Necking Parties Prove Problem In London

Party Petting Curb, Protests

LONDON — Britain's government-owned Central Electricity Generating Board took action today to lower the temperature of its office Christmas parties.

Officials directed the board's score of offices to appoint patrols to break up necking at the annual get-togethers. The patrols will be instructed to discourage cuddling couples, and to clear dark corridors and smoky corners of amorous couples. The directive was met by an editorial blast from the London Sun, which said: "Somebody always wants to knock the fun out of Christmas. This year the Scrooges are cracking down on staff parties."

"The Central Electricity Generating Board is sending their staff chiefs a briefing on Christmas parties. The message advises that anti-petting patrols should roam the corridors and break up affectionate situations. "Anyone who thinks he can keep romance out of offices is going to have his work cut out. So long as there are men and women in the world they will meet somewhere. And people who are adult enough to earn a living should be adult enough to control their own behavior without being spied on by office vigilantes."

The Central Electricity Generating Board was not only the only government-owned authority to take note of Christmas office parties.

The gas board said it wasn't worried so much about morals as hangovers. The board's northwest region staff journal suggested five ways to ease the morning-after feeling. They were: A pint of milk, an ounce of olive oil, a large steak, a plateful of tripe, or a raw onion.

Lord Robens, chairman of Britain's Coal Board, when told of the electricity board's action said: "I wouldn't think of insuring our employees this way."

All Residents Of Yuba City Urged To Leave

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Residents of Yuba City, Calif., scene of a Christmas flood disaster, in 1955 began leaving town today following an official warning that the swollen Feather and Yuba rivers would reach the danger level late today.

City and county officials were hopeful that new levees would hold back the waters where the two rivers join. But they suggested that all of the city's 16,000 residents leave when the rivers reach 77 feet and a 79-foot crest was expected later today.

A Sutter County deputy sheriff said "a pretty heavy stream of traffic" was headed out of town during the night.

Civil defense officials began moving patients from the county hospital and rest home to an emergency 200-bed hospital 10 miles west of Yuba City.

"Our people are very gun-shy here," civil defense Director Andrew Clark said, "We lost 32 in 1955."

Yuba City is the main danger spot in the storm-battered West. The governors of Oregon and California proclaimed disaster areas and the Nevada governor declared an emergency. At least eight persons were dead and more than 6,000 persons fled their homes.

Weather forecaster William Denny offered a ray of hope. He said rain, sometimes heavy, would continue through Thursday, but that the total in the next 36 hours would probably be only half of the downpour of the past 24 hours.

Judges Raided At Yule Party

CHICAGO (UPI) — Federal officers felt right at home when they staged a raid on a Christmas party where illegal drinking was going on.

In fact, they were at home when they entered the press room of the new federal building and ordered about 50 guests Tuesday, including U. S. district judges, to break up the party.

U. S. guards of the General Services Administration carried out the raid.

In the room were at least three federal judges, Abraham Marovitz, Joseph Sam Perry and Julius Hoffman. There were also nine federal prosecutors, a dozen U. S. marshals and newsmen assigned to the building.

The GSA acted under law banning drinking on federal reservations.

The crackdown was the first in memory of veteran federal court-house reporters. Christmas parties were an annual event in the old federal building, now scheduled to be razed.

Two Killed, Several Hurt; Houses Burn

Jet Crashes Between Homes

SANFORD, Fla. (UPI) — A Navy jet crashed in the nearby retirement village of Debary today, reportedly killing two persons and injuring several others. The state highway patrols said the twin-engine jet crashed and exploded between two homes.

One of the victims was the pilot of the plane, which was based at the Sanford Naval Air Station. The other was a resident of one of the homes set ablaze by the crash, the highway patrol said.

The retirement village of Debary is about eight miles northwest of here.

"It sounded like a bomb went off," said assistant postmaster Bob Finn of Debary.

"One house was demolished and the other was about halfway destroyed," Finn said. "Five or six others were damaged by falling debris. Some of them were set on fire."

The highway patrol said the crash set an automobile on fire and injured the vehicle's occupant.

Finn said witnesses to the crash reported two men ejected from the plane before it hit.

"There was a parachute hanging in a tree," he reported. "There were pieces of plane and pieces of houses scattered 100 yards in all directions from the crater."

MESSAGE FOR MOTORISTS — State trooper Sam Johnson of Four Oaks is shown here with one of the posters being distributed by the highway patrol urging motorists to exercise extreme caution to assure a safe holiday season. ## Safe Driving Best Gift

"The best Christmas present Harnett County motorists and pedestrians can give themselves is an accident-free holiday," says Corporal J. B. Pierce, commander of the State Highway Patrol in Harnett County.
