

Dear Santa:

DEAR SANTA,
Please bring me a big blue wagon and a set of guns. Bring my brother a football and some other things. My father is not able to work so any thing you bring will be all right.

Thank you
ROGER DUNN

P.S. I will leave you some cake and a drink.

Class Rings 'Teen Lines'

By Sylvia Strickland

THEY'RE HERE! Juniors have suddenly become left-handed due to the fact that class rings arrived on Wednesday. Excited folks dashed to the auditorium at the end of homeroom to be near the first of the line. Mass confusion is a good description of conditions that followed the ringing of the bell to end homeroom that day.

Wonder what all the hush-hush activities are around school? Don't be alarmed - it's only the Juniors discussing themes for the Jr.-Sr. Some of the best ideas are... well, you'll find out in the spring.

RECORD FORUM

TO THE EDITOR:

About a month ago I suffered a heart attack while in your city on business. From the moment of the attack, until I was discharged from the hospital last Saturday, I experienced a friendliness and warmth on the part of the people in your fine city which I've not known in many years. From the desk clerk in the hotel who called the doctor, the manager who cared for my luggage and brought me my mail, to the nurses and dietitian in the hospital and even the other patients who shared their visitors with me to keep me from being so lonesome. My special thanks for kindnesses shown go to Mr. J. C. Andrews, Mr. Willard Dawson and to Miss Ann Hollowell.

There will always be a warm spot in my heart for Dunn. Your very truly

These Little Things

Bank this year is giving away calendars bearing a famous Boy Scout painting by the famed artist, Norman Rockwell... Cashier Norwood Stephenson presented Mayor Ralph Hanna the first one this afternoon. ... Local Scout Exec Dick Walters says it was the Boy Scouts who gave Rockwell the opportunity that led to fame and fortune as a top illustrator... Boy Scout headquarters in New York gave Rockwell a job at $75 a month when he was down and out and jobless... Today, any Rockwell painting carries a minimum fee of $5,000... John Herring says it's a great thing to be a member of the First Baptist Church of Dunn, an organization that has an annual budget of over $95 million... That's what the church letter reported—approval of the $95 million-plus budget... It was a typographical error, of course, but John has had a lot of fun over it.

THINGAMAJIGS: Earl Jernigan says his friend, "Little Bud" Williams, "is the richest fellow in six counties but too darn stingy to get his television set repaired."... Only a strip two or three inches wide now shows on the screen, complains Earl, and it hurts his eyes... Little Bud says it isn't necessarily a matter of his stinginess... "Earl just can't take a hint to stay home and look at his own TV set," declared Bud... Both were just kidding, of course... The two are good friends and are now getting ready to leave for another vacation in Mexico... They go every winter... You can live and vacation in Mexico for less than a tenth of what it costs over here, reports Bud... Says you can buy a fifth of Canadian Club for only 80 cents, as compared with $5.25 here. (Or $6.50, bootleg price)... And the things that are necessary to make the Canadian Club a lot more delightful also come about the same ratio cheaper, he says... Twenty foreign students will speak at the Baptist Brotherhood dinner here Saturday night... The International Weekend idea is unique, hasn't been done anywhere before in the State... Mrs. Leola Jevy of Dunn, Route 2 reported to Dunn police that she lost a billfold containing more than $400 in cash sometime Wednesday between the First Citizens Bank and the Auto and Furniture Exchange on North Clinton Ave... George Carroll says the West Virginia basketball team is loaded this season, predicts it won't lose more than two or three games, if that many... Dunn's Shrine Clowns spread fun and joy wherever they go but, like Santa Claus, clowns sometimes frighten small children... Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Godwin, well-known local citizens, have been having a horrible time ever since Dunn's Christmas Parade Friday night... One of the clowns stopped to speak to Susan, their two-year-old daughter... Susan was frightened beyond words, and the cute little girl hasn't been able to sleep nights since — and neither have her parents, of course... Dunn Rotarians will hold their Christmas party Tuesday night at Porter's... Dunn Lions are staging their Christmas ball tonight at Chloera Country Club.

Point.
The project consists of approximately 25,000 linear feet of water distribution, addition to main base, telephone exchange building, new satellite exchange building, underground telephone cables, new fire alarm system, additions to steam distribution system, additions to electrical distribution and a 355,000 GPD water demineralizing plant.
J. J. Barnes, Inc., Angier, N. C., will be subcontractors to perform the Steam Distribution, and Collier and Chappell, Inc., of Winston-Salem, will perform the Electrical work.

Work is expected to begin December 11. Electrical and Steam Distribution will start in December, along with the addition to the main base telephone exchange building and satellite building. Water distribution is to begin in March, 1962, and the Demineralization Plant, in April. The first alarm system well be started in May.

With sixty men on the job and thirty carpenters, masons, mechanics and laborers being hired during construction, the job should be completed by December 16, 1962.

