BARRY BACKING FARM SUPPORTS

Crowd of 20,000 Hears Barry At Greer, S. C.

GREER, S. C. (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater campaigned in the Carolinas today with a prediction that the defection of Sen. Strom Thurmond from the Democratic party will cause a gradual realignment of the political parties. "Hundreds of people, thousands of people, and now millions of people will make a move," Goldwater told a crowd estimated by police at 8,000 to 10,000 in front of the courthouse in Raleigh, N. C. Thurmond, who repudiated the Democratic party Wednesday night to become the Deep South's only Republican senator, Goldwater as one of America's "most courageous men."

The 61-year-old conservative told his constituents that Goldwater would make a great president. "He has risked the ire of the liberal, left-wing, socialist establishment in this country - even in his own party - in order to stand by his convictions as to the meaning and intent of the Founding Fathers in giving us the United States Constitution," Thurmond said.

Wave Rebel Flags
Some 20,000 persons, many holding Confederate flags, were on hand for what was expected to be Goldwater's lone visit to South Carolina. Thurmond said Goldwater's candidacy deserved the support of "all South Carolinians and all Americans." Goldwater told his audience, "There is nothing left... of the principles that your fathers and grandfathers stood for in the Democratic party. I wonder how many votes Hubert Humphrey would have gotten out of the South of your fathers and grandfathers." "As long as this party no longer represents your principles you can vote for the party that keeps those principles alive. That's the Republican party of today," Goldwater said.

He hailed the emergence of a real two-party system in Dixie. "Follow the brave example of Strom Thurmond," Goldwater told the cheering crowd.

Weapon Non - Nuclear, Says K

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Thursday night Russia has a "terrible" non-nuclear weapon near Moscow. "It is not a nuclear weapon because it is near Moscow," Khrushchev told this correspondent in a conversation at a diplomatic reception. "A nuclear weapon would require testing and, anyhow we are not testing," said Khrushchev. Khrushchev said he had been "strongly misreported" when quoted Tuesday as telling Japanese visitors he had a "monstrous new terrible weapon" of "unlimited power."

Woman Indicts Him

Spanked Too Hard

A young woman testified in Harnett Recorder's Court that Fred Page spanked her too hard after an argument between the two at Leon Surles' tobacco barn on August 26. Miss Marie Honeycutt indicted Page for assault. He pleaded not guilty. She said she slapped him and then he took her down across a pile of tobacco and spanked her hard enough to cause bruises that necessitated two trips to a doctor. Page took the stand and said he merely spanked her like he would a child, but not until she had struck him on the nose. Other defense witnesses said they thought the two were just playing. Judge Robert Morgan continued prayer for judgement and ordered Page to pay court costs and not assault or molest the woman again. He reminded the woman that Page could have indicted her for assault since she struck him first.

Says Humphrey Hasn't Helped

Wallace Asks State Control Of Schools

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — He told a Milwaukee news conference he hoped the Alabama Legislature would set an example for other Southern states. Wallace, who is on a four-state speaking tour, said he had not yet made up his mind whether he will support President Johnson or Sen. Barry M. Goldwater in the November election. He said Goldwater is "strong" in the South and added that Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Democratic vice presidential candidate, "hasn't helped the party's ticket in the South, and that's putting it mildly."

Wallace, on his first Northern foray since he entered the Wisconsin and Indiana Democratic presidential primaries, said he expected the legislative session to act on proposals which would be constitutional but have not been enacted before.

Tells Raleigh Audience He'd Help Farmers

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater today attacked the Johnson administration's "arrogant and bureaucratic-minded" Department of Agriculture and said a "willing president" can work with farmers to solve agriculture's problems. The Republican presidential contender, starting the third day of a southern stump tour, also renewed his appeal for help from Democratic voters in the once solid South. Goldwater spoke at a GOP breakfast here, then made a downtown appearance in front of the local courthouse. He again praised the action of Sen. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina in defecting from the Democratic to the Republican party.

