CASTRO'S NAVY AT WORK—Photograph taken from a Coast Guard patrol plane shows a Cuban PT boat leaving Anguilla Key carrying some of the 19 Cuban refugees forcibly removed from the British possession in the Bahamas. Intelligence experts claim that Castro, besides using regular navy boats such as this, is building a "fishing fleet" of 200 vessels. Under the guise of peaceful fishing operations, these boats would cut exile escape routes and also approach close to South and Central American coasts to carry on subversive activities. On the other hand, anti-Castro commandos are using armed motorboats to harass Cuban coastal military and industrial installations. In one recent attack, motorboats were lowered over the side of a mother ship to carry out attacks in river estuaries.

Roberts Wins, $22,325

Fords Finish In First Four Spot

DARLINGTON S. C. (UPI) - Fireball Roberts' idea of a safe Labor Day is to race a powerful car before 70,000 people at speeds up to 134 miles per hour and run into the wall only once.

That's what he did Monday and it won him the 14th annual Southern 500 stock car racing title plus $22,325.

The Fords finished in the first four spots. Marvin Banch of Charlotte, N. C., was second, 17 seconds behind Roberts; Freddy Lorenzen, Elmhurst, Ill., was third, a lap behind, and Lelton Stacy, Dayton Beach, Fla., was fourth.

It was one of the safest big stock car races ever run. For the first time in a Southern 500 there was no display of the caution flag. Only once did a tire pop.

Roberts, a 32-year-old veteran racer from Dayton Beach, Fla., smacked his purple Ford into the retaining wall in front of the main grandstand coming out of a curve.

"I wasn't paying attention," he said. "I was watching my instruments."

But the damage was only a slight fender scuffing and Roberts was able to conclude, after riding his mobile over for four hours, "this was the safest Labor Day I ever spent."

It was by far the fastest 500 ever run here. Ideal track conditions, the absence of a caution flag and Roberts' finely tuned Ford - "I could get a 134-mile per hour lap whenever I wanted it" - combined to produce an average winning speed of 129.784 m.p.h.

FEATHERS - Sarah Kay Burns, of Caruthersville, Mo., models an Indian headdress - which is appropriate since she won the title of "Indian Summer Princess" at the annual contest sponsored by the Rotary Club in Hyannis, Mass. (NEA Telephoto.)

As Betty Boyer, Doris Day is the wife of obstetrician James Garner, in "The Thrill of It All," a riotous comedy release by Universal. The fun begins when Doris becomes the star of soap Television Commercials and starts earning $80,000 a year. Arlene Francis also is co-starred. "The Thrill of It All" opens Thursday, at your Stewart Theatre.
