LBJ Against Civil Rights Until This Year

SAN FRANCISCO — Sen. Barry Goldwater called President Johnson "the biggest faker in the United States" today and dared him to make a campaign issue of civil rights.

"Let him make an issue of it," said the Arizona senator who voted against the administration's civil rights bill. "He's the phoniest individual who ever came along."

Goldwater said Johnson "opposed civil rights until this year. . . I'll just repeat back to him the thousands of words he has spoken."

Goldwater said he can file a Johnson words spoken in opposition to legislation eliminating the poll tax as a voting requirement in federal elections, to public accommodations measures and to fair employment legislation.

GOLDWATER SWEEPS CONVENTION

Not A Pretty Sight, He Says

Barry Flays Demonstrators

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — For the first time, Sen. Barry Goldwater may come face to face today with the civil rights demonstrators who have been protesting his nomination all week.

If the demonstrators act as they did Wednesday night, Goldwater won't like what he sees.

In his victory statement, Goldwater spoke of what he had seen on television of the young Negroes and white persons who picketed, sang, and flopped themselves down at strategic locations at the Cow Palace.

"It didn't present a very pretty picture," Goldwater said. He said he didn't mind civil rights demonstrations against him "if they keep it at a decent level."

But if, he said, the demonstrators get out of hand and wind up being arrested "they'll be hurting their own cause . . . and I can't want to see them hurt their cause one bit."

Anti-Goldwater demonstrators have picketed the wind-swept approaches to the Cow Palace for two successive sessions of the Republican convention. Goldwater hasn't been within miles of the

Prosecutor Will Appeal Ruling

Sheppard Leaves Prison Under Bail

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Dr. Samuel Sheppard, central figure in one of the most controversial murder cases in American history, was released from the Ohio penitentiary Thursday under $10,000 bond, after serving nearly nine years in the brutal bludgeoning slaying of his pregnant wife, Marilyn.

He signed the bond at 1:20 p. m., EST, 10 minutes after being escorted from the penitentiary under security guard.

The 40-year-old osteopath, convicted in 1954 on a second-degree murder charge, Wednesday was ordered released by U. S. District Judge Carl A. Weinman in Dayton who called his jury trial in Cleveland a "mockery of justice."

The release order, granted on a writ of habeas corpus, voided Sheppard's 1954 conviction after a decade of legal proceedings which three times reached the U. S. Supreme Court.

Before Sheppard signed for the bond, Asst. Atty. Gen. David Kessler announced he would file an appeal to Weinman's federal order Thursday. However, Kessler said the filing of the appeal would not affect Sheppard's leaving Columbus.

Claims Innocence

"I am innocent, I am innocent," Sheppard repeated as he signed the paper releasing him on bond. He added the initials "D. O." after his name.

CORRECTION

In Wednesday's edition of the Daily Record, a financial statement for the period ending Dec. 31, 1963, appeared for Dafford Mutual Burial Association, Inc., of Dunn. The balance to be accounted for under disbursements should read $2,145.68 rather than $20,145.68.

Tuscon Lawyer Will Be New Party Chairman

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Senator Barry Goldwater has officially tapped Rep. William E. Miller of New York today to run with him as the Republican party's vice presidential nominee.

Goldwater aide Edward K. Nellor made official what had been unofficially certain since Wednesday afternoon when he told newsmen that Goldwater had asked Miller to take the vice presidential nomination.

Nellor's announcement came after former Sen. William F. Knowland of California called Goldwater this morning and asked that he be allowed to notify a California delegation meeting of the choice.

Miller has been serving as chairman of the Republican National Committee. He had been reported to be Goldwater's choice for the No. 2 spot on the ticket throughout the convention proceedings here.

The New Yorker said he will be "delighted" to join Goldwater in the effort to capture the White House in November.

Goldwater, moving to cement his control of the GOP party machinery, Thursday proposed that Dean Burch, Tuscon attorney and former Senate aide, be named chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Goldwater disclosed his choice to a meeting of state GMP chairmen. Word was relayed to reporters by Denison Kitchel, Goldwater's campaign director. Kitchel, who had been reported to be in line for the chairmanship, said he would remain as campaign director.

Burch, 36, was assistant director of the campaign which obtained the presidential nomination for Goldwater. He was administrative assistant to the Arizona senator in 1958 and 1959 and was an aide to Goldwater's short-lived bid for the 1960 presidential nomination.

This means that the reins of the party organization will be firmly in Goldwater's hands. Goldwater has made it clear in statements here that he wants to revitalize the national committee setup and return it to a position of power in the dispensing of federal patronage.

GUY WITH MR. AND MRS. C. L. GUY, JR. AT CALIFORNIA TRIAL

"Chiefly Matter of Courtesy," Says Hodges

Guy Hearing To Be Monday

North Carolina's chief paroles officer, H. A. Hodges, Jr. of Zebulon, said today that Charles Lee Guy III will be given a hearing Monday morning at 10 o'clock before the entire State Paroles Commission to determine whether or not he shall be returned to California to serve the remaining four and a half years of a ten-year term for the 1957 shotgun slaying of his mother's boy friend.

Hodges described the hearing as "chiefly a matter of courtesy" and said there could be no question about it since "Guy has already admitted violating parole orders of both the California Paroles Board and the N. C. Paroles Commission."

NANCE RETAINED

Guy will be represented at the hearing by Jim Nance, noted Fayetteville trial lawyer, since his father, Fayetteville attorney Charles Lee Guy, Jr., is ill in a Fayetteville hospital.

Hodges said a formal request for a hearing has been made and that such requests are always honored regardless of circumstance.

State paroles authorities have already recommended revocation of the youth's parole to California authorities. N. C. paroles officials assumed supervision over Guy when he was paroled to his native state.

Guy, member of a prominent Dunn family, has been questioned as a possible suspect in the slaying of Mary Marshall, 22, of Garland, who was attending Hank's Beauty College here when her body was found with a bullet between the eyes in a field in Johnston County last month.

Chairman N. F. Ransdell of Varina will preside over Monday's paroles hearing for Guy, who was also on parole for auto theft at the time he was convicted of the California killing.

Hodges made it plain N. C. paroles authorities would no longer assume responsibility for supervision of Guy in this State.

Hodges said Guy had violated parole by possessing a pistol and rifle, leaving the state twice without permission, buying an automobile without permission, getting married without permission and cashing several worthless checks.

He said any one of the offenses is a violation of parole.

Guy was given a 1-to-10 year term in California on a manslaughter charge in connection with the death of his divorced mother's suitor, Guy Roberts. His trial in November, 1957 attracted national attention when his father probably be returned to California.

Over 20 Thefts In Harnett, Lee, Moore

Three Arrests In Crime Wave

Bobby Gene Sharpe, 19, of Rt. 6 Sanford, walked into the Lee County sheriff's office in Sanford today and admitted his part in a two-year wave of burglaries in a three-county area, Sheriff D. F. Holder announced today.

Holder said Sharpe came in on his own and confessed his part in burglaries that had gone unsolved in Harnett, Moore and Lee Counties.

Two other burglary suspects were arrested late last week. The break on the case came last Thursday night when Boyd Kay Price, 26, of Rt. 6 Sanford, was nabbed by Deputy Paul Davis while allegedly trying to break in to the Broadway Drug Store.
