Accused Slayer Taken At Golf

One Of Ten Most Wanted Captured

DANVILLE, Va. (UPI) — One of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals and accused slayer who has had nine wives, was captured while hitting practice shots off a golf tee.

Agents said the dapper fugitive, 43 year old Thomas Edward Galloway, offered no resistance.

He is wanted in St. Louis, Mo., for the Jan. 29 slaying of hoodlum Paul J. Martorelli.

Martorelli's body was found in the front seat of his expensive convertible the morning after he and Galloway reportedly spent the evening drinking at a tavern.

Galloway was arrested in Spokane, Wash. Feb. 18, 1963 in connection with the murder and was returned to St. Louis. He was released on $35,000 bond but skipped town while awaiting trial, scheduled last Oct. The same bond was ordered, but not posted, at his arraignment here.

Agents said they picked up Galloway's trail on a tip from a woman who said she had seen a picture of him in a local newspaper.

Joseph D. Purvis, agent in charge of the Richmond, Va., FBI office, said agents caught up with Galloway at a golf course while making a routine check of public places.

Purvis said the agents approached the suspect and asked if he was Galloway.

"He said no, that his name was Roger Edward McNally. The agents asked if he would mind having his fingerprints taken because there was some confusion," Purvis recounted.

"He replied, 'why sure,' and the three started for a car. When they reached the car, he said 'there's no use—I'm Galloway'."

Dunn's New City Hall

No Fancy Frills, Luxuries, It'll Have Police Lineup

Dunn's new city hall, to contain 15,000 square feet at a cost estimated at $200,000, won't contain any luxury items or fancy frills.

But it will have many badly needed new innovations for this town such as a platform lighting, and other facilities for a police lineup, a larger jail, private offices for the mayor, judge, city manager, chief of police and most other department heads.

The new and larger police department will also contain a special interrogation room for the questioning of suspects and there'll be a combination jury and conference room and an auditorium large enough to seat 100 people.

The auditorium will double as a courtroom for citizens who attend city council meetings.

Architect Here

Architect George Jernigan, Jr. of Wilmington met last night with members of Dunn's city council and went over a suggested floor plan of the new structure, to be erected at the corner of S. Magnolia and E. Broad St.

Mr. Jernigan, members of the council City Attorney Max McLeod and City Manager Archie Uzzle discussed various features of the proposal, suggested a number of changes and Mr. Jernigan within the next few weeks is expected to submit a finished plan for approval.

The new city hall will be of contemporary design and of brick and masonry construction, modernistic throughout.

There will be an engineering room and private office for the city manager. The city clerk's office where taxes, water bills, etc. are paid will have a lobby. The fire station will be four spaces wide to allow side-by-side parking for three fire trucks and the rescue squad truck. Another fire station is being located behind the Dunn Armory.

The fire station will also contain sleeping quarters for at least two firemen, lockers for other firemen and other improvements over the present station.

Civil Rights Leaders See LBJ Landslide

NEW YORK — All across the nation today, Negro leaders bitterly denounced the nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater as the Republican candidate for President and began organizing in every State to defeat him.

James Farmer, national director of the Congress for Racial Equality, quickly predicted "a great landslide for President Johnson" on Nov. 2.

Negro spokesman, outraged and angered over selection of Goldwater, said the Republican Party is no longer the party of Lincoln but is "now the party of Barry Goldwater."

They predicted the greatest outpouring of Negro voters the nation has ever seen to defeat Goldwater, who voted against the civil rights bill and has declared he will not tolerate civil disobedience by Negroes or any other group.

"Disaster," Says King

Dr. Martin Luther King described Goldwater's nomination as "disastrous" and urged the nation's voters to withdraw support from "any Republican candidate that does not publicly disassociate himself from Sen. Goldwater and his philosophy."

"I think that it's obviously an attempt to appeal to all of the fearful, the insecure, prejudiced people in our society," said Whitney Young, director of the National Urban League.

"Tragedy" Says Wilkins

The Congress of Racial Equality called the nomination a "tragedy for the Republican party and for the American nation."

Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, said Negroes "generally will be disappointed at the nomination."

In New York, Negro attorney Paul Zuber filed a federal court suit to void Goldwater's nomination on the grounds that Negro delegates were excluded from the national convention.

CORE, which organized protest demonstrations outside the San Francisco Cow Palace during the convention, accused the GOP of "turning it back on its past... and its future."

In response, said CORE spokesman Marvin Rich, "we will encourage Negroes to register and vote."

The largest civil rights group, the NAACP, refused to comment, but pointed to a resolution adopted at their 55th annual convention last June in Washington.

The home of the Lee Eason family was practically destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon in the Baersville community on Route 4, Dunn.

According to Howard M. Lee, secretary - treasurer of the department, the fire started when Mrs. Lee was cooking a mid-afternoon meal on an oil cook stove which exploded.

Nothing was saved, he added. The house was enveloped in flames when the nine firemen arrived at the scene.

About $1500 damage was done to the house owned by Louis Baer, and $1000 to the contents. Insurance covered the house, but not the contents.

The couple has a 14 year old child.

Eleven men remained on call at the station, Lee said, and one truck was sent to the fire. A water truck was summoned a few minutes later.

Nance Convinced Guy Did Not Murder Girl

Lawyer Reveals That Guy Took Two Lie Tests

Fayetteville attorney James R. (Jim) Nance, employed to represent convicted slayer Charles Lee Guy III at a parole revocation hearing to be held Monday in Raleigh, declared today:

"I'm convinced he didn't kill that girl."

Nance was referring to the fact that Guy has been questioned as a possible suspect in the slaying of 22-year-old Mary Marshall, a Dunn beauty college attendant, whose body was found in a field near Clayton on June 10, shot between the eyes.

"The truth of the matter," said Nance, "is that these alleged parole violations would never have come to light except for the fact that Charles had cooperated fully with authorities in an effort to help solve the slaying of this young lady."

"He could have clammed up and said nothing and wouldn't be in trouble today," pointed out Nance, one of the State's best and most widely-known courtroom lawyers.

Paroles Hearing Monday

Nance, a colorful figure in the courtroom and a lawyer with a reputation for winning his cases, will defend Guy Monday morning at 10 o'clock before the Paroles Commission in Raleigh against charges that he is guilty of a half dozen violations of his parole.

Guy, regarded as an "up and coming" recording artist who has already made a number of records, was paroled from the California State prison in 1963 after serving five and a half years of a 10-year term for the shotgun slaying of his mother's boy friend back in 1957.

He was arrested Tuesday by SBI Agent William (Bill) O'Daniel and Probation Officer B. M. Bryant and is now being held in the Wake County jail pending a hearing on the parole violations to determine if Guy is to be returned to California to serve the remaining four and a half years of his sentence.

Sees Little Hope

Nance frankly takes a dim view of any chances for saving Guy from revocation of his paroles and said parole authorities apparently have already decided Guy is guilty or they would not have issued orders for his arrest.