Would Move Slowly

Goldwater took pains at the rally breakfast, to say that he would not move to abolish the federal farm programs overnight. He said that "in fact, the president couldn't do it if he wanted to." Challenging statements made by some local Democratic leaders, he said he has never advocated the immediate removal of government price support programs from such commodities as tobacco, cotton and peanuts. "Working with farmers," he said, "a willing president can work out the problems that agriculture finds itself in." In telling his audience that he would not move to end farm price support programs over night, Goldwater said such programs are "creatures of Congress." Also, Cites TVA It was the same phrase he employed Wednesday to assure a Knoxville, Tenn., audience that a president could not take "arbitrary action." (Continued On Page Six)

Speaks On Conservation In Portland

Enthusiastic Crowd Greet LBJ

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — President Johnson received an enthusiastic greeting today from thousands of supporters who braved a steady rain to hail his arrival in the third state of his four-state Western tour. The President flew here from Seattle, Wash., where, in a speech Wednesday night he issued a series of anti-war pledges that re-emphasized the question of nuclear arms control as an election campaign issue.

Johnson told a civic dinner that the nation and the world "can rest assured that we have taken every step man can devise to ensure that neither a madman nor a malfunction could trigger nuclear war."

Further, he said, he "will never let slip the engines of destruction because of a reckless and rash miscalculation about our adversaries."

Conservation Message

Johnson brought a conservation message with him to Portland for a speech before public and private power groups connected with an 11-state inspection of hydro-electric facilities.

The visit was officially a non-partisan one and Johnson was met at the ramp by Oregon's Republican Gov. Mark Hatfield. But there was a political tone to the crowd reception, with much of the throng made up of youngsters holding aloft pro-Johnson placards.

Amid applause and the screaming of teen-age girls, Johnson walked along a lengthy link-chain fence behind which the airport crowd pressed and shook hands with hundreds standing in the front row.

Johnson wore a light raincoat but held his hat in his left hand much of the time despite the down-pour.

Baptists Plan Educational Bldg.

The Lillington Baptist Church voted in recent church conference to accept the proposal of its building committee in regards to the construction of a new educational building. The building will be placed on the vacant lot to the rear of the present building and is estimated to cost around $200,000. There will be facilities in the building for the nursery, beginner, primary, junior and intermediate departments of the Sunday school. It will also contain the church offices and a fellowship hall able to accommodate 250 people. Of three-story construction, only two floors will be visible from the street. The elevation of the property will permit the ground floor to be above ground except at the street entrance. The church has been working many months now in trying to decide on the type of building best needed. The building committee was unanimous in its proposal and the church accepted it without a dissenting vote. W. K. Sexton, chairman of the committee, said the church will be able to accommodate 250 people. (Continued on Page Six)

Mother Sees Fire Victims Buried

MANKATO, Minn. (UPI) — A tanned, freckled mother dressed in black stood looking at the 10 little white caskets in Pilgrim's Rest Cemetery. A Salvation Army captain prayed at the graveside where nine of her children and an orphan who lived with them were to be buried. The mother sobbed. Her 14-year-old daughter buried her head against her step-father's shoulder. After a last look, the mother walked away in tears with her husband and daughter. The children died in a fire that swept the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bowdish near Kaskets, Minn., Saturday night. The unemployed father and mother were in Minneapolis getting a bed from friends for the farm home which a rock company let them use rent-free. Joanne McConnell, 14, the mother's daughter by a previous marriage who bicycled more than a mile to a neighbor's house for help and collapsed, was the only survivor. The funeral was held Wednesday at the Bethel Baptist Church. The 10 caskets were arranged in the front of the church in setting of roses, mums and other flowers. Boy Scouts served as pall bearers. Camp Fire Girls, lined the sidewalks outside. From the church, three youngsters took the caskets to the cemetery. Burial plots were donated and a collection paid for the funeral. The Salvation Army started collecting funds for the family.
