Developments Involve Christine

LONDON (UP)—A London newspaper said today Scotland Yard is seeking perjury and conspiracy arrests in a case involving red-haired call girl Christine Keeler and a Jamaican jazz singer who once was her lover.

The Daily Sketch said detectives investigating the quashing of an assault conviction against the singer, Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, will recommend that "a number of people" be arrested.

A spokesman for Scotland Yard confirmed that an investigation into the Gordon case was under way. But all he would say about the Sketch report was that it was "either a good guess or a bad guess."

The Sketch did not give the source of its information. But it predicted the Scotland Yard report would recommend arrests for perjury and conspiracy to pervert justice. Such action was "justified on the evidence contained in the report," the Sketch said.

Last June Gordon began a three year jail term for beating up Miss Keeler, who testified against him at his trial.

The 21-year-old redhead already had become notorious as the play-for-pay girl who shared her bed with former War Minister John Profumo and Eugene Ivanov, a Soviet naval attaché who was recalled behind the Iron Curtain.

Last week Gordon's conviction and sentence were set aside because of new evidence that might have created a reasonable doubt about his guilt. The evidence was given by witnesses who were listed to testify at Gordon's trial, but never did. The evidence has not been disclosed.

Ike Returns To Normandy

CAEN, France (UP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower today returned to the Normandy beaches where 19 years ago he landed the biggest invasion force in history to begin the second front in Europe.

The President was out early with television crews to film what he called "an adventure in nostalgia" for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The weather was overcast but dry and warmish as the President drove from his hotel here to visit some of the beaches made famous by the Allied landings June 6, 1944. Shooting on the film was scheduled to last until Friday.

Eisenhower, supreme commander for the campaign that began on the beaches near here and ended with the surrender of Berlin less than a year later, has been greeted by crowds wherever he goes to re-enact wartime scenes.

Tuesday, he flew to Portsmouth, England, for filming at Southwick House, his command post for the invasion. It is now used by the British Navy.

He told a crowd of about 2,000 persons in Portsmouth that "this is the one place I've always wanted to return to."

"No one can possibly know what I owe to the British, particularly to the people of Portsmouth and Southwick," he added. "I just want to say thanks."

cerning the notes that Atlanta insurance man George Burnett allegedly took when he said he was accidentally connected into the telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant.

Under cross examination by Butts' chief attorney, William Schroder, Griffith admitted there were a number of inaccuracies in the Post article about the alleged "fix". Alabama won the game 35-0.

Coaches Inman and Pearce testified that the information allegedly given Bryant by Butts would have helped the Alabama coach by allowing him to cut his practice time by concentrating on Georgia's two key formations—the "slot" and the "pro-set."

Agents

arrested about 6:35 a. m. at a still site in Stewart Creek Township of Harnett located near the Cape Fear River Bridge.

Officers seized and destroyed a 467-gallon submarine type still, 364 gallons of fermenting mash, 19 gallons of non-tax paid whiskey and miscellaneous distillery materials and equipment.

In Pleasant Grove Township of Johnston County, agents arrested Edward Gray Worley, 30-year-old white man, of 313 Georgetown Rd., Raleigh, as he was transporting 12-gallons of moonshine in a 1956 Mercury about 10:55 a. m.

Both men appeared before U. S. Commissioner William Elmore of Dunn. Sanders was released under a $500 bond and Worley was committed to jail in lieu of a $500 bond.

Officers conducting the raid were Art Bryant, local ATU chief; Ray Harrison, Raymond Moore, all of the local post; Henry Byrd of Fayetteville a special investigator, and ABC Officer Faison Pope of Dunn. The same officers participated in the arrest of Worley with the exception of Byrd.

Erwin Men

and tank missing about a week ago, told Moore that he had marked all his tools for identification. Moore said today that all the tools which Ryals claimed he traded with the soldier, were marked and that Barefoot said he was sure that the air tank belonged to Elliott because he had filled it with air several times but didn't notice it when Mason pawned it.

The trio is scheduled for trial in Thursday's court session at Lillington and are out on bond.

Film Flammer Ordered From County & State

Eugene Engle, 30-year-old Dayton, Ohio film-flam artist, pleaded guilty in Harnett Recorder's Court Tuesday to charges of attempted to swindle $10,000 from Earl Black, a Bunnlevel merchant.

County Judge Robert B. Morgan fined Engle $500 and court costs and banished him from Harnett County and the entire State as well.

Engle had also been charged with duplicating U. S. currency, but his defense attorney, State Senator Robert B. Morgan, successfully argued that he wasn't guilty of that offense because law enforcement officers had sprung their trap too quickly.

Senator Morgan also told the court that Engle got none of Black's money but actually lost five dollars of his own in the deal.

After Engle approached Black and offered to duplicate $10,000 in $100 bills if Black would put up the cash. Black stalled him off and contracted Sheriff Wade Stewart.

FRIEND WAS DEPUTY

Black met Engle at the appointed place Thursday night behind Black's service station. Black had explained to Engle that he didn't have the $10,000 cash but was bringing along a friend who did have the money and was anxious to make an easy dollar.

The "friend with money" turned out to be Deputy Sheriff Lemuel Gregory of Angier, sharply dressed in civilian clothes. Sheriff Stewart and Deputies Buck Griffin, Bernice Temple and Charles Wilson were waiting nearby. As soon as Engle duplicated the $100 bill with a chemical process, Gregory grabbed the money and advised Engle he was under arrest.

"But," argued Senator Morgan to the court, "he had made a mistake and reproduced the money backward, so by no stretch of the imagination could it be said he had actually duplicated money. If they had waited until he had actually made a good duplication and had they waited until he actually got away with some of Black's or Gregory's money, then he would have been guilty of both charges. But that wasn't the case." They actually seized five dollars of his money in the transaction.

Morgan told the court Engle couldn't possibly be guilty of anything more than attempting to obtain money under false pretense.

The defense attorney said there was no question in his mind but that it was Engle's intention to defraud the two men, "but the fact remains he didn't actually do it."

Engle paid the $500 fine and hurried away from the courthouse apparently for an out-of-state destination.

"Where did he get the money to pay off?" a newsman asked Senator Morgan.

"Why, he made it, of course," quipped Morgan.
