

These Little Things

decorations at Dunn homes. City councilmen and Mrs. Bill Godwin again have one of the most elaborate and most impressive Christmas displays anywhere in this entire area. It includes an unusually realistic Manger scene and a mammoth Santa Claus and reindeer atop the Godwin mansion, which is a showplace in itself without any additional decorations. Literally thousands of visitors saw the Godwin home last Christmas, almost creating traffic congestion at times along Lakeshore Drive. This year, it's even more spectacular. Billy and Alice really do it up right.

THINGAMAJIGS: Mrs. Sam Dorman phoned from Dunn's Christmas Cheer office today to report there are still 110 needy families on the list waiting for somebody to provide a little Christmas cheer. Money, food, clothing — anything that can be used will be welcome. Dunn business man Cad Upchurch was rushed to Betsy Johnson Hospital early today for emergency treatment. Cad's ailment hasn't been diagnosed as yet. Rev. Arthur Winstead has been transferred from Lillington to Kenly's Methodist Church as one of several new changes in the district. James Surles has some pretty parakeets he's selling for Christmas. "The nicest gift of all," says James.

Baptist Choirs Giving Program

The annual Christmas program by the choirs of the First Baptist Church will be held Sunday night at 7:30. A concert of anthems and arrangements of familiar carols will be sung, the story of the birth of Christ will be told in song and scripture narration. Nearly forty voices will participate.

Dear Santa

for Christmas. Bring my sister Francis a Tiny Tear Doll and some more toys for Christmas.

Please remember all the children in my community. I have been a good boy, and so has my sister. There will be some cake and coffee for you when you come to bring the toys.

With love,

Bootleg Found In Rural Home

Twenty-seven gallons of non tax paid whiskey were found in a storage room at the rural home of Seth Woodrow Allen Tuesday afternoon. Woodrow, 43, was arrested and taken before U. S. Commissioner Abe Elmore where he waived preliminary hearing and was released under $500 bond. Allen lives on Route 1, Benson, in Pleasant Grove Township of Johnston County.

Executing the federal search warrant were local ATU agents Art Bryant, Raymond Moore, Bill Terrell and Ray Harrison, ABC Officer Red Pope and Johnston County deputies, Fulton Moore, Glenn Cobb and Dally Stewart.

NOT THIS ONE

Gladys Byrd referred to in the court story this week involving a morals charge at Lillington is not the Gladys Byrd of Bunnlevel who is employed at Betsy Johnson Hospital.

Second Shot

bullet which struck the President tore the right rear portion of his head so destructively that "it was completely incompatible with life," according to the newspaper.

It was a deflected fragment from this second bullet that passed out through Kennedy's throat, just above the collar line, giving rise to speculation that the President may have been shot from two angles, the newspaper said.

The autopsy seemed to end speculation about the angle from which the two bullets were fired. It said both bullets struck the President from behind. Accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald allegedly fired shots at Kennedy and Texas Gov. John B. Connally from his vantage point in the Texas School Book Depository Building just after the presidential motorcade passed on the street below.

Because of the throat wound, questions had been raised as to whether Oswald's bullet could have inflicted it.

The pathologists were quoted as saying that the second bullet inflicted such irreparable damage that such a wound is normally considered as causing instant death. However, doctors at Dallas' Farland Hospital reported earlier that they noted some outward manifestation of life when the President was brought into the emergency room.

Latin Affairs

"will be substantial enough to adjust and pacing back and forth behind his desk with his hands in his pockets, made these other points:

— He expects to fly to his Texas ranch late Sunday or sometime Monday to spend Christmas with his family. He will go hunting if he can and perhaps "spend a day in the hills communing with myrvance our national interests."

Johnson, wearing a light gray self.

— The leaders of the free world and the Communist bloc must as their "No. 1 obligation learn to live together" so that the world's three billion people will be protected against nuclear holocaust.

— He has been told by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara that the just concluded NATO ministerial meeting in Paris was "a very satisfactory one."

