FIVE ARRESTED IN BIG TRAIN HOLDUP

Over $300,000 Of Cash Lost Is Recorded

LONDON (UPI) — A series of police raids gave Scotland Yard its first break today in the week-old search for the robbers in the $7 million mail train holdup. Five persons—three men and two women—were taken into custody, and more than $300,000 in cash was recovered. None was identified, but all were held for "complicity" or questioning in the theft, biggest robbery in history. Two of the men had to be subdued by the police with flying tackles when they were arrested at Bournemouth. It is a seaside resort 100 miles from the Buckinghamshire town of Cheddington where a gang of bandits hijacked a royal mail train last Thursday and stole 120 duffelbag-type sacks containing 2 1/2 tons of worn but valid pound notes. Detectives announced they found a total of 100,000 pounds $300,000 in two cars the suspects were trying to garage in Bournemouth. They were held for "complicity."

The other suspects — a man and two women — were arrested before dawn today by Scotland Yard's "Flying Squad" of detectives in the Fulham district of southwest London. Detectives were reported to have seized a total of 20,000 pounds $50,000 in those raids and another at Surrey, 15 miles west of London, where another suspect was arrested. They were "detained for questionings." The money carried by the two men at Bournemouth was said to be in old notes, similar to the bills which British banks had entrusted to the royal mail for train transportation to London so that they could be destroyed and replaced with new currency. The arrests in the resort followed a telephone call to police from a woman who said she became suspicious when the two men paid her three months rent in advance for rooms in her boarding house an garage space for two cars. Police informers and ordinary citizens flooded authorities with tips and leads, encouraged by the hope of receiving some of the $728,000 reward money offered for capture of the train bandits.

Officials Wouldn't Believe Him Under Oath

Butts Given Bad Character

ATLANTA (UPI) — Chicago beer distributor Frank Scobey denied today he had ever discussed football betting with former Georgia athletic director Wallace Butts. Scobey, testifying by deposition in Butts' $10 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post, was asked if he ever discussed gambling with Butts during their meetings in Chicago, New York, Atlanta and Miami.

"Not to the best of my recollection," he replied. "Certainly not football." Scobey said he and Butts were good friends and the former Georgia athletic director once asked him to secure financial backing for three ventures but he "didn't have enough confidence in them." Reputation "Bad" Two more members of the University of Georgia athletic board testified as the nine-day-old libel trial neared its conclusion. They said Butts' general character was "bad" and they would not believe him under oath. Attorneys for the Post began reading the deposition from Scobey, described in Senate racketeering committee testimony as a man who had placed heavy bets on sporting events. The Post, in its March 23 issue, said Butts gave vital Georgia team secrets to Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant prior to Alabama's 35-0 win over the Bulldogs last fall. Both Butts and Bryant denied the allegation. Scobey testified that in 1957 he bet approximately $50,000 on college and professional football games. He said he had not bet on football since that time.

Harnett Would Be In No. 21

Redistricting Plan Unveiled

RALEIGH (UPI) — Gov. Terry Sanford's redistricting package was released today — showing three senators for Mecklenburg County and a complete re-suffling of most of the state's senatorial districts. Earlier, the plan had been labeled similar to the bill introduced in the regular session by Durham Sen. Claude Currie. But Currie's plan would not have given any single county district more than two senators and would have left 19 of the 32 districts untouched. Sanford had originally tagged the package for release Sunday at 8 p. m. Harnett County would be one of six counties in District 21, with two senators, if the initial proposals advanced at Governor Sanford's secret conference in Fayetteville is accepted. The proposal would put Harnett in a district of 192,271 people composed thusly Harnett, 48,236 people; Hoke 16, 356; Lee 26,561; Richmond 39,202; Scotland 28,183, and Moore 36,733. Harnett presently is in the 12th district, sharing two senators with Hoke, Moore and Randolph counties.

