Welcomed By Ike, Given Ovation

WASHINGTON (UP) — Queen Elizabeth II of England and her husband came to the White House as guests of the American nation today, leading an hour-long parade through the capital.

The cheers of thousands of residents and visitors to the city followed them along a winding route until they were greeted by their hostess, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

President Eisenhower had gone to the airport to meet the royal couple and accompany them to his residence.

Mrs. Eisenhower, wearing a peony-red wool jersey dress and red shoes, came forward and greeted her most famous house-guests with hand-shakes.

"How do you do? Glad to see you, and glad to welcome you here," Mrs. Eisenhower said.

They posed for pictures, then entered the mansion.

The couple reached the White House an hour and 28 minutes after they stepped from their plane.

Break in Security

Only one incident marred the welcome.

A woman in a gray suit broke from the police line and rushed toward the Queen's car and attempted to present a coral-colored rose to her. Police and Secret Service men immediately converged and moved the woman hurriedly back into line. She seemed shaken and near tears as the motorcade moved on.

Shortly before the motorcade rolled into the White House driveway the three oldest Eisenhower grandchildren — David, Barbara Anne and Susan—took turns peeping out from an upstairs window.

"In the warm and strong cooperation between your country and ours lies the best hope for the security and peace of the world," the President told the Queen at the airport.

The queen, responding to the President's welcome, brought greetings from "my peoples of every race and creed in the British Commonwealth of nations."

All air traffic stopped and engines were silenced during a 20-minute airport ceremony in which

THE BURIAL GROUND—Homecoming and a game against Lumberton faces Dunn High tomorrow. To make sure all of the student body have the right idea, a "burial ground" for the Lumberton football team has been established. There are eleven marked graves. Becky Sue Cannady made a solicitous visit yesterday but didn't seem to be in mourning. Becky Sue is one of 13 girls in the race for the Homecoming Queen title, winner to be announced at half-time tomorrow night. (Record Photo by Ted Crail.)

Completing 'Chain of Evidence'

Taking Gainey Clues To FBI

Two Cumberland County officers are making plans to drive to Washington, D. C., where extensive laboratory tests will be made of clues in the death of 13-year-old Jackie Gainey of Linden.

Highway Patrolman J. L. Wilson, who has led the investigation into the boy's death, said that he and L. M. Williams of the Cumberland County bureau of identification expect to drive to the capital.

They will put in the hands of the FBI dirt from the scene and dirt from the underside of the old Buick which authorities now believe was the car that hit the youth, on the way home from a Scout meeting at the time of his death on Monday night.

Clothing, paint scrapings from the car and a blood sample also will be examined in the FBI laboratories.

Patrolman Wilson said he has talked with Dr. Floyd Cameron of Fayetteville who performed an autopsy on Tuesday.

"From all indications, the boy was run over," said Wilson, "and was down in the road at the time."

His past medical history may explain why the boy was down in the road but the patrol has no definite information on that as yet.

Patrolman Wilson said he expects the trip to Washington will "complete the chain of evidence" which will be presented to a coroner's jury next Thursday.

Three Harnett Negroes were arrested after a check on the whereabouts of a Buick seen in the vicinity on the day of the boy's death was traced to them. Under questioning, the three recalled hitting something in the road but claimed they had thought it was a log until they learned a boy had been killed in the area.

James Pitkins, a pulp wood worker, was allegedly the driver of the Buick and accompanied by Malcolm Smith, 53, and son, Luther Smith, 28. All live on Erwin, Route 1. They are under $1000 bond each.

While officers pushed forward with their investigation, the family prepared to hold funeral services for the boy on Friday morning at 11 o'clock from Sardis Presbyterian Church in Linden.

Jackie's sister, Larue, married on Saturday, has returned from Florida from her honeymoon to attend the funeral. The family

Cotton Belt Solons Advised To Unite

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Thomas G. Abernethy (D-Miss.) urged other Cotton Belt congressmen today to unite next January in a drive to head off future cuts in federal cotton planting allotments.

Abernethy said he saw little chance for other proposed changes in the government's price support and production control program for cotton. He said he will seek to extend an act pegging 1957

Actress To Fight For Foster Baby

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Grief-stricken Marie Wilson was reported in bed and under a nurse's care today over prospects of losing her 3-month-old foster child to the baby's unwed mother.

The actress was put to bed after tearfully promising to fight with every legal means to keep Christine, the black-eyed little girl she has cared for since she was three

McLamb Wins Trip To The West Coast

Announcement has just been made that C. E. McLamb, International Harvester dealer in Dunn, will be awarded luxurious all-expense trips, or cash award, for himself and Mrs. McLamb to Los Angeles later this month. Announcement was made by Harvester's district farm equipment sales office in Charlotte, N. C.

Mr. McLamb won the Pacific Coast vacation for outstanding sales performance this year on retail deliveries of Farmall and International tractors and McCormick combines and balers.

While in Los Angeles, the McLamb will be royally entertained at the famous Moulin Rouge Cafe, attend sessions of the National Re-

Diplomats Fear Russia May Blunder War

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) — Western diplomats expressed concern today that Russia might blunder into World War II over the Syrian situation.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko charged late Wednesday that the United States is "prodding" Turkey to attack Syria after Turkey's Oct. 27 elections. He pledged Russian aid to Syria and said war might break out "at any moment."

Western diplomats said Gromyko's accusations, couched in the bluntest language, indicated the Soviet Union felt it was dealing from a position of power because of Sputnik.

Such overconfidence could cause the Russians to stumble over their

Red Cross Plans County-Wide Dinner

Plans were announced today to hold a county-wide dinner meeting, Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 7 p. m. at the Lillington School cafeteria to effect the re-organization of the Harnett Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Purpose of the meeting is to form a permanent board with representatives from each township. Such a board would meet regularly to receive information about the work of the Red Cross within the county, and to become better acquainted with the over-all program

Just thirteen years old, Anne Jackson is about as young as a bathing beauty can be. Yet she was the winner by audience acclaim on Tuesday night of the title, "Miss Country Fair."

The Lions Club chose to hold this contest, part of their big annual variety show, in the same week that the state fair at Raleigh was importing beauties and Julius LaRosa to bring on the crowds.

Well, Anne may never get fired by Arthur Godfrey but this smoothly-formed eighth-grader, dark-skinned and the possessor of glowing eyes, is quite an attraction, too.

Smallest Baby Gaining Weight

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—A baby believed to be the smallest ever born alive in the United States is gaining weight steadily in her incubator home at St. Joseph's Hospital here.

Linda Marie Winchester weighed only 17 1/2 ounces when born July 31. Today she weighs 2 lbs., 11 1/2 ounces.

The little girl's bid for life has been touch and go. When born, according to head nurse Virginia Mecikalski, Linda's chances of living longer than 72 hours were one in a thousand.

After that, the nurse said, her chances were only 50-50 until she was given a blood transfusion when she was 45 days old.

Miss Mecikalski said when the tiny girl was born, the premature ward didn't even have diapers to fit. She was too small.

But now Linda wears the tiny diaper uniform of the other premature babies and gives a good account of herself at mealtime.

It Really Would Pop Up Parade

MONROE (UP)—The Chamber of commerce, searching for its annual Christmas parade, said today it has wired the Russian embassy requesting that the "Sputnik" satellite pass over Monroe on Nov. 29.

However, parade chairman H. R. Johnson said he holds little hope that "Sputnik" will replace Santa as the feature attraction of the parade.
