At seven o'clock Saturday evening in the Virginia Dare ballroom, Hotel Sir Walter, Raleigh, the Rev. Galen Elliott and Rabbi Fred Rypins officiated jointly at the marriage of Miss Nelia Mae Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Quincy Adams of Willow Springs to Charles Arthur Murkowsky.

Mr. Murkowsky is from North Arlington, N. J., and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rubin Murkowsky of that city. He is a medical student at the University of Rochester Medical School, Rochester, N. Y., where his bride is working toward a Ph.D. degree in biochemistry.

Both spent their undergraduate junior years in Munich, Germany, and received their bachelors' degrees in 1962, he from Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., and she from Agnes Scott College, Decatur, Ga. Mr. Murkowsky attended Wesleyan on a four-year Baker scholarship and was graduated with honors in German. The former Miss Adams did biochemical research at Harvard Medical School after her graduation.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown of peau de soie, with bodice of vermicelli lace, embroidered in seed pearls, and a detachable chapel train. Her veil was caught to a crown of seed pearls and lace, and she carried a bouquet of orchids. She was given in marriage by her father.

Her sisters, Miss Anne Adams and Mrs. Stewart Adcock of Willow Springs, were maid and matron of honor. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Joan Murkowsky of North Arlington, N. J., Mrs. John Quincy Adams III of Willow Springs, Mrs. David Williams of Washington, D. C., and Miss Jarice Stieber of Hillside, N. J., were bridesmaids.

Best man was Gerald Rothberg of New York City. John Quincy Adams III of Willow Springs, the bride's brother, ushered with Stewart Adcock of Willow Springs, Paul Biederman of North Arlington, N. J., Michael Sussman of Kearny, N. J., and Ralph Kressel of New York City.

The Adams held the reception in the Elizabeth Room of the Hotel Sir Walter.

The Murkowsky will live in Rochester, after a Nassau wedding trip.

Officiating ministers, Mr. Elliott and Rabbi Rypins, were from Mount Pleasant Presbyterian Church, Willow Springs, and Temple Emmanuel, Greensboro, respectively. Rabbi Rypins is rabbi emeritus of the Temple.

Dunn Needs Welcome Wagon Hostess

Emilie English breezed into the office last week with a big problem — the need for a Welcome Wagon hostess for the area.

With the recent resignation of Mrs. Billie Bryant Dunn has been without a hostess. Mrs. English has spent several weeks here interviewing prospective ladies for the job.

She was quick to express the importance of the job noting that Welcome Wagon is an international business of human and public relations founded in Memphis forty years ago.

"Welcome Wagon has a very definite purpose," she emphasized, "that is to be of service to the community, the people living in the community and to the business community itself."

Mrs. English is well versed on the subject as she is presently serving as supervisor of the eastern half of the state, a job she has held for 14 years. For many years prior to her supervisory position, she served as Wilson's Welcome Wagon hostess.

With her charm, intelligence and loveliness, one would know by just talking to Mrs. English that she is a great asset to Welcome Wagon.

Welcome Wagon has been in Dunn for over 15 years and has been very successful during that time.

"Welcome Wagon appeals to a housewife and mother because of the flexibility of the schedule," she continued.

A Welcome Wagon hostess greets and welcomes newcomers to town on behalf of the community and presents them a basket of gifts, compliments of local merchants. A good hostess radiates enthusiasm about her community.

Her area would cover Dunn, Erwin, Bules Creek and Benson. Mrs. English lives in Wilson at 110 Daniel Street. — Lucille May

Canning String Beans

By RUBY I. PARKER Home Economics Agent

During a telephone call, it was suggested to the home economics agent that a news article should be written about the danger of not using a steam pressure canner for canning string beans. The lady said she had been telling people the risk that they were taking in not using the pressure canner for string beans.

In talking to a certain lady she remarked, "I have used the hot water bath all these years and have not had any trouble. The beans are good."

The beans may taste good. The poison can be present in the food when there is no sign of spoilage. The botulism is an extremely potent poison. It may cause persons to be very sick and death may result.

All vegetables except tomatoes are low in acid and hard to sterilize. The pressure canner is used to be certain of killing the bacteria that is in spore form, which requires a temperature higher than that of boiling water. Water in the pressure canner is converted to steam. The steam when held under pressure, raises the temperature according to the amount of pressure maintained, this will kill all bacteria. The family should have the pressure canner checked each season for safety.

There is certainly a saving in time and electricity by canning beans with a steam pressure canner.

BLANCHING VEGETABLES

The rest of the telephone call was about freezing vegetables. Is it correct that all vegetables should be blanched? So many people say that blanching vegetables is unnecessary. This question was answered years ago by the Food Chemists.

Why blanch them? Heat stops the natural chemical enzymes which are in all vegetables. Enzymes produce off-flavors and spoil the fresh color of frozen vegetables.

It is possible to blanch the vegetables and have them turn out poorly. The heat must go to the inside of the vegetable. The exact time of blanching depends at one time. A pound of a vegetable upon which vegetable it is, boiling water is good.

Keep heat high and start counting time as soon as the vegetable is immersed into the water. Cool the vegetable quickly. It may be cooled the approximate time of blanching. Package immediately. Freeze rapidly. The quicker the freezing, the better the flavor and texture of food. Place packages in freezer with air space around each package.

To obtain the best flavor in frozen vegetables, gather vegetables when they are at the best quality for eating. Work with small amount; get food into freezer as quickly as possible, following procedures suggested.

A bulletin listing varieties good for freezing and suggestions for freezing may be obtained from our office.