J. O. Williams, of Beaulieuville, N. C., is the project superintendent. William C. Olsen and Associates, of Raleigh, are the Engineers-Architects.

Cosula County, Colorado and announced intentions of fencing it, according to a special story published in The New York Times.

Opposition Arises
A considerable portion of the county's 4,217 population, many of them Spanish-Americans, were angered by Taylor's fencing plan, says The Times' report. They claimed that the original land grant, covering the tract, issued in 1844 by the Mexican Government, provided that the land should be forever open for grazing, gathering wood and recreation. A protest was filed, charging encroachment on grazing and other rights. Taylor carried his $24,000 tractor by shooting holes through portions of it.

They claimed they were on the Taylor land looking for a stray heifer. One of the men was taken to a hospital for treatment of internal injuries, the other two were treated by a doctor and released. Taylor's version to officers was that his men simply were attempting to arrest the three for vandalism and arson. He claimed they had set fire to a house trailer he had on the ranch and had damaged his $24,000 tractor by shooting holes through portions of it.

been before the court, the feud between Costilla cattlemen and Taylor and his men has threatened to flare into real trouble. Taylor's opponents dubbed the ranch "The Fort."

So heated did the dispute become that some two weeks ago, Colorado Gov. Stephen L. R. McNichols ordered a detachment of state troopers into the area. Then more recently, he went himself to look over the situation.

The latest climax to the episode occurred Thanksgiving Day when violence erupted upon discovery by Taylor's men of three Spanish-American cowboys on the Taylor ranch.

Stories of just what occurred differed. The three vaqueros, or cowboys, said they were peacefully eating lunch when set upon by Taylor's men, Parvis Raley and Alfred Randolph, and beaten with rifle butts. Then, they said, they were taken before Taylor himself, and he beat them again with a heavy stake.

The trio were identified as Gilver Medina, 29; Eddie Medina, 26 (no relation); and Thomas Rael 26.

There was a fight, he admitted, but said it began when one of the three "went for his gun".

Taylor took the cowboys to Sheriff Ruben Navarro in San Luis and demanded the three be charged with arson. Instead, the Sheriff sent them to a doctor, and a few hours later, charged Taylor, Raley and Randolph with kidnapping, robbery and felonious assault.

Colorado law provides the death penalty for kidnaping, if victims are hurt. The robbery count stemmed from confiscation of the cowboys' horses and pistols.

"How can anyone be charged with a criminal offense for protecting his own property," Taylor asked, according to The Times' story.

When Taylor, Raley and Randolph were taken to the county jail at San Luis, a mob of 100 gathered quickly, continues the Times news story. The jail door was kicked in, rocks were thrown and shots were fired in the air.

"The Governor's visit was expected to ease the trouble for a time." The Times' correspondent wrote. "But the resentments created by the Thanksgiving incident may take a long time to die."

Taylor purchased the land for $500,000, says The Times. It is a part of a one-million acre tract granted to a French Canadian settler in 1844, and is located on the west slope of the Sangre de Cristos, a mountain range named for "the blood of Christ." Local tradition says the agreement was that range rights would be retained by future generations of cattlemen living in this area.

Many Dunn students participated in the Christmas parade in Dunn last Friday. Those who weren't actually in it joined the largest crowd ever watching from the sidelines. Ann Jackson was elected by the Senior Class here to represent Dunn High as Miss Merry Christmas.

DHS's basketball season got off to a slow start with both our girls and boys losing to Wallace - Rose Hill last Saturday. However, on Tuesday things were somewhat improved when the boys beat Pine Forest and the girls scored 20 points in the final quarter to lose by only 6 points. The new rules really make the girl's game a lot tougher.

The starters for the girls have been: Harriet Thomas, Catherine Westbrook and Arlene Turnage as forwards and Margie Hamilton, Gail Walker, Carolyn Taylor, or Kay Alphin as guards.

Boys starters were: Gale Tart, Herbie Ruark, Cliff Butler, Howard Godwin, and Mason Warren.

It seemed good to see Baxter Sterling playing Tuesday. Baxter broke his ankle during football season and only recently got the cast off.

Reactions to the College Board which Seniors took last Saturday were pretty well summed up by someone who said "I don't even want to talk about it!" Lloyd Byrd said he didn't make 1600 (which is perfect) because he thought he missed one. Congratulations to Lloyd on his football scholarship to Wake Forest which is valued at $8,000. I think I'll go out for football next year!

Tuesday night Dunn held its first home game. Since our gym has been new, it has been a school policy to allow no concessions inside — they had to be kept in the lobby. For this game as an experiment drinks, pop, candy, etc. were allowed inside. This was very messy: drinks were spilled on the court and several people got a very unwanted bath in a sticky drink. It seems to me that it's not too much of an inconvenience keeping drinks outside and it surely improves conditions inside.