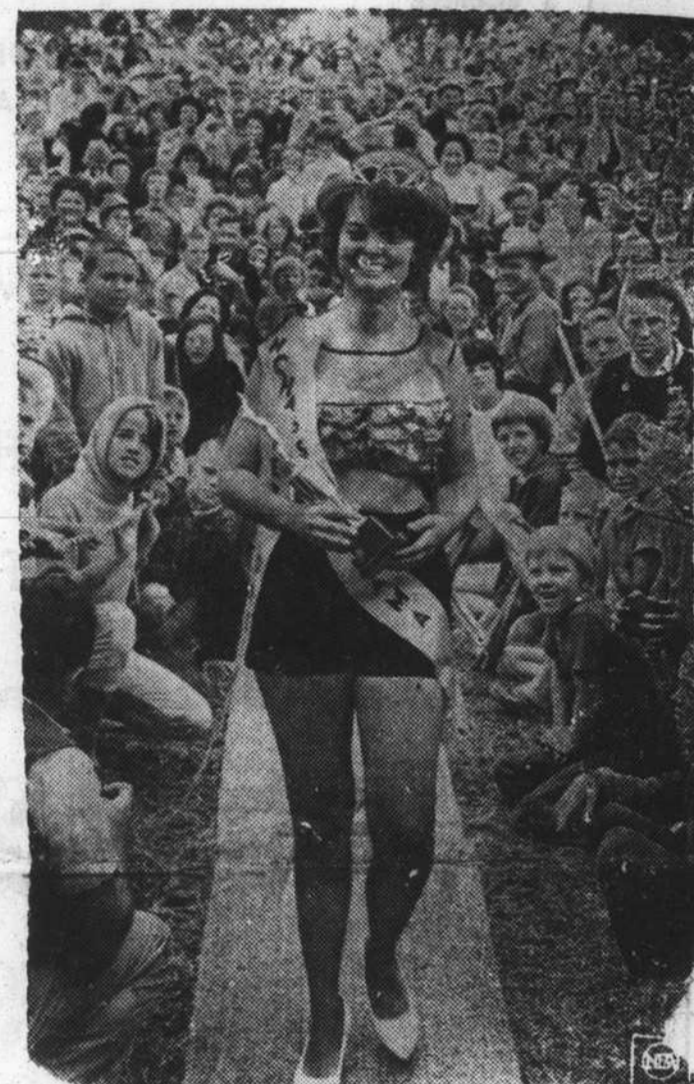

The decision is a discretionary matter from which there is no appeal, pointed out Attorney Nance.

"Of course, I could secure a habeas corpus to delay it, but I doubt it would do any good," he added.

He charged that the North Carolina Paroles Commission had taken the action on its own initiative without consulting California authorities and said an official told him just yesterday that no reply had been received from the California parole board on its recommendation for revocation.

The N. C. commission assumed

Officials Cut Budget Requests

Tax Rate For Dunn Scheduled At $1.07

Mayor George Franklin Blalock said today that city officials are working on a new budget that will reduce the city tax rate from $1.40 to $1.07 per hundred dollar valuation to offset the increase in value brought about by the county revaluation.

The town ended the past fiscal year with an underspent surplus of about $30,000 and Blalock said this would be used to avoid a tax increase.

Blalock said expenditures for the coming year are expected to be about the same as last year except for about $15,000 in payments which come due this year for purchases made last year.

The new budget will provide for purchase of a new police car and two new garbage trucks. Last year's appropriations totaled $542,855.

ORDERS ECONOMY

"I have asked City Manager Uzzle to cut everything to the bone,"

Blalock. "We intend to keep the cost of operating the town low."

He said some people may have to pay a total tax bill a little higher than last year while others will pay less, but that he expects most citizens to pay about the same thing. This depends on the valuation set on individual pieces of property. The town has nothing to do with this.

Mayor Blalock will meet Monday night with Commissioners Sallye Whitehead and Bill Cameron of the finance committee and Mr. Uzzle to continue work on the budget.

The mayor said the town hopes to grant a three per cent across-the-board raise to all town employees. He said the town would be unable to afford more. He said the three per cent raise would cost the town a total of $2,000.

He said many items requested for the coming year have already been cut out of the new budget.

To Return To Capital Next Week

Barry Gives Up Vacation

Goldwater abandoned tentative plans for a short California holiday today and made plans to return to Washington early next week.

Press aide Lee Edwards told newsmen "present indications are" that Goldwater will leave San Francisco for his home in Phoenix this afternoon and return to Washington after "a weekend or a couple of days" there.

There had been talk earlier this week about a short holiday for the whole Goldwater family in Southern California. La Jolla and the Balboa area had been mentioned as possible places.

The tentative program announced today, however, would put the GOP presidential nominee back in Washington when the Senate resumes its deliberations.

The revised schedule, still tentative, was announced as Goldwater prepared to leave his headquarters here for a meeting with the Republican National Committee. He was to ask that his long time aide Dean Burch be named national GOP chairman.

Major topic of conversation here as delegates began leaving the convention city was controversial line in the Goldwater acceptance speech delivered Thursday night. The senator, through his aides, made it clear that he liked the line.
