Democratic Paper For Goldwater

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — The Wilmington Star - News-Papers have endorsed Sen. Barry Goldwater for the presidency and Dan K. Moore for governor of North Carolina.

In an editorial scheduled for publication Sunday morning, the newspapers said of Goldwater, the Republican candidate:

"This good man's life demonstrates beyond all doubt he is a true and able defender of personal freedom. His words, votes and actions uphold his belief in the rights of every individual regardless of race, color or creed."

Of Moore, the Democratic nominee for governor, the newspapers said:

"Judge Moore won the Democratic nomination because he was the center of the road' candidate among three offered to the party's voters. His integrity, experience in public life and ability to serve were also important factors. We believe his sound program is the more promising to the greater progress of North Carolina."

AID FIGURES ANNOUNCED

PARIS (UPI) — The United States and 11 other free world countries gave a total of $8,145,000,000 in economic aid to developing countries last year, it was announced Wednesday by the 12-nation Development Assistance Committee DAC of the 21-member Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development OECD.

As in previous years, the United States was by far the biggest foreign aid giver. Its foreign aid in 1963 totaled $4,726,000,000.