— He does not plan any major change in the space program such as elimination of the "Rover" nuclear rocket program.

— He will not decide until "the time I am a nominee" the question of debating his Republican presidential challenger on television. Nor will he discuss "any political matters" for the time being.

drove off," he said. The suspects, believed riding in a two-tone, late model car, later eluded roadblocks set up in surrounding western North Carolina counties.

DECEMBER TOMATOES

Mrs. J. R. Bass of Route 2, Dunn, is still getting tomatoes from her winter garden. The tomatoes are in a sunny place where they are protected from the cold wind.

A Slight

in children and the disease from which Vickie suffers.

"That came as a relief," said Wray, who will be 39 in February. He added that he had planned to spend the next few chilly nights sleeping in his car here, but a local hotel provided free lodging.

Wray's 32-year-old wife, Doris, spent the night in a private room with Vicki.

The Wrays had actually celebrated Christmas Monday about a brightly ornamented tree for which Vicki had secretly wished. Lacking money enough to purchase a tree, Wray went himself to some woods and cut down a 6-foot tree.

"I don't know whose place we got it from," he confessed, "But some of the neighbors and workers from the mill brought over some ornaments and dressed it up pretty good.

"I told the older children months ago, over and over, there would be no Christmas," he continued. "I haven't, and I don't know how, to tell the younger ones."

Wray and his wife have nine children, ranging in age from Bobby, 14, to Edward, 1 month. With the exception of Vicki and Edward, the rest of the children are spending the week with relatives in Rural York County, S. C., an area, where, according to Wray, "It's not hard to get a job, but it don't pay no money."

If doctors permit, Vicki and Edward will be taken home on Thursday for a Christmas reunion with their brothers and sisters.

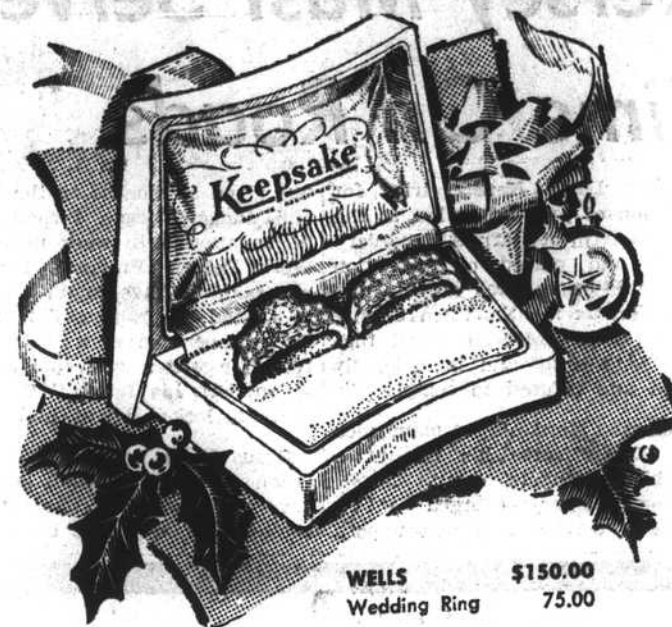

A medical center spokesman said Vicki, who will be 3 on March 24, suffers from an unpredictable type of cancer. The girl, blond and lively with a bright artificial eye in the socket where her right eye used to be, has had her left eye subjected to high intensity radiation and certain "chemical agents" since the July operation in an attempt to arrest the cancer.

"What is done in the way of future course will be determined after the tests are completed," the spokesman said cautiously. "The treatment has, in some cases, preserved both the vision of the patient and cured the cancer. But we would not want to speculate at this time."

But Wray, dressed in a light-weight suit and white shirt open at the neck, said doctors had told him that Vicki's left eye must eventually be removed to prolong the child's life from four to six years. He said it had been explained it was a fore-gone conclusion that the child would not live though adolescence.

"If it were up to me, I would not want to have it done," said Wray, who was a construction worker before his employment a year ago at a Clover, S. C., textile mill. "But if it is necessary to save her life, then I say go ahead."
