Sputnik Sure To Increase U. S. Spending

WASHINGTON (UP) — Speculation may as well cease about where the Red Sputnik will fall, when it falls.

The Red Sputnik will fall upon and flatten the United States taxpayer's pocketbook, flatten that already-flat pocketbook even flatter.

No one in the administration is complacent about that although, from President Eisenhower down, the evidence is in that the lid of government spending is likely to be blown off again. Blown off and away with the lid surely would be any chance of tax reductions soon or, maybe, ever in the lifetimes of any but the very young.

Likewise may be blown away such progress as has been made under the Republican Eisenhower administration toward continued sequence of balanced budgets. And blown, too, will be such opportunity as may be offered to check and control inflation by the reduction of government expenditures.

Abortion Kills Fayetteville Student

Girl Blames 'Woman In Dunn'

A 17-year-old Fayetteville colored girl, who told her doctor that she "went to a woman in Dunn," died yesterday as the result of a criminal abortion.

Cumberland County Coroner Alph Clark didn't name the girl. He said that she was a high school student and had gone to a doctor on Tuesday to complain of being ill.

The Negro physician, Dr. Wesley Allen, told the coroner he advised the girl to enter a hospital immediately. He said he had found her to be badly infected from a crude abortion attempt.

Her only statement to Dr. Allen about who had performed the abortion was that she "went to a woman in Dunn."

Chief Alton Cobb, head of the Dunn police force, said Cumberland County officials had not contacted him but, "They probably will if that's what the girl said."

In past months there have been "one or two reports" of abortion practice here, said Chief Cobb, but there has never been evidence available on which to base an arrest.

He saw no connection between the present death and that of Naomi Wilkins some months ago. The Wilkins girl, who died at a drive-in for reason attributed to a faulty abortion, lived in Dunn.

Chief Cobb said the police had formed suspicions of who was responsible but were unable to secure evidence that would lead to a conviction. He said it was unlikely that the abortions on the Wilkins girls and the Negro girl in Fayetteville had been performed by the same person.

Briefing On Pince Give U. S. Satellite

WASHINGTON (UP) — Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip, basking in the welcome given them by the heart of democracy, set out today on a brisk round of activities that include lunch with Vice President Nixon and dinner with Secretary of State Dulles.

It was the second day of the royal couple's four-day state visit to the nation's capital. Already they had found this city, biased about most visiting celebrities, warm to a pretty queen and a handsome prince.

President Eisenhower, toasting the British sovereign and her husband at a sumptuous White House banquet Thursday night, said this country's respect for Britain was "epitomized in the affection we have for the royal family."

And Eisenhower took the occasion to make what may become the West's answer to Russia's earth satellite. Labeling the scientific and cultural assets of the free world far greater than those of Communism, he called for a new scientific alliance within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to meet the threat of Russia's missile and space achievements.

Toast Ike The gorgeously-gowned young Queen, who toasted Eisenhower and wished him "every possible health and happiness," also did not ignore the scientific excitement caused by the Soviet "Sputnik." She pledged Britain's cooperation in the "new age of discovery and exploration in the technology" beginning to unfold. Her majesty, incidentally, unwittingly contributed to the first snafu of her visit to the New World. The meticulous British Information Service had announced that the Queen wore to the White House dinner her "maple leaf of worn to a reception in Canada. Ab about 3 a.m. the embarrassed British Information Service telephoned news agencies to say she hadn't worn that dress at all — it was another of some similar features. Council Agrees With Principal, Want Officer At Ball Games

These Little Things

By HOOVER ADAMS

PERCY'S ON SPUTNIK; OTHER LITTLE NOTES.

The whereabouts of Percy Flowers, Johnston County's reputed bootleg king, is no longer a mystery, according to a hot tip received today by Janice Partin of The Daily Record staff. "I've known it all along," said the informant. "Percy's up there cruising around on Sputnik." Said he was surveying his far-flung distillery operations and tobacco acreage.

Somebody spoke up and said he must have paid the Russians a pretty fancy price for a ride like that.

"Paid them like Hell," said the informant. "Percy owns the damned thing. Bought it with the profit from two of his whiskey stills located right outside Dunn." (Continued On Page Two)

A statement from Principal of Schools A. B. Johnson that it is usually adult patrons at the football games who "cause difficulty," the Dunn council last night agreed to place a policeman in uniform at future grid-iron contests.

They also told City Manager A. B. Uzzle, Jr., to see if the county would assign two officers to give protection at the ball games.

Discussion of a letter from the principal calling attention to the fact that police were wanted centered around the short supply of policemen. Only two patrolmen are out on the streets at the time the football games are played. Assigning one to the game means the other will have to work alone.

City Manager Uzzle said today that the policeman are used to working in pairs with the patrol and "will be reluctant" to split up during the ball games.

"From time to time," wrote Principal Johnson, "I have spoken to Chief Cobb of the police department and to Mr. Fail or other policemen about being present at most the same, that they are short athletic events. The answer is all (Continued On Page Two)

Shady Grove Slated Its Harvest Day

Shady Grove, one of the oldest Original Free Will Baptist churches in eastern North Carolina, will observe its regular Homecoming and Harvest Offering Day on Sunday, October 20.

At the conclusion of Sunday School, the pastor, Reverend M. T. Beamon, will bring the message. Following the sermon, the harvest offering will be presented processionally, each person placing his or her gift on the altar.

A picnic lunch will be served at noon. During the day special music will be rendered by a quartet and a trio from Pleasant Hill Church and members of Shady Grove.

Reverend Ray Hayes will speak in the afternoon. The Sunday School perfect attendance awards will also be given. All former members, pastors and friends of the church are cordially invited to attend.

