IN MEMORIAM
Tonight, October 20, 1963, was a year ago my husband, Graham M. Best, passed away and it was the greatest shock of my life. Not only to me but to his children, mother, father, brothers, sisters and all his friends which were many. And now that he is gone, all we have left of him are his sweet and precious memories which will never be lived down. He was a person who loved and enjoyed life while he lived. His passing away brought much grief to me and his family, but if he could speak, he would say don't grieve over me just go on enjoying life and make the best of everything. He is dead but his memories will never die.
