diplomatic sources said in Tokyo. The rebels struck at midday. By nightfall they were reported in control of most of the country following fierce fighting. The American forces ordered to Viet Nam are primarily part of the 7th Fleet, and were expected also to include some air and ground units. The United States already has an estimated 15,000 troops in Viet Nam.

President Kennedy met for 45 minutes in Washington this morning with his top diplomatic and military advisers on the Vietnamese uprising. Aides said there would be no immediate White House statement.

Fierce fighting raged in the streets of Saigon, and Dien's special forces "palace guard" was reported routed. Heavy casualties were feared.

The rebels appeared to be in virtual control of Saigon and other parts of the country except for the immediate area around the presidential palace, according to reports reaching Washington. Heavy fighting continued around the palace. Diplomatic sources in Washington cautioned, however, that it still was uncertain whether the coup was successful.

Wild Parties

Replying to an editorial urging liberalization of girls' visiting hours, Monro wrote in his letter to the Harvard Crimson that he and Dean of Students Dr. Robert W. Watson were "badly shaken" by some severe violations of rules and decent standards of behavior.

"Trouble has arisen," Dean Monro said, "because what was once considered a pleasant privilege entertaining women in men's rooms has now, for a growing number of students, come to be considered a license to use the college rooms for wild parties or for sexual intercourse."

Escapes Attention: Monro's letter appeared in the Crimson Oct. 9 but escaped attention outside the campus until Thursday.

Blaine's article, entitled "Sex Mores in Transition," said colleges unwittingly encourage the trend toward premarital relations.

Harvard was mum on what happened at the "wild parties" Dean Monro referred to but student sources indicated they involved heavy drinking but little sex. Certainly, the students said, they couldn't be classified as orgies.

Chicora Will Have New Golf Champ

By JAMES SNIPES For the past several years William Corbett and Bill Lilly usually alternated in winning the club's golf championship, and last year H. C. Connell won the prized trophy. But this year we will have a new champion as each of the above have fallen by the wayside in the championship tourney. Marvin Godwin and Stuart Cannady have stroked their way into the championship finals and will fight it out this week end for the top honors. The First, Second, and Third Flights are incomplete at present, but should be concluded in another week. We do have two champions already crowned; namely, John Henry Wilson, winner of the Fourth Flight, and A. R. Taylor, winner of the Fifth Flight. Congratulations to these winners:

we'll have the complete list of winners next week, and announce the date of Trophy Awards Night then.

Fire and flame followed immediately. People ran onto the ice. They didn't know what to do. They were slipping on the ice. The people were just like cattle. They came across the ice and got out of there."

From the sidelines, observers shook their heads at all the indecision, confusion and dissension. "But that's the status quo in Averagesboro," he added. "And then a lot of people wonder why Averagesboro has no voice in county politics."

"How," he asked, "could we expect to?"

VIEWPOINT

BY JESSE HELMS
Vice President, WRAL-TV

Cumberland County Representative Ike O'Hanlon favored us with a copy of a letter he wrote a few days ago to the editor of the college newspaper at Wake Forest, of which Mr. O'Hanlon is an alumnus. As college editors will, the editor of The Old Gold and Black had become overwhelmed by his own importance, and had denounced the several former Wake Forest men now serving in the legislature for supporting the communist-ban bill enacted into law back in the summer.

The effect of the college editorial was that Wake Forest alumni who supported the bill had brought shame upon the college. Since Mr. O'Hanlon not only supported the bill at the time of its enactment but has strongly defended it since that time, he put tongue in check and advised the young editor that maybe it would be a good idea to strike the O'Hanlon name from the college's alumni list, and thus remove one stigma of shame.

Mr. O'Hanlon need not contemplate any such thing's coming to pass. The Alumni list is the vehicle for money-raising exhortations, and the college is not that ashamed of Mr. O'Hanlon.

In the same mail with the copy of Mr. O'Hanlon's letter came a copy of the 1963 annual report of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, prepared by J. Edgar Hoover. It crossed our mind this would have been a fine document for Mr. O'Hanlon to have enclosed with his letter to the young editor.

FBI Director Hoover devoted eight full printed pages to the category of "Protecting Democracy." At some length, Mr. Hoover addresses himself to the matter of Communists appearing on college campuses.

Mr. Hoover tells of the activities of the Communist Party in the United States, its close ties with the Soviet Union, and the fact that it is unquestionably directed from the Kremlin. On Page 25 of the report, Mr. Hoover says:

"(A) major project (of the Communist Party) during the 1963 fiscal year was the continuation of the successful sneaking campaign before students at colleges and universities. Over 40 such speeches were made during the year by party leaders. An indication of the importance the Party places on its drive to influence America's young people is the fact that Gus Hall (head of the Communist Party in the United States) has taken personal charge of the program."

In his report, Mr. Hoover continues: "During the 1963 fiscal year, communist spokesmen have stressed such domestic issues as the civil rights struggle, the abolition of all internal security programs and Congressional committees investigating communism; and have (urged) the reduction of military spending (and the diversion of) the funds to social projects..."

"Their major aim," FBI Director Hoover said of the Communists, "is to convey the impression that communists are loyal citizens of the United States who merely hold political views which differ from those currently prevailing. They deny any direction from abroad and allege they seek change only through legal means."

In discussing the communist line being spread throughout the country - by direction from Moscow - Mr. Hoover said that the Communist Party "... favors government spending, especially for welfare projects. It advocates that 'his business' pay a greater share of the cost of government, and in almost the same breath proposes that the (federal) government take over most major industries."

It makes a lot of noise, Mr. Hoover said, "(against) unemployment and high prices; for equal rights and higher wages." Throughout the 1963 fiscal year the Communist Party, USA, circulated—and we're quoting Mr. Hoover—"circulated tons of propaganda on the race issue... there are a number of organizations in existence in the United States today with appealing names which were conceived by the Communist Party, USA; and operate solely for its benefit."

We do not anticipate that J. Edgar Hoover's very clear warnings will make much impression on those who constantly chant the empty, meaningless two-word catchisms of "academic freedom" and "civil rights." This sort of academic freedom has little to do with freedom, and the rights we hear so much about are not very civil. But there are those, as Mr. Hoover emphasizes, who impose them both with equal tyranny upon all of us.