Hugh Prince To Speak At Fuquay

Hugh W. Prince, prominent Dunn merchant and member of the Divine St. Methodist Church of this town, will be the lay speaker next Sunday morning at the Fuquay Springs Methodist Church. Mr. Prince's father was a native of the Fuquay Springs area and served for a number of years (Continued On Page Two)

So He Lands In Court

Teenager Hated Taking School Bus

Matthews Boothe, 16-year-old youth who lives out on Highway 301 South, was in Dunn court yesterday because he couldn't stand to take the school bus to school even though it went right by his house.

Charged with breaking the glass of the family car, the Boothe boy was charged by his mother, who accused him of damaging personal property.

Judge Howard Godwin sentenced him to six months in the county jail but suspended the sentence on condition he be "obedient to the discipline of his mother."

Hudson Returning For Local Revival

By popular request, the Rev. Jack Hudson, minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Beaufort, South Carolina, will again conduct revival services at the Hood Memorial Christian Church beginning Monday evening, October 21, and continuing through Friday evening, October 25. Services will begin each evening at 7:45 o'clock.

The Rev. Mr. Hudson is a native of Georgia, having lived on a farm near Guyton, Ga. He attended Guyton High School where he graduated in 1951. Upon graduation from high school he entered Johnson Bible College, Kimberlin Heights, Tenn., receiving an A. B. Degree, in 1955. He began his ministry during his sophomore year at the Avery's Creek Christian Church, Avery's Creek, N. C.

He has held a number of pastorates since then, progressively advancing in the ministry, and is now recognized as one of the leading ministers in the Disciples Brotherhood.

He is married and his wife is very active in church work together with her husband.

Special Music There will be special music each evening for all age groups, just preceding the sermon.

Plan now to attend these services and enjoy some inspirational and enlightening sermons, delivered by a young man who is in great demand both in North and South Carolina. He is regarded as an able speaker and student of the Bible.

The public is cordially invited to attend each service.

Campell Concert Season Starts

Eight In A Wagon Make Top Dancers

By LYNN BARRY

Last year concerts came and concerts went. Some were well attended and some weren't.

Last night was not a typical example. An unusually large crowd gathered at the D. Rich Memorial Auditorium on the Campbell College campus to view the ballet troupe that is on tour for the Community Concert Association.

As the rain pounded on the sidewalks outside the auditorium, experienced feet took to the stage on the inside. Eight lithe bodies swayed to rhythm.

The ballet troupe that performed at Campbell is known professionally as the Dance Drama Company. The troupe seemed at home on campus since they worked side by side this past summer in the Tennessee outdoor theater production Chucky Jack with Charles Horton, head of the Campbell College Music Department, his wife and a number of Campbell College students. Eight dancers and a production manager travel together in a crowd. (Continued On Page Two)

Flu Proves Fatal To More Than 30

By UNITED PRESS

A rash of flu epidemics around the nation has claimed more than 30 lives in the past few days, with about one-third of the victims children in Illinois and Pennsylvania schools for the mentally retarded.

The latest tragic flu outbreak killed five youths at the Dixon, Ill., State School for the Mentally Retarded. It followed on the heels of a lethal outbreak which killed six children at the Penhurst State Training School near Philadelphia Tuesday.

Little River Baptists To Hold 82nd Annual Meet Oct. 29th

The 82nd session of the Little River Baptist Association, largest religious group in Harnett County, will convene Tuesday, Oct. 29, at Kennebec Church near Angier. In keeping with the new policy to divide sessions between two churches, the second day of the association will be held at Friendship Church at Bunnlevel.

A full program with every half hour filled from the 9:20 a. m. opening to the afternoon adjournment of each day, has been planned.

ned by a committee composed of the Rev. G. Scott Turner, the Rev. L. C. Pinnix and Julius Holloway, the associational secretary.

Ministers new to the association this year will lead the devotionals. The Rev. Walter F. Gentry, pastor of Antioch Church at Marners, will be in charge at the first morning session at Kennebec. The Rev. C. M. Hicks, pastor of the Holly Springs Church near Broadway, one of the largest rural churches in the association, will speak at the afternoon worship. When the association moves to Bunnlevel, the morning devotional on Wednesday will be led by the Rev. R. Lewis Beal of Angier where one of the county's most modern church buildings has just been dedicated. The worship leader for the afternoon Tuesday will be the Rev. James Howell, pastor of Baptist Chapel.

35 UNITS Holloway said that the association embraces 32 regular churches and three missions. Official messengers and visitors from all churches are expected. Luncheon will be served each day by the members of the host church. RUSSELL TO PRESIDE (Continued On Page Two)

Persuasion Not Enough? Ike Under Attack For 'Mildness'

By TED CRAIL

Record News Editor President Eisenhower is now headed down the road toward the end of his second term and, even if he wanted it, which is unlikely, a third term would be impossible under the law which now governs the succession of the presidency.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER

In the next two years there will be many attempts to appraise the influence that Eisenhower has had for good or ill, on the course of world events. Regardless of their talents or capacities, two men—the President of the United States and the boss of the Communist Party in the USSR—are automatically the most influential of all living persons.

Probably no president in American history has enjoyed so much confidence from the people or so little from the legislators and other think-artists as Dwight David Eisenhower. An Englishman has called Ike a genius who has successfully masqueraded as an orinary fella; Eartha Kitt has called him a nitwit.

General George Marshall put great trust in his European commander, General Eisenhower, and Douglas MacArthur reportedly dismissed him with contempt. Professors who knew him as their president at Columbia were likely to agree with MacArthur.

These disagreements are common enough. One man's genius is another man's Spike Jones. Historians may gradually come to agree that Harding was unfit, that Coolidge was mediocre, that Ho-
