Life Says Pretty Girls Helped His Deals

Baker Hearing Opens Thurs.

Nancy Carole Tyler

BOBBY'S SECRETARY — Airing of the Bobby Baker scandal opens tomorrow in Washington at a hearing presided over by N. C. Senator B. Everett Jordan. Pictured here is shapely Carole Tyler, Baker's former secretary, whom he housed in a $28,000 town house. In an exclusive story, Life magazine reports that pretty girls played a vital role in some of Baker's big deals. The magazine reveals dances in harem pants, nude baths in champagne and over cavorting.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate was split wide open today on the question of whether its members should air their private income — a key issue in its investigation of ex-side Bobby Baker. The Senate Rules Committee, which is looking into the "outside interests" of former Senate Democratic Secretary Robert G. Baker, called the widow of his one-time partner to testify Thursday at a closed session.

Mrs. Alfred S. Novak, whose late husband was Baker's partner in a motel, will be the first witness to give direct testimony. An employee of the Senate Small Business Committee, she already has been questioned informally.

Plans Questioning
The "conflict of interest" issue exploded on the Senate floor Tuesday as the Rules Committee, headed by Sen. B. Everett Jordan, (D-N.C.), announced plans to call Mrs. Novak.

Answering advocates of legislation to require senators and other officials to disclose their outside assets and income, Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said: "The dignity and self-respect of the Senate demand they be rejected."

The debate on income disclosure came after Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he was "satisfied" with confidential reports from key Senate Democratic officials on their outside assets, if any. Mansfield had asked for the reports two weeks ago.

No Information Sought
But Dirksen said he had not sought similar information from ranking GOP employees and did not intend to ask for them.

Baker, who came to the Senate as a page boy 21 years ago, resigned his $19,600 post on Oct. 7 after publicity about his sprawling financial operations. His interests ranged through motel, insurance, food vending, real estate, mortgage insurance, meat import and other operations — all done on the side while he kept tab on Senate affairs.

WHISKEY AND GIFT
CORNELIA, Ga. (UPI) — Somebody broke into the Bank of Cornelia Tuesday through the roof. It might have been Santa Claus.

Officials said not a penny of the bank's money was missing, but they found a half-full bottle of whiskey and a "gift" of $92 in small bills scattered about.

Two Are Charged With Meat Theft

Halford Coleman, well-known farmer of the Lillington area, walked into the office of Harnett Sheriff Wade Stewart yesterday morning at 11 o'clock and reported the theft of 75 sticks of tobacco from the barn where it was hanging.

Less than an hour later, Deputy Sheriff Clarence Moore of Erwin had solved the crime.

Fred Burns, 45, who had charge of the bloodhounds at Harnett's prison camp while serving an earlier ten-year term, and Andrew Murchison 40, readily confessed the crime to Moore.

They had used a tractor and trailer to remove the tobacco from Coleman's barn to an abandoned farm house a mile or so away. Deputy Moore picked up the tractor tracks, followed them through a field, right on through a wooded area and then across another field to the abandoned house.

The two Negro men met him in the yard and admitted, "We're the ones who did it." Moore said part of the tobacco was inside the house and they had the rest of it spread on the ground outside to put it into order for selling.

Moore booked both for trial in Harnett Recorder's Court.

At Staunton Military Academy

Wullenwaber Now Cadet First Lieut.

Gaines Wullenwaber, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Wullenwaber of Dunn, has been promoted to the rank of Cadet First Lieutenant at Staunton Military Academy in Staunton, Va.

The popular Dunn youth is now in his senior year at Staunton and will graduate this spring. It is his third year at the famed military school.

As First Lieutenant, young Wullenwaber will be second in command of A Company at Staunton.

He has also attained another high honor by his selection as a member of the Howie Rifles Squad, the top unit at the school. One of the crack teams of the nation, the Howie rifle squad traditionally is selected to march in the President's inaugural parade in Washington.

Cadet Lt. Wullenwaber played football for Dunn High's Jayvees his freshman year here and has

Coats Woman Gets 9 Months

Mrs. Annie Lee Ennis of Coats, a bootlegger with a prior conviction, was ordered to serve nine months in women's prison by Judge Robert B. Morgan in Harnett Recorder's Court at Lillington.

