New Yorkers Strike Head-On, 7 Injured

An emergency operation was performed at Betsy Johnson Memorial Hospital last night on one of seven persons injured in a disastrous head-on collision near Ma's Kitchen three miles south of Dunn.

Solomon Spiegel, a 50-year-old resident of Queens, Long Island, and others injured in the crash were reportedly improving today. Spiegel and Mrs. Mary Anderson, 61, of Forest Hills, N. Y., were both placed on the critical list when they arrived at the hospital.

Dr. William H. Lilly said that multiple fracture of the ribs and other injuries required surgery on Spiegel and a tracheotomy was performed to insure proper breathing.

Several of those injured can expect long hospital stays. All are from New York State but there were no immediate plans for transferring them from the Dunn Hospital.

Highway Patrolman David Matthews investigated the accident, which occurred Sunday afternoon at 2:35 p.m. on Highway 301.

Spiegel was driving a 1958 Pontiac, said Matthews, and both he and his wife were injured as it crashed into a 1957 Chevrolet driven by 17-year-old Patricia Ann Negri of Floral Park, Long Island.

Victims of the wreck included Mrs. Spiegel, suffering from lacerations of the head and a fracture of the left foot; Miss Negri, whose head was bruised and cut; the girl's mother, Mrs. Doris Negri, 45, who had both legs broken; a brother Peter, 12, whose

Man With 3 Wives Faces Trial

WOODBINE, Ga. (UPI) — A Brunswick, Ga., car salesman, who has two more wives than the law allows, will face bigamy charges in Florida this week.

Camden County Ordinary David Proctor said here Sunday his office issued a marriage license June 21 to Sam Cangialosi, 34.

Cangialosi hustled off to nearby Kingsland and a justice of the peace made Laura B. Coley, 33, of Jacksonville, Fla., Wife No. 3. Proctor said Cangialosi signed a sworn statement he had never been married before. The ordinance said the first he knew of the man's multiple marriages was when he read a newspaper account that Cangialosi was to be tried for perjury.

In Jacksonville, Wife No. 2, Mrs. Anne Davies Cangialosi, charged that he is married to another woman in New York and has a daughter.

Cangialosi and Wife No. 2 have two children.

Runaway Boy, 12, Had Fun On Farm

The excitement of tobacco barning appealed to a 12-year-old runaway who was placed temporarily in a Harnett foster home while authorities sought his family.

Richard Magarit had actually left the home of his aunt in Fort Bragg's Wherry Housing Project and was trying to make his way back to New York by thumbing.

But he didn't give that information to those who befriended him. Instead, he gave his New York address. Taken in charge here a week ago Friday, Welfare authorities didn't learn that he was missing from the Fort Bragg project until a story appeared in the Fayetteville Observer. Then they quickly arranged a reunion with his family.

Miss Lela Moore Hall, head of the Harnett Welfare Department, said one reason he was apparently contented in the foster home was because tobacco barning had started and he was fascinated with the farming operations.

Richard had thumbed two rides, she said, and the second man who picked him up turned him over to a rural policeman who then brought him to the Welfare Department.

His mother had sent him down to Fort Bragg for the summer because she had to work away from the home and "didn't want

Attempt On Raul Castro At Wedding

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI)—Sources reported today that an attempt was made Sunday night to kill Raul Castro, brother of Premier Fidel Castro and commander in chief of Cuba's armed forces.

The sources said the assassination attempt was made while the younger Castro was attending the wedding of a revolutionary army friend.

The attempt followed a weekend series of uprisings, reported invasions and large-scale preventive arrests throughout the island.

The assassination was attempted by an unidentified man who entered the church as the wedding was beginning and took a position in front of Raul.

As soon as he reached his position, the man pulled a concealed pistol from his pants pocket and pointed it in Raul's direction.

Various members of the revolutionary army were attending the wedding already were watching because their attention had been attracted to him by his late entrance and his efforts to obtain a place near Raul, who already was in a crowded spot.

