Bold Daylight Jewel Theft In Miami Today

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Three gunmen broke into a fashionable home Tuesday, dragged the housewife about by the hair while threatening to "kill everybody" and stole over $25,000 in jewels.

Police said the three forced a houseman to let them into the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fisher in the exclusive Surfside area.

Police described the daring daylight robbery as "professional all the way."

Mrs. Jane Fisher, 38, was downstairs telephoning at the time of the break-in and her husband, a prominent 44-year-old contractor, was in bed upstairs.

"They said if I didn't tell them where all the money was, they would kill me," Mrs. Fisher told police. "They pulled my hair and dragged me across the floor. I told them we just didn't have any money in the house."

The men, in neat clothing and all carrying pistols, tied handman and chauffeur Hardy Rogers with a belt and went upstairs where they routed Fisher out of bed.

"They put the muzzle of a gun to his head and threatened to blow his brains out if they weren't told where the money was," said Detective Sgt. Warren Dalrymple.

Fisher led the men to a safe in a closet. He opened it for them and they "cleaned it out... every bit of jewels," the detective said.

Henderson Tells Officials Money Isn't Available No U.S. Funds For City Hall

Mayor Bill Marshburn, Commissioners Mayo Smith and Howard Hardy and City Manager Archie Uzzle conferred with the congressman at his offices in Wallace to explore every possibility of how the town might secure Federal help for the project.

Congressman Henderson offered little or no encouragement. He explained to the officials that the only way a town can qualify for such Federal grants is to be designated as a depressed area.

Three different surveys have been made of economic conditions in Dunn during recent years and each time the government found that the town did not qualify since unemployment here is less than six per cent.

Mayor Marshburn said Congressman Henderson appeared anxious to help but apparently has no way of doing so.

"Many towns in much better economic circumstances than Dunn are receiving such funds," pointed out the mayor, "but it is (Continued on Page Six)

Red Sympathizers Arrested Roundup Underway In Algiers

ALGIERS (UPI) — Col. Houari Boumediene, Algeria's new military strong man, is carrying out a large-scale roundup of supporters of deposed former President Ahmed Ben Bella, it was reported today.

Unofficial reports variously estimated that between 200 and 600 persons, some of them Communist sympathizers, have been arrested in Algiers and other cities since the coup which overthrew Ben Bella early Saturday.

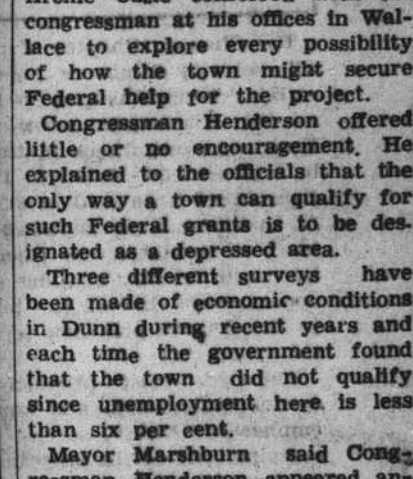

The city was calm after two days of pro-Ben Bella demonstrations. Sidewalk cafes were jammed as the city lazed under a scorching sun. Stores were opened again and traffic was heavy in the downtown streets.

There were no signs of special security precautions and tanks and troops were gone from the streets. Only the usual guards in blue-grey Algerian army uniforms with tommyguns were sentry duty outside the government buildings.

Telephone and telegraphic communications were restored with the outside world and censors were withdrawn from offices of foreign news agencies. (Continued on Page Six)
