Harnett Draft Calls Increase

Harnett County's draft calls are growing heavier each month as the world situation grows more critical.

Joe Wilkins of Dunn, one of the three members of the Harnett Selective Service Board, disclosed today that the office has received orders to start reclassifying college students at the next meeting of the board on Tuesday.

A total of 194 Harnett youths were given pre-induction examinations during the past month and 27 were inducted into the service.

"I'm afraid the situation is going to get a whole lot worse," said Mr. Wilkins.

A few minutes after Mr. Wilkins was interviewed by The Daily Record, a story came over the United Press wires announcing that the Defense Department has stepped up the draft call again setting a quota of 45,224 men for the Army and Marine Corps in December.

The Selective Service call was more than 10,000 men higher than the 35,000-a-month rate originally set by President Johnson. It compared with a quota of 36,450 for November.

Including enlistments, the Army expects to get 47,900 recruits during December. The Marines are shooting for 8,444.

The services are engaged in 340,

Elena Offers No Real Threat

Forecasters said the storm offered no threat to any land area. Although refusing to predict beyond 36 hours, they indicated Elena may never threaten land.

Although the fifth named tropical twister of the year, Elena contained some extra-tropical characteristics which caused it to move erratically and made its future development uncertain.

000-man buildup for the Viet Nam crisis. The buildup will bring them to a total strength of slightly more than 3 million men.

Though the Navy is taking 4,000 draftees during November, the department said that service would rely on enlistments during December. The Air Force has not yet used the draft.

At State Mental Hospitals

Hospital Transfers Over

RALEIGH (UPI) — Gov. Dan Moore said today the mass transfers of white and Negro patients between mental institutions in compliance with the Civil Rights Act of 1964 have been ended.

"There will be no further transfers of patients from hospitals or schools for the time being," the governor said at his weekly news conference.

Mass transfers between the O'Berry Center at Goldsboro and the Caswell Center at Kinston had brought an outcry of protest from patients and relatives. The governor ordered an investigation.

"It is clear that the transfers, made in compliance with the Federal Civil Rights Act did cause anxiety among some patients and their families," the governor said. "Others adjusted to their new surroundings without difficulty."

"The transfers also increased the number and scope of complaints on the quality of patient care, the facilities available and the operation of some unit care wards. While the general complaints were apparently directed toward the integration of patients most of the complaints actually involved these other problems. The board and my office have been looking into all the complaints."

Moore said the investigation into the transfers was conducted by the Executive Committee of the State Board of Mental Health. Following the investigation, he said, the committee asked Dr. Eugene Hargrove to check into other complaints uncovered. As a result, the governor said, the committee has formulated the following changes for all mental institutions:

"1. There will be closer supervi-tion of the sexes in all activities at the hospitals and schools.

"2. There will be no further transfers of patients from hospitals or schools for the time being.

"3. The Unit Care Program at O'Berry School in Goldsboro will be discontinued. There have been beneficial results in this search for better answers in retardation, but the number of older children makes it necessary to end this program.

"4. The Unit Care Program at Dix Hill in Raleigh will be modified to reduce the over-load on staff and attendants."

Carl Finds Advertising Pays

Big Success

Carl Lucas, the merchant prince of Erwin, is convinced more than ever that advertising pays. The success of his mammoth anniversary sale last week at Carl's Super Markets in Dunn and Erwin and Carl's Sundries in Erwin is further proof.

"It exceeded all expectations," said Mr. Lucas today.

For instance, his two food stores sold a total of more than 12,000 dozen rolls at a nickel a dozen, more than 33,000 pounds of fryers. The sale of other specially-priced items went at about the same ratio.

So many people registered for the free prizes that the said he couldn't even begin to estimate the total.

Mr. Lucas used slightly over five pages of advertising in The Daily Record last week to promote the sale at the three stores. He also used smaller amounts of ad space in other newspapers and used radio, but relied on The Daily Record as his primary advertising medium.

"I want to take this opportunity to thank my thousands of loyal customers, to the salesmen who call on me and assisted me, to my fine staff of employees, to newspapers, radio stations and to everybody else who helped in this big promotion," said Mr. Lucas today.
