GREENSBORO — Two state senators took sharply opposing views here Monday as to the amount of Communist activity in North Carolina. Sen. Robert B. Morgan of Harnett County said the state has a history of producing a national Communist leader "about once every generation." He cited the late Paul Crouch and Junius Scales as examples.

After 54 Years Slumber

Big Volcano Erupts; Many Feared Dead

MANILA (UPI) — Volcanic Mount Taal which had slumbered for 54 years in a lake 35 miles south of Manila erupted today with explosions that hurled a ball of fire nearly two miles high. Hundreds were feared dead. Governor Feliciano Leviste of Batangas province said 117 persons were known to have been killed, including a man who survived the great 1911 eruption which took an estimated 3,000 lives. Three of the dead were struck by lightning in a thunderstorm meteorologists said was caused by the eruption. Estimates of the number of persons living on the volcano isle ranged from 2,000 to 6,000, and the Philippine Constabulary said many of them had been evacuated. Manila newspapers put the number of dead at 1,200 to 2,000. President Diosdado Macapagal headed a rescue mission from Manila but operations were hampered by the smoke and steam and a heavy rain. Volcanologists warned that a stronger explosion could come Wednesday, causing tidal waves on the lake.

Morgan said there has been Communist activity off and on at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill since 1930, when he said a Communist cell was first established there. "Communist speakers have appeared from time to time on the Chapel Hill campus even in the late 1950s and in the 1960s," he said. Sen. L. P. McLendon, Jr. of Greensboro said he agreed that there is a Communist threat to the Western democracies, but said he did not believe the Reds are concentrating on North Carolina. Morgan and McLendon gave their opinions at the closing session of the 11th annual meeting of the North Carolina Savings and Loan League at Sedgefield Inn. Their subject was the Speaker Ban Law. Morgan upheld it; McLendon said the law is unconstitutional, and ought to be repealed. The law prohibits Communists and persons who have pleaded the Fifth Amendment from speaking at public colleges and universities. McLendon called the law "patently" unconstitutional because it (Continued on Page 6)

Judge Declares He's Lucky To Escape Chamber

Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn today in Harnett Superior Court sentenced 22-year-old Kenneth Jackson Barefoot to serve 25-30 years in prison for the robbery-slaying of Lynwood Ray Lee, a Dunn restaurant operator, and told him "You're mighty lucky not to be going to the gas chamber." "North Carolina has a bad crime record and Harnett is one of the most notorious counties in the State, especially for murder, and this is one of the worst cases of all," declared the veteran jurist in passing sentence. "You're guilty of first degree murder; you're guilty of first degree burglary, either of which could have sent you to the gas chamber, and you're also guilty of burglary with firearms," Judge Burgwyn told Barefoot. Judge Burgwyn praised Attorneys J. Shepard Brvan and Robert C. Bryan for their defense of Barefoot and told him, "Only by the grace of God, able defense counsel and the mercy of this court are you getting off so easy." Assistant Solicitor Jake Lamm and private prosecutor D. K. Stewart, representing the Lee family, told Judge Burgwyn that Barefoot had committed a "cold-blooded, premeditated robbery and murder" and strongly recommended that he be given the maximum punishment under the law, which is 30 years. The prosecution on Monday accepted a plea of guilty to second-degree murder. Barefoot, who has already spent about half his life in prison, was (Continued on Page 6)

Signs Statement In Stabbing of Husband

Linden Woman Admits Killing

FRANTIC SURF — The daughters of actress Linda Christian and the late Tyrone Power demonstrate the latest dance craze at a party near Rome. Romina, 14, (left) and Taryn, 12, dress in keeping with the new dance.

A 46-year-old Linden woman is being held in the Cumberland County jail without bond today on a charge of murdering her husband Sunday. James Preston Smith, a Rt. 1, Linden Negro, was pronounced dead at Good Hope Hospital in Erwin Sunday afternoon, where his wife, Agnes, Lee Smith, and 15-year-old son had taken him by auto. Mrs. Smith signed a statement after questioning by Cumberland County sheriff's deputies. Bought Liquor She said her husband asked her to go with him to Fayetteville about 5 a. m. Sunday, but instead he drove her to the home of a woman named Frances Maynor, who lives off U. S. 401 North. They bought some whiskey there, Mrs. Smith said, and her husband drank it. They went back home about 11 a. m., and Mrs. Smith went into the house, leaving her husband in the car. She said he called her outside, grabbed her by the arm, and threatened to kill her. She said he had a knife in his hand, and she grabbed a piece of broken glass from the car and stabbed him in the chest with it. She called her daughter Louise, she said, and they changed James' clothes while he sat in the car, bleeding from the stab wound. She said she put a piece of tape over the wound, and sent for her 15-year-old son Nathan, who drove then back to Frances Maynor's house. Still Talking Mrs. Smith said her husband was lying in the back seat of the car at that time, but was still talking. They drove to Erwin, where a doctor at the hospital told them Smith was dead, and had been dead for some time. Louise Smith, a 17-year-old daughter, signed a statement saying her parents had quarreled the night before, after her father came home drunk. She said about 11 a. m. Sunday her father threatened to kill her mother, and her mother took a long-bladed knife out of her purse. She said her mother did not use the knife, however, and she and two other children, managed (Continued on Page Six)

