Church Women To Hear Gene Maxwell

On Wednesday the Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild of Divine Street Methodist Church will observe Quiet Day as part of "A Call To Prayer and Self Denial".

The leader for the day will be Miss Gene Maxwell, associate secretary of Children's Work of the Woman's Division of Christian Service from New York City.

Miss Maxwell comes from Williamsport. Pa., where she was a home economics teacher before becoming a deaconess in the Methodist Church. She is a graduate of Scarritt College and has been a rural worker and a Director of Christian Education in Wisconsin before coming to her present post as secretary of Children's Work for the Woman's Division in 1960.

Miss Maxwell has been very closely associated with the writing of new curriculum material for children which will be introduced for the first time in Methodist churches in September, 1964.

The Quiet Day observance will be at 11:00 o'clock followed by lunch and the Wesleyan Service Guild service will begin at 5:30 and have supper followed by a closing mediation.

All women of the church have been urged to attend one of these services and to take Bibles for the meditation.

Most farmers are idea men . . . always thinking about better, more profitable ways to do their work. They have to be. Success in their business demands it.

Our agricultural development engineers are idea men, too. Their job is to help farmers make their work easier and more profitable. How do they do this? They visit farmers . . . listen to their ideas . . . share their problems and hopes. Then the ngineers add ideas of their own to help plan mechanical systems and installations that best serve the individual farmer's

MOLIAN SECRETARY OF COVERAGE PER CALLED

Sounds like a good idea. And it is. Farmers get the help of one of our 16 agricultural development engineers simply by calling the CP&L office nearest them. Providing this service is just one more way we are helping to build a Finer Carolina.
