Force Of 1400 Now Guarding Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Negro students returned to three newly integrated Birmingham schools without incident today in the wake of a church bombing and street violence that claimed six lives.

White attendance at all three schools was down sharply.

In Washington, President Kennedy expressed a "deep sense of outrage and grief" over the bombing of the 16th Street Baptist Church. He called on whites and Negroes to put aside passions and prejudices in the interests of justice and tranquility.

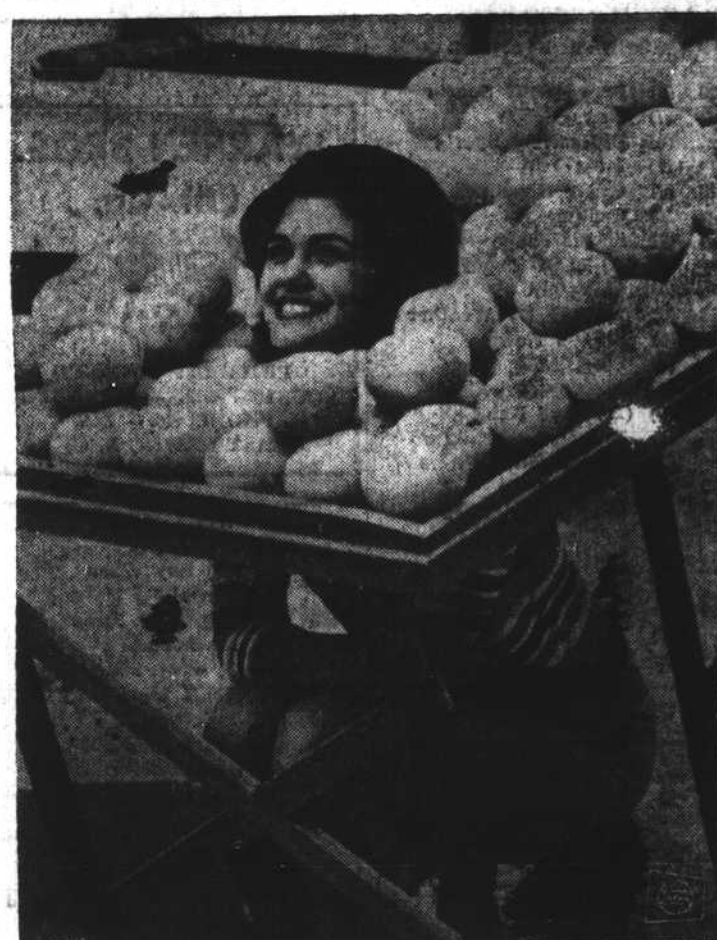

A force of 1,400 policemen, state troopers and battle-equipped National Guardsmen was ready for action in the tense atmosphere of this racially-troubled city.

On informal meeting of the city council was held this morning to discuss security arrangements to cope with any possible flareups in the aftermath of the church bombing in which four young Negro girls were killed.

Two Negro boys were slain hours later in separate incidents on the streets.

Less than one third of the 1,000 member student body at West End High — scene of rowdy demonstrations last week by white students — was on hand today when two Negro girls quietly began their first full week of classes.

At Tuskegee, not a single white student showed up at the town's only white high school. Teachers and 13 Negroes who entered last week had the building to themselves. (Continued on Page 6)

"Lucky Not Being Tried for Murder" Man Is Convicted In Assault Case

Willie Byrd, Bunnlevel Negro, was told by Judge Robert Morgan when passing sentence on him for assault with a pistol on Claudis Bell, "You're lucky you are not being tried for murder." Evidence in Harnett Recorder's Court showed that Byrd had shot Bell in the back of his arm at the elbow.

Witnesses testified that Bell was advancing on the defendant when he fired, "Can you tell me how he managed to shoot him in the back of his arm if he was advancing on him?" asked Solicitor Jake Lamm. The question went unanswered.

Byrd had pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault on Bell with a deadly weapon, a gun, inflicting serious injuries not resulting in death, but court found him guilty.

He was given 12 months on the roads, suspended 2 years on condition he pay all doctor and hospital bills of Bell, pay $50 for loss of work and pay court costs.

Another Chance Henry "Noun" McDougald, Lillington, Rt. 2, up for non-compliance of an order by the court last week that he surrender a gun he had used in an assault case and talk with probation officer M. F. Stout about being placed on probation, was ready with an excuse he thought it was more important to work at Paul Harrington's sawmill to get money to pay off court costs than it was to see the probation officer, or return the gun.

Judge Morgan gave him another chance to comply, and after a talk with probation officer he was placed on probation. In lieu of a $12 (Continued on Page 6)

They're Reported "Doing Fine"

Quints Won't Change Daddy

ABERDEEN, S. D. (UPI) — Andy Fischer, the proud father of five real bundle of babies—quintuplets—isn't going to let his good life get complicated by fame.

Being Fine A hospital spokesman said today the quint's dad is "real good night" and their condition was unchanged.

The sugar-water which each infant gets every two hours around the clock was increased during that night to 5 cubic centimeter about one teaspoon. Not once have they had trouble taking or holding it.

"The feeding, by tube through the nose, began Sunday morning when the quint's—born six to eight weeks prematurely—were entering their second day of life. The doses: 2 cc. at first, increased to 4 cc. and now 5 cc.

The father sees no reason to change his $76-a-week grocery clerk job or hunt for a larger house.

His only problem, he told newsmen, is "my four Marys."

Mary Ann Fischer all were baptized "Mary." The boy was baptized James Andrew.

"We're working on names for the four 'Marys.' But we are going to use 'Mary' for either the first or middle name of all the girls," Fischer said.

As for his rented 10-room house two miles out of town, Fischer said, "I'm content where I am now. I don't plan to look for a bigger house."

Night Locking of Lobby Brings Protests

Dunn P. O. Probe Ordered

Congressman David N. Henderson today advised Mayor George Franklin Blalock that he has requested a thorough investigation into operations of the Dunn Post Office as the result of complaints and protests received from prominent leaders and other citizens of the community.

Mayor Blalock, pointing out that Dunn postal patrons are being denied the same service rendered to citizens in practically all other towns, wired Congressman Henderson that the Dunn Post Office "has ample personnel to render any sort of service needed or desired by local citizens 24 hours a day without any added expense."

Most of the protests to Henderson stemmed from action of the Dunn Postmaster in ordering the lobby locked at 9 p.m. each night, leaving citizens with no opportunity to secure their mail after that hour. It also left them without means of purchasing stamps from the machine in the lobby and weighing letters.

DEMANDING BETTER SERVICE Congressman Henderson, an influential Congressman and a member of the House Post Office

Committee, advised local citizens he wants them to have the best service possible. "Things like this and other little irritations are what gives the public a bad opinion of government service," said Henderson. "and I don't intend to tolerate it."

Congressman Henderson, at the request of then Mayor Ralph Hanna and other local citizens, requested the Regional Postal Director in Atlanta about a year ago, to have the lobby left unlocked at night and this was done (Continued on Page Six)