The woman was arrested after a raid on a "drinking party" at her home by Deputy Sheriff Clarence Moore. Coats Constable Lawrence Johnson and Coats policeman Jack Stewart.

Deputy Moore said they found Mrs. Ennis hiding in a rear bedroom and that another woman present, Mrs. Patsy Moore Jackson of Erwin, attempted to hide about a third of a pint in her purse.

PUT UP FIGHT
He said that when he cited Mrs. Ennis to appear in court, she replied, "I'll be damned sure not to be there" and then he placed her under arrest. Moore related that the woman put up a stiff fight as he started to put her into the police car for the trip to jail but that he quickly subdued her.

Divorce Rate Rising In Harnett

Praise For Dunn

To the citizens of Dunn, North Carolina

On behalf of Staunton Military Academy, our junior varsity football team and myself, I wish to extend our very appreciative gratitude for a very hospitable weekend afforded us in your charming locality.

You may all be well proud of your untiring efforts in staging such a profitable benefit fund for a well deserved cause. Under the leadership of such fine citizens, as Messrs. Everett Doffernyre, Al Wullenwaber and Nathan Johnson, Jr., your community had accomplished a feat that will find localities much more densely populated bursting with envy.

Words cannot express our appreciations to all of you for our cherished memories of the short-lived time spent in your area. Again, may I reiterate our thanks and God bless all of you.

Sincerely,
William M. Pandak

Judge Morgan rejected pleas for suspended sentence and ordered the woman to serve nine months in prison.

She filed notice of appeal to the Superior Court but was unable to post bond and was remanded to jail to await trial on appeal.

Says Official Should Have Disqualified Self

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John L. McClelland, (D-Ark.) bluntly told Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric today that he should have disqualified himself in the multi-billion dollar TFX warplane contract award.

The leather-voiced chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee also told Gilpatric he was not at all sure there had not been a conflict of interest in the matter. He noted Gilpatric's past close legal associations with General Dynamics Corp., winner over Boeing for the big TFX contract.

Gilpatric emphatically denied any conflict of interest.

"I think you should have disqualified yourself. No question in the world about it," the senator declared.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., told the witness he could see "no reason" you should have disqualified yourself. By your rights, you acted in complete objectivity.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, also defended the Pentagon's No. 2 civilian.

Gilpatric replied that neither he nor his former New York law firm had any "economic advantage in this contract."

He also testified that he expects to return to the law firm soon. Gilpatric denied he made any commitment to return when he joined the Kennedy administration in January 1961.

Gilpatric was a $140,000-a-year lawyer with the firm before taking over as second in command of the Defense Department.

Goldwater's Mother-in-Laws Succumbs

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Mrs. Anna Davis Johnson, 79, mother-in-law of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., died of a heart attack in a Phoenix hospital Tuesday night.

Mrs. Johnson was the widow of Ray Prescott Johnson, a co-founder of the Borg-Warner Co.

Mrs. Johnson was a native of Terre Haute, Ind., but had maintained homes in Phoenix and Muncie, Ind., since 1927.

Survivors besides Mrs. Barry Goldwater include a son, Ray Prescott Johnson Jr. of Muncie; a brother Paul Hyde Davies of Phoenix; six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