They immediately jumped the assassin, disarmed him and hustled him outside.

A number of them indicated their readiness to kill him on the spot. But Efigenio Ameijeiras, chief of the national revolutionary police, intervened to hold them off.

The assassin presumably was de-

Father Of 3 Admits Baby Was His

Ollie Hargrove, a Negro with three children, admitted in Dunn Recorder's Court today that he was the father of an illegitimate child by Madie McKay.

Charged with non-support, he was ordered by Judge H. Paul Strickland to pay $5 per week for the child's support.

The youngster is now three years old. Its mother testified from the stand that Hargrove had tried to provide some support but hadn't done much.

She started to say that the Welfare Department had suggested prosecution of Hargrove. Judge Strickland, in ordering Hargrove to pay support, said it wasn't right to expect "the taxpayers of Harnett County" to take care of the child for him.

After Slugging Battle With Police

Beasley Vandalizes Dunn Jail

By TED CRAIL, Record News Editor
Vann Buren Beasley, taken into custody here after a furious battle with Dunn police officers, tore up one jail too many.

In Benson in mid-July he had set fire to his cell and in Dunn last night he turned the water tap on and started a flood.

The jail-vandalism and fighting with officers earned him a straight term of six months on the roads. It was imposed this morning by Judge H. Paul Strickland, who heard the case in Dunn Recorder's Court. The 23-year-old defendant still bore a black eye and other marks of his slugging set-to with the policemen.

"I want to be taken away as quickly as possible," said Beasley.

He had entered a plea of guilty to several charges including resisting arrest, assault on an officer and public drunkenness.

Solicitor Charles Lee Guy, Jr., rose before sentence was passed and told the court that he felt something had to be done about recurring cases here of resisting arrest and assaulting the police.

"Will Get Worse"
"It's going to get worse and worse unless something is done to stop it," said Guy.

Chief of Police Alton Cobb said several persons who witnessed the encounter between Beasley and the police had voluntarily offered to testify.

But the only witness to take the stand was Policeman Paul Stogsdill who said "considerable force" was needed to subdue Beasley when they attempted to get him into a police car.

Beasley did not contest any of the policeman's statements.

Blackjack Used
E. J. Whaley, one of the arresting officers, said a blackjack had to be used to get him under control and that once handcuffed they had trouble getting the handcuffs off him again.

From the stand, Stogsdill declared that Beasley was picked up for drunkenness near a grill on North Ellis Avenue.

"He started to come with us and then broke away," said the policeman.

Lucas Claims Coats Broke His Promise

Bobbie Lucas, a Baersville youth accused of attacking Ben Coats of 206 S. King Avenue, testified from the stand in Dunn Recorder's Court that Coats had broken a promise.

"He said he would buy me two dollars worth of gas if I carried him to Gray's Grill," said Lucas. Judge H. Paul Strickland fined the youth $10 and costs for simple assault. Coats had taken the stand at the outset of his case and claimed that a weapon was used on him though he had not definitely seen what it was.

Lucas was charged with assault with a knife. Coats allegedly had to have 12 stitches taken in his mouth after the run-in with Lucas.

Henry Singleton, Dunn Negro accused of slugging up the clothes of John L. Davis, pled not guilty but was convicted and ordered.

Long Tells Voters One Killed, He's Real Bargain One Injured

FRENCH SETTLEMENT, La. (UPI) — Gov. Earl K. Long, making seven more campaign speeches for reelection before the state Legislature opens a special session Monday, told his listeners Sunday he doesn't need the money.

"I could hire out for three times what you pay me as governor if I wanted to," he told about 400 persons here. "Oh yeah, I could hire out to these big oil companies."

He said major oil firms used to send him "hams and stuff" before he was committed earlier this summer to three mental wards.

"They quit sending them after I was sent to Galveston John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, but they've started again, thank goodness," he said.

Long also answered criticism by a New Orleans newspaper, the Times Picayune, which said that when he ducked into a bar in Independence, La., on a similar stumping tour Saturday there was a dice game in session in the back room.