Sanford is planning to call a special session of the legislature this fall to iron out the question of senate redistricting as called for by the constitution. Morgan attended the governor's conference for legislators last night and offered reservations about the plan in Fayetteville to discuss the plan common with Richmond.

The governor has only proposed the alignment, leaving it to the special session this fall to work out the final plans. State Sen. Robert Morvan of Lillington expressed interest in the inclusion of Richmond County. He said Harnett folk had little to do with the plan.

Test Ban Treaty Nears Agreement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor pushed the nuclear test ban treaty nearer Senate ratification Thursday by testifying that the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff endorsed it without any "arms twisting" by the administration. He also voiced confidence that President Kennedy would carry out "safeguards" to the pact. Among other things, he mentioned maintaining facilities for atmospheric tests should the treaty be broken and continued underground explosions, the only kind permitted by the treaty. As he testified, the Atomic Energy Commission announced that it had conducted another underground test in Nevada. The low yield blast, something under the equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT, was the second announced explosion since the test ban agreement in Moscow. Taylor, who endorsed the pact Wednesday before the Senate preparedness subcommittee, renewed his support in an appearance before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and two allied groups. He said the Joint Chiefs supported it despite certain "risks and military disadvantages." Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, asked Taylor whether any "unusual pressures" has been put on the Joint Chiefs to win their support of the treaty. No Pressure Taylor said there had been none (Continued on Page 5b)

Nun Burns Self Alive

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — A Buddhist nun burned herself to death today in the coastal town of Ninh Hoa, reliable government sources reported. It was the fourth Buddhist suicide in recent weeks in protest to government policies. The government has denied the charges. The sources reporting the latest suicide said the nun was named Dieu Quang. They said she was in her early 20's, but others said she was older. In Hue city, police cordoned off the Main Tu Dam pagoda, making virtual prisoners of the 150 Buddhist priests, nuns and followers inside. The government has clamped a virtual but undeclared state of martial law on that predominantly Buddhist city following the Tuesday suicide of 17-year-old novice priest Thich Thanh Tue at the Phuoc Duyen pagoda, 3 1/2 miles outside Hue. Tension was reported high in Hue city, where government troops and secret policemen waded into a group of Buddhists with steel helmets Wednesday and took away Tue's body when the religious group tried to take it into the city for funeral rites and burial at the Tu Dam pagoda. The government insisted that the rites be held at the place where Tue killed himself, indicating it felt that any religious procession in Hue city in the present state of tension could result in more violence.

1. Policy Regarding Private Classes, Piano, Band, Etc. (From Minutes of Board of Education, July 1, 1963): The practice of excusing pupils from regular scheduled classes during the school day for piano, band, or any other private lessons, was discussed. A letter from Mr. A. B. Johnson, District Principal, Dunn, was presented in which he stated that the Dunn District Committee had held two meetings regarding this long established practice and that the committee was of the opinion that a countywide policy should be established to regulate such practices. New accreditation standards state: (1) The schedule shall provide for a minimum of a six-hour instructional day for all pupils; (2) The school day shall be kept free from interruptions that encroach upon instructional time; (3) All instructional services are rendered by bona fide employees of the County Board of Education, employed and paid in accordance with provisions of the General Statutes and with the policies of the County Board of Education, the State Board of Education and the State Department of Public Instruction. Piano teachers as well as other teachers of special classes are usually not certificated teachers, not employed by the Board of Education, and are paid on a fee or subscription basis. In compliance with G. S. 115-36 and the new standards for accreditation of elementary and high schools the following policy was adopted: It was moved by Dr. Corbett that the practice of excusing school pupils, elementary or high school, from regularly scheduled classes during the regular school day for private or group classes, extra or curricular, taught by certificated or non-certificated teachers, be discontinued with the beginning of the 1963-64 school term. This motion was seconded by Mr. Roberts and passed. 2. This does not include suppers for fund raising purposes by church or other non-school groups. Application for use of building or facilities shall be made in writing to the principal.
