President Joseph L. Smith will preside at the meeting.

"You Have To Fight 24 Hours A Day," Says Blalock

Mayor's Life No Bed Of Roses

Dunn Mayor Franklin Blalock can give first-hand testimony to prove the fact that the life of a mayor is no bed of roses.

Discussing the hospital issue, which he cites to prove his point, Mayor Blalock emphasizes his belief in democracy. "I am honest and sincere in my efforts and I accept constructive criticism if it is based on knowledge and not rumor."

"But in return for honest public service," he continues, "an official should not be subjected to vilification and criticism just for the sake of being butted."

Citing his service to the town as a councilman and mayor since 1947, as well as 24 years of military service, Blalock reviews some of his accomplishments and headaches.

In return for his forthright, honest stands, he says he's been vilified on the street corners, via radio and from the pulpits.

"I have no apology for my public record and what I have contributed in every phase to my town," he said. "But no one man should have to fight 24 hours per day to give his town clean, honest government."

Following is part of the text of his statement: My friends, I have served off
