work out the equations for the answer. The machine makes 40,000 calculations per second.

Todd Gets TV Plug

Mike Todd's party next Thursday for the first birthday of "Around the World in 80 Days" subtitle "The Son of Sputnik" won't be as costly as everyone seems to think. The rental of Ma-
