Bill Barnums Entertain At Costume Party Sat.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Barnum entertained for the first time since they moved to Dunn when they were hosts at a costume Halloween party Saturday night.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Altman, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Smith.

Among the guests were a celebrated Hollywood producer and his new galsha starlet known around town as Bobby and Carrol Barefoot, also making the spoof scene was a "Capone" type gangster and his "moll" alias June and Lu Ann Elkins.

Then keeping with our southern tradition came "Old McDonald" and wife who turned out to be Bobby and Sue Strickland. Then along came "Little Nell" and friend known as Bob and Fran Summers.

Some one started to call police when a strange man wearing a striped suit and a ball and chain appeared on the scene. It was soon discovered to be Esten Betts and helping him to escape was the blond cypess woman known as Janie Betts. By the way Janie kept the key to the ball and chain, which kept Esten sort of slowed down.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Rea and Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Baswell of Smithfield and Jack Melvin of Wilmington. House decorations were done in the traditional Halloween decor. A buffet was set up with a large assortment of hors d'oeuvres and punch. The evening was said to have been enjoyed by everyone. Leaving all looking forward to another Halloween.

Tips On Freezing Pumpkin

Thoughts of pumpkins bring to mind the pilgrims, harvest, jack-o-lanterns and pies. If you think only that far you are missing something. Pumpkin has additional uses of every day value.

Although a pumpkin will keep well in dry storage for months, it is convenient to have it in meal-size portions ready to heat and eat anything you want it and that is easy to do.

Take your favorite variety of pumpkins, cut it into strips; peel it; cut in small pieces, add one cup of sorghum molasses to each gallon pumpkin. Put in a pot with little or no water, start it to cook slowly and stir it occasionally so that it will not burn. Cook it to the consistency that you like. Chill it; put it in any good frozen food container and freeze it. This is one of several ways of preparing pumpkin to freeze. You may want to bake yours.

Once the pumpkin is in the freezer you have it at arm's reach to heat and eat when you want it.

You may cheat yourself if you spice all of it and use it just for pies. It is delicious with sausage, ham or crisp bacon for breakfast. Just heat it in the frying pan after you have poured out the fat or part of it. It is beautiful on the breakfast plate. It is equally as good served as a vegetable for lunch or dinner.

You may prefer the small - deep colored sugar pumpkin. It is fine grained and often used for family fare. You may want to add white sugar or brown sugar instead of the molasses.

It was decided by the Extension Staff for the Home Economics Extension Agent to carry the seed to the club meetings and get the women interested in growing the same seed. Each woman received one tablespoon of seed and were given instructions for planting, cultivating and harvesting. More definite instructions for harvesting the corn were sent to the women in September.
