DUNN MEN IN POLITICS; HOSPITAL, OTHER NOTES

Public opinion polls, of course, reflect the trend in any political campaign. But supporters of no candidate should be too concerned about them at this early point in the governor's race.

The late U. S. Senator Willis Smith didn't announce for office until March 4 and ended up defeating possibly the most beloved man in the State, a man who everybody said couldn't be beaten.

Candidates in the current gubernatorial race announced so early that they've almost worn themselves out already, and the people as well.

So it's still early, anybody's race and, as in any political fight, the tide could turn overnight.

LITTLE NOTES: A lot of Dunn natives, it seems, have political ambition. Their score in State politics today was: One in, another out... Columbus Tart, 33, Mebane school teacher who grew up in Dunn, announced late yesterday that he is withdrawing from the governor's race due to (Continued on Page 5)

Moore Calls For Economy

Gubernatorial candidate Dan K. Moore today advocated greater economy in State government and called for relief of the small business man, "whose problems are so many that sometimes he hardly knows which way to turn."

Bringing his campaign to Harnett County for the first time, the Canton attorney and former Superior Court judge addressed an enthusiastic crowd of about 150 citizens at an informal coffee hour at Porter's Restaurant.

Declaring that the tide has changed and that he is now confident of election, Moore told his applauding supporters:

Sees Victory Ahead
"Up until now, I've been saying that 'if I am elected, I now say that after I am elected because with the support of so many good people like those of you gathered here today, I am confident we shall be victorious."

Moore was introduced by an old college mate at Carolina, former Superior Court Judge Howard G. Godwin of Dunn. Among those in the audience was Miss Lillian Draughon, who Moore recalled in his address, taught him in the public school at Sylva 42 years ago.

Miss Draughon, happy to see her former tenth grade student again, told newsmen that, "He was a nice, polite boy and a good student."

In pleading for economy, Moore recalled that he worked his way through school by serving as its janitor.

"I say this to you," he said, "simply to impress upon you that I know the value of a dollar and after I am elected as your governor, I shall try to see that you receive a dollar's worth of value for your dollar in tax you pay to the State."

Would Sell Plane

Moore's loudest applause of his entire speech came when he declared: "I believe that the place where economy should begin is in the governor's office and I pledge to you here today that one of the first things I shall do the day after I take office is to put up for public sale at auction the present governor's private airplane."

He said the governor "doesn't need a private airplane half as much as people of the State need other services."

Citizens Tell Why

Reid Mitchell, Vice President of George Carroll Chevrolet Company, said this afternoon,

"I think that if the Bond Issue is passed over a period of years the Hospital will pay for itself if properly administered. I believe that it will be one of the greatest assets to Dunn, and the economic advantages it will bring our people... second to none!"

E. W. Smith, President of the Commercial Bank stated this afternoon, "Essential services of a progressive community must keep pace with the potential growth of the community. I believe that our hospital is one of the most essential parts of this community's welfare and that the current expansion plans are necessary in order (Continued on Page Five)

Johnson Sends Smallest Aid Budget Ever

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Johnson asked Congress today for a "no waste, no retreat" foreign aid program of $3.4 billion. He promised to cut bureaucracy and to speed up efforts to put recipient nations on a self-supporting basis.

It was the smallest foreign aid request since the program was started in 1948. Johnson, aware of the growing tendency in Congress to cut foreign aid funds, warned the lawmakers against his request.

"We will be laying up a harvest of woe for us and our children if we shrink from the task of grappling in the world community with poverty and ignorance," he said in a special message.

Will Be Cut

But the initial reaction in Congress was that the proposed program would be cut anyway. Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., chief House critic of foreign aid, said he was sure there was "plenty of fat in it" and Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., predicted it would be cut.

The President requested new legislation to permit the foreign aid agency - known as the Agency for International Development (Continued on Page 5)

Military Bands, Other Units To Parade Wed.

Hospital Parade Set

F. Wesley Coates, local Restaurant and Real Estate Businessman announced today plans for a Gala Hospital Bond Program Parade to be held at 4:00 p.m., Wednesday, March 25.

Mr. Coates, having worked on virtually every civic project Dunn has had over the past years, is well known for his skill in organizing successful parades. The Chairman of the Harnett

County March of Dimes said, in releasing the parade announcement,

"This Hospital Bond Program is the greatest project I have ever joined. The future of our town depends upon the outcome of the election March 28. I most sincerely hope that the parade we will have March 25th will help stimulate the community's interest in the new, modern hospital we need so badly, and thereby encourage a large 'Yes Vote' at the polls.

"In keeping with the extreme importance of this project to 'Build For a Greater Tomorrow' in Dunn, we are preparing what I believe will be the largest parade ever held for our families!"

MANY BANDS COMING

The initial units invited to participate are the XVIII Corps Band, Fort Bragg; the Sudan Oriental Band of Fayetteville; the United States Marine Corps Band, Cherry Point; the Dunn Senior High School Band; the Dunn Junior High School Band; the Benson High School Band; the Harnett High School Band; the Band and Drill Team from Edwards Military Institute in Salem; the Dunn Clowns; Erwin Rescue Squad; the Dunn Fire Department; the Junior Core Professional Skaters; Antique Auto Club of Fayetteville; the National Guard and the National Guard Color Guard; the Girls Scouts; the Brownies; the Boy Scouts; the Cub Scouts, and the "Local Beatles."

Judge Hill Seeks Second Term

Dunn city Judge Woodrow Hill formally announced today that he is a candidate to retain the Aversboro court bench for a second term.

In making the announcement, Judge Hill expressed his appreciation to the voters for the support given him in the past and pledged that if re-elected he will continue to mete out justice "to the best of my ability."

Judge Hill, a longtime Democratic party leader and known as a hard and tireless campaigner, is a layman who four years ago topped veteran Judge H. Paul Strickland from the bench after 12 consecutive years.

Hill won out over Strickland by a one-vote margin in an election dispute which went to the State Supreme Court and attracted State-wide interest and publicity.

Another hot race appeared to be shaping up for the office today.

Young Will Run
Former State Senator J. Robert (Bob) Young, who has served the court previously both as solicitor and judge, said today that he will definitely be a candidate for the office and plans to make his announcement around the first of April.

Mr. Strickland reportedly has told friends that he is not interested in opposing Hill again.

"The fact that I am not a lawyer," said Judge Hill today, "has caused me to work even harder to serve the people, who knew when they elected me that I do not have a law degree. I feel that other qualifications are just as vital to this office as a law degree and I believe my record of service will bear this out."

"I fully realize," said Judge Hill, "that I have made mistakes. Judges with law degrees make mistakes, too, because it is only human to err. 'But the mistakes I have made were on points of law and perhaps in judgment at times, but they were not mistakes of the heart because I have conscientiously endeavored at all times to do the right thing. The people who know me and who have attended my court know this (Continued on Page Five)