This Godiva On Scooter Still Nude

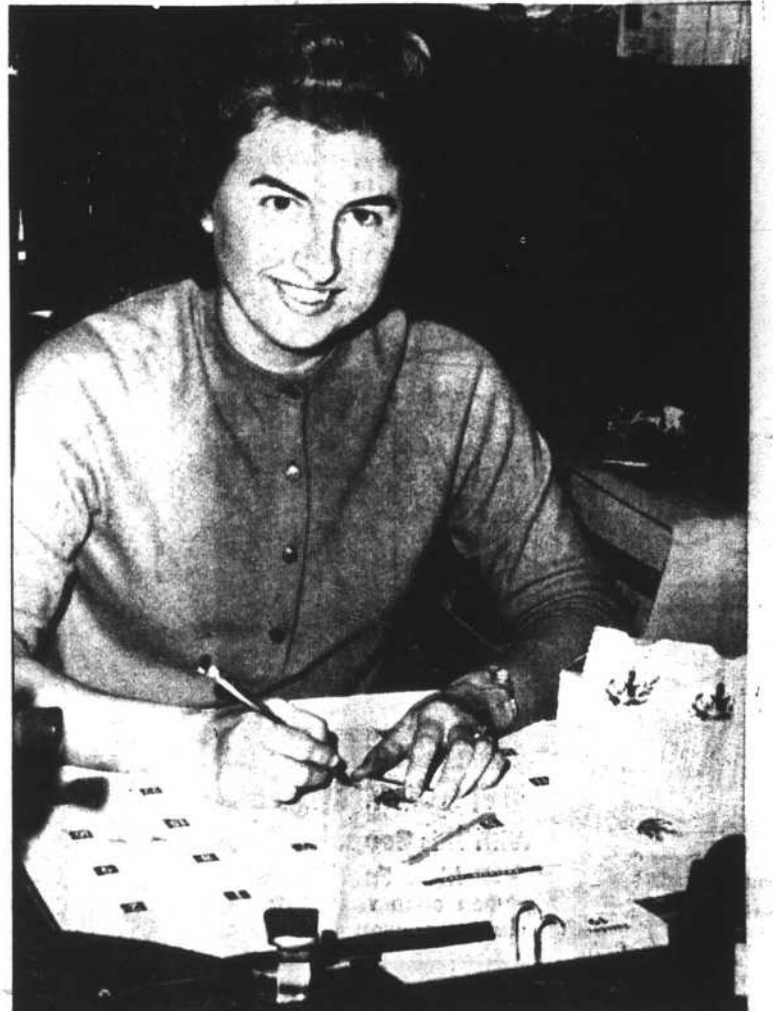

CHINGFORD, England (UPI) — A modern Lady Godiva a nude girl riding a motor scooter — has started a storm here.

The nude, wearing only a crash helmet, has been suggested as a poster for a road safety campaign aimed at young people. It carries the slogan:

"But always wear a helmet." Road safety officers are for it but the town's clergymen are against it.

"Disgusting," said the Rev. Harold Goldsack, a Methodist. "The slogan seems to suggest that they can do what they like provided they wear a crash helmet."

But Charles Henderson, the town's chief road safety officer, said, "Let's face it — we are living in the age of the nude. If the body beautiful will help to save lives, why shouldn't we do this in road safety?"

GETTING READY FOR SANTA IN 1964 — The First Citizens Bank and Trust Co. last week made hundreds happy with distribution of Christmas Savings Club checks to their members. But, already, members are looking ahead to Christmas of next year. Mrs. Doris Lee Norris of the First Citizens staff is shown here preparing records for the 1964 club. Still Operators Fined

Five out of six men captured in raids by county officers on two different whiskey stills were convicted in Harnett Recorder's Court at Lillington and received suspended sentences and fines ranging from $50 to $250. A fifth defendant pleaded innocence, but was convicted. Harvey W. Allen, Floyd Haley and James Alvis Peterson were caught at a 350-gallon distillery where officers also seized 11 gallons. (Continued on Page Eight)

For Harnett County

McSorley Named As Key Banker

M. J. McSORLEY

A prominent Dunn banker has been named "County Key Banker" for Harnett County. He will coordinate the farm activities of the N. C. Bankers Association in this area.

N.C.B.A. President John J. Mason, of Tarboro, has announced that M. J. McSorley will serve as County Key Banker during the next 12 months. Mr. McSorley is Cashier of First-Citizens Bank & Trust Co., of Dunn.

Pointing to the recognition that Tar Heel bankers have won for their service to agriculture through the farm programs of the N.C.B.A., President Mason thanked the 100 County Key Bankers for their service. He noted their continuous help in the promotion of N.C.B.A.'s programs to assist in building a sound farm economy in North Carolina. (Continued on Page Eight)
