Top Medical Brass Attends Dunn Meet

Once each year, deep in a pine forest near here, time turns backward for 150 of North Carolina's top medical brass.

Far away are stainless steel, surgical green and air conditioning. Just for a day, they exchange their glass-walled offices for a pine needle carpet and a rustic log cabin.

It's called the "Big Meeting." Surgeons, specialists, dentists, veterinarians and medical administrators from the state's three medical schools come to Harnett County to eat steak and taters with their country cousins.

Sponsored by the Harnett County Medical and Dental Society, the "Big Meeting" was started 20 years ago, and the old timers says the meeting's flavor hasn't changed a bit.

This year the outing was held on Wednesday with invited guests from Duke University, the University of North Carolina and Bowman Gray as well as more than a score of doctors from Winston-Salem to Wilmington.

On "Big Meeting" day the crowd began to gather just after lunch for golf, dove hunting and fishing.

Swanson Prepares Feast The feast started about dark under the direction of V. C. Swanson, head man at the "Big Meeting" each year. Appetites were partially appeased with 200 pounds of taters steeped in a converted liquor still, five gallons of pickles, two gallons of olives and 15 gallons of ice-cold lemonade.

"But even then," Swanson says, "the first few rounds of steaks went as fast as I could cook them."

He grills 50 at a time on an open fire.

The steaks are so big, Swanson says that he has yet to see one man eat two whole steaks.

"There are always a few who try to eat two, but two 24-ounce steaks make a lot of meat," he says. A retired service station owner, Swanson is an honorary member of the Society. He presides at each dinner meeting.

Held each year at the Dr. Paul C. Parker cabin and lake 10 miles from Dunn, the gala stag party also features entertainment and a business session. Entertainment this year was by the Capitones, a Raleigh barber shop quartette.

Dr. Glen L. Hooper looks on the unique annual affair as a sort of old-fashioned homecoming. Dr. Hooper has headed the "Big Meeting" committee since its inception.

"Our aim," he says, "is to provide an afternoon and evening of relaxation, good food and professional fellowship for our associates in medical schools and private practice."

The only meeting of its type in North Carolina, the "Big Meeting" was conceived in the late '30's when a few Duke guests were invited to attend the Society's annual meeting.

The first recorded minutes of the Harnett County Medical Society are dated March 15, 1929, when 12 doctors held quarterly meetings. The only living member of that group is Dr. C. L. Corbett.

As early as 1932 dinner meetings were held occasionally on the farms of members, but it was not until 1939 that guests were invited. (Continued On Page Six)

Former Erwin Man Is Killed In Kansas

The vacation of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Parker and family of Denver, Colorado, terminated in tragedy, Thursday, when the 1957 Plymouth operated by Parker was completely smashed under a tractor trailer in Oberline, Kansas.

Parker, a former resident of Dunn and son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Parker of Route 4, Dunn, attended Erwin High School and William Carter Bible College in Goldsboro. At one time he was assistant manager of McCrory's here.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker have been residing in Colorado for three and a half years during which time they have not been home.

The accident, which took the life of Parker and seriously injured his wife, involved two cattle tractor trailers.

The first trailer made a left turn in front of the Plymouth and forced it to skid under the rear of the truck crushing the car, and causing it to be thrown into the path of an oncoming truck. The car ripped open upon impact and plunged through a 30-foot embankment.

Billy suffered massive chest injuries which lacerated both lungs

Moore Is Not Considering Special Term

HALEIGH (UPI) — Gov. Dan K. Moore said today the reapportionment suit filed in federal court is "unwarranted" and the present legislative and congressional districts will be defended by every legal means.

"I have directed the attorney general to take all legal steps necessary to protect the North Carolina system of representative government," the governor said in a prepared statement read at his weekly news conference.

"The suit entered in federal court earlier this month to require redistricting of our General Assembly and our congressional districts is unnecessary."

He said North Carolina's legislature is patterned after the federal system with one House apportioned on the basis of population and the other on geography.

This system has served North Carolinians well, and it will be defended by every legal means.

In answer to a question, he said he definitely is not considering a special session of the legislature at this time.

In other action, the governor: — Approved the appointment by the State Probation Commission of Charles M. Chadfelter of Lexington as director. He succeeds W. C. Cochran.

— Said the transfer of patients between the state mental hospitals and retardation centers at Goldsboro and Kinston were "made to comply with the new federal civil rights law enacted by Congress. The state of North Carolina had no choice in this matter." He said a committee had been appointed to investigate complaints and report to him.

Moore took a defiant stand on the question of the federal reapportionment suit.

He said he could not predict how the state's resistance will turn out. He said the state has devised no plan in case it meets defeat and no plan will be devised until the court acts.

Asked why he thought North Carolina would have more success defending against the law-suit than have neighboring states Moore said: "We have gone ahead and done what we thought was proper." He said he thinks the present apportionment of the legislature is "proper." (Continued On Page 6)

Benson Official Resigns Post

The resignation of Dr. John H. Chapin from the board of commissioners was received and accepted "with regret" at the regular meeting of the town governing board Monday night.

Dr. Chapin's service of four years and five months will be commemorated in a resolution of appreciation being drawn by Town Manager Don Archer at the direction of Mayor Robert A. Tart and the other members of the board. Dr. Chapin is leaving Benson in October to establish his practice in Sanford.

A replacement for Dr. Chapin will be named at an early date. Absent from the regular September meeting was Commissioner Charles Turlington who is expected to return to his home in Benson this week from a four week stay at Johnston Memorial Hospital in Smithfield where he has been recuperating from a heart attack suffered in mid-August. Federal funds amounting to $6.7 million and $200,000 in state money was allocated late Friday by the State Medical Care Commission for the construction of 11 new medical facilities in North Carolina.

The total cost of the new projects will amount to $24 million, when local funds are included, said William F. Henderson, executive secretary of the commission.

He said approximately 700 beds will be added to the States hospital system with the approval of the new projects.

With $63 million worth of medical projects currently in the planning stage or under construction and the $24 million approved Friday, Henderson said "there's more money tied up in hospital construction than at any other comparable period in the history of the commission's work."

Projects approved included: the new 115-bed hospital at Dunn, $1 million in federal funds, $100,000 in State money — total cost $2.5 million.

Also promised from the 1966 federal allotment to N. C. was an additional $138,500 grant to the new Dunn hospital.

In addition to this federal and state money, Dunn will also have the following funds for use in erecting the new hospital:

From Town of Dunn bonds, $50,000; from Betsy Johnson Memorial Hospital funds now on hand, $39,339.33. The hospital has also been given authority to mortgage the present hospital property, if necessary, for an additional $300,000. (Continued On Page Six)

Routine Cases In County Court

Clenton Clay of Angier, Rt. 2, was sentenced to six months on the roads in Harnett Recorder's Court for larceny of a radio. The court recommended he be examined and treated for an epileptic condition.

Truby Richard Kye, Sanford, who was charged with no operator's license and driving under the influence, elected to take six months on the roads instead of a job on the work release program and was committed. Kye had the chance to work on a job with pay during the day, stay in jail at night, but refused it, preferring to take a straight road sentence.

Ted Johnson, Lillinton, charged with assault on Billy Ray West, pleaded not guilty, but the court found him guilty. Prayer for judgment was continued for two years on the condition the defendant re- (Continued On Page Six)