The storm that suddenly built from a tropical "depression" in the Gulf of Mexico was moving at 10 miles an hour up "Hurricane Alley," packing winds up to 50 miles per hour. Winds were extending 200 miles from the center of the storm as it approached an area battered less than three weeks ago by Hurricane Betsy. At 8 a. m. France's No. 1 Sex Symbol BB Is 31 Today PARIS (UPI) — Brigitte Bardot turned 31 Tuesday, still France's No. 1 sex symbol, but pressed hard by the younger "ye-ye" stars. The pouping, tousled "sex-kitten" reigns as the top film queen of France and a tradition of her country along with the Eiffel Tower and the Arch of Triumph. Brigitte Bardot is one of the world's few personalities known instantly by initials, along with JFK, LBJ, etc., and the French press records her every movement and mood. But their attitude is one of affection toward a veteran tradition. The French women's and teen-age magazines devote more space now-

Christian Church Event Acclaimed Big Success

Overflow Crowd Attends 76th Anniversary Of Dunn Church

An overflow crowd, including many former members and visitors from out-of-town, joined the local membership Sunday in celebrating the 76th anniversary of Dunn's Hood Memorial Christian Church. The event was acclaimed as one of the most successful religious events of the type held here in years. One of the oldest churches in the area, the original building of Hood Memorial was the first completed church structure in the Town of Dunn and was finished just three years after the town was first established. Dr. Charles E. Dietz of Wilson, executive secretary of the North Carolina Christian Churches, delivered the morning sermon. An interesting history of the church was presented by Loroman C. Dupree, Jr., who is a grandson of one of the founders and who heads a committee which is writing a history of the local church.

A roll call of the membership was taken by Miss Bertha Westbrook, the church clerk. The Rev. Carlton Best, who presided over the service, recognized special guests, large family groups and direct descendants of the church's original 18 founders. One member present, Mrs. Blackmon Lee, Sr., was born the same year the church was organized here. Her family has been prominent in the church for many years. Among other large family groups recognized were the Tarts, Surles, Lees, Hollidays, Bells, Woods and Duprees. The Rev. Mr. Best acknowledged greetings and expressions of regret from two former pastors unable to be present, the Rev. John Gardner of Falmouth, Kentucky and the Rev. F. W. Wiegmann, now pastor of the Downey Avenue Christian Church in Indianapolis, Ind. Among out-of-town guests who registered for the anniversary observance were: Rev. and Mrs. John Browning of Smithfield, Mrs. M. F. Massey of (Continued on Page 6)

CR Prosecutor Is Removed

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — A circuit judge bluntly removed State Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers from prosecution of a civil rights slaying case today after the state had vigorously contended it could not get a fair trial. Circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard then told the circuit prosecutor to proceed with the prosecution of Tom Coleman, 53, a popular "citizen deputy" charged with manslaughter in the shotgun killing of a white ministerial student, Thagard, after a heated discussion, removed Flowers and his top assistant, Joe Gantt, from the case and returned it to Circuit Solicitor Arthur Gamble. Flowers was not in court but his top assistant argued repeatedly for a continuance of the trial on grounds the atmosphere was too much against the prosecution's side in Lowndes County and that a key witness could not come to the trial because he was in serious condition in a Chicago hospital. Coleman was on trial for first degree manslaughter and assault, which carries a maximum sentence of 11 years on conviction in the slaying of Episcopal seminarian Jonathan Daniels of Keene, N. H., who was blown apart by a shotgun blast in front of a Hayneville grocery store shortly after he was released from jail following a civil rights demonstration. Critically wounded at the same time was The Rev. Richard Morier, a Chicago Catholic priest who was to have been the key witness for the prosecution. Thagard at one point threatened to hold Gantt in contempt of court but did not.
