MOORE CALLS FOR BAN CHANGES

Commies Win Another Round In High Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court unanimously ruled unconstitutional today a key section of the subversive control law requiring individual members of the Communist party to register with the government.

The court agreed with a challenge to the 1950 law which claimed that the registration requirement would violate the constitutional protection against self-incrimination.

Today's decision was the latest in a series of reverses the Subversive Activities Control law has sustained in the courts.

The new ruling came in the midst of a federal court jury trial on whether the party itself must register with the Justice Department. Individuals would be subject to registration if the party refused to list its membership.

In other actions today, the Supreme Court:

— Granted a hearing to Dr. Sam Sheppard, the Ohio osteopath who was convicted of the bludgeoning murder of his wife in a sensational 1954 Cleveland trial and sentenced to life imprisonment. Today's action means that hearings will be held later this year to be followed by a written decision.

— Firmly ordered lower federal courts to hold hearings on Negro complaints that the faculties of the school system in Richmond and Hopewell, Va., are being continued on a segregated basis.

— Quashed a Birmingham, Ala., loitering conviction against Negro civil rights leader, Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth.

— Agreed to examine a challenge to the non-Communist oath requirement of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law even though it has been superseded by a less stringent requirement.

FIRE ALARM

A defective valve on a gas heater caused alarm this morning at an apartment at 605 S. Fayetteville Ave., occupied by Brad Minchew. When the 25 firemen and four trucks arrived at the scene, the fire had been extinguished, said Howard M. Lee, the department's secretary. Mrs. Faison Joyner owns the apartment house. Light smoke damage was done.

Caused By Alcohol, Pills

Kilgallen Death

NEW YORK (UPI) — Columnist and television personality Dorothy Kilgallen died last week of a combination of alcohol and barbiturates, the medical examiner's office announced Monday.

Miss Kilgallen was found dead in bed last Monday afternoon by a hairdresser. She apparently had died during the night, while reading following an evening spent as a panelist on the television show "What's My Line?" and in writing her syndicated gossip column.

A preliminary autopsy report had ruled out a heart attack as cause of the 52 year old writer's death. A death certificate ascribed her decease to "natural causes."

Professor of Piano At ECC

Former Lillington Artist Doing Well

The story of David C. Pinnix, a young professor of piano at Greensboro College who returned this summer from a year of study in Italy, is a story of two people... himself and his attractive wife, Judi.

Mrs. Pinnix is a mezzo soprano and a graduate of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y., as is her husband.

The Pinnixes spent most of their time in Rome where he studied in a master's class at the Santa Cecilia Academy under the renowned pianist-conductor, Carlo Zecchi. Prof. Pinnix, a native of Lillington, was sponsored by a Fullbright-Hayes grant. He also studied privately under another world leader of piano, Guido Agosti.

Pinnix then attended the International Chamber Music Academy as a performing student member.

Two Committees Break From Tradition

Baptists Asked To Integrate

CHARLOTTE (UPI) — Two committees of the N. C. Baptist State Convention, in a sharp break from their usual conservative principles, called on Tar Heel Baptists today to desegregate their churches, praised the Vatican Council and approved federal aid to church-supported schools. The information was contained in reports which the public affairs and Christian life Committees were expected to present to the 196th annual convention here.

The reports were to be received by the more than 3,500 delegates as "information" and no formal action was expected on them. However, a source said a floor fight on the reports "was not entirely impossible."

He called the reports a "new forward looking stance" for the church and said they presented "almost a new look for Baptists, who traditionally were rather conservative."

"The sign outside the door of the church may read 'Everyone welcome,' but most people know that everyone is not welcome," the Christian life committee said. "In virtually none of our churches are Negroes welcome."

The committee also charged that congregations also displayed prejudice towards white people who were from "an educational or cultural or economic level either significantly lower or significantly higher than that of the majority of people" in the church.

"He may be admitted to worship services or even to membership, but he may still be regarded as an outsider because he is not considered 'our kind of people,'" the committee said.

Revival Begins Fri.

A revival is slated to begin at the Culbreth Memorial Pentecostal Holiness Church in Falcon on Friday, November 19.

The guest speaker will be Rev. Leon A. Podaras, who is a general evangelist of the Pentecostal Holiness Church and is a member of the Western Conference of North Carolina. He has pastored in this area for seven years before entering full time evangelistic work in 1960.

Rev. Podaras is a native of Florida but is presently a resident of Wilmington. He was a businessman in Gastonia prior to entering the ministry in 1951.

He is a graduate of Emmanuel College, Franklin Springs, Ga., with further studies completed at Wake Forest College.

Rev. A. B. Howard, pastor of the Falcon Church, cordially invites the public to attend the services nightly at 7:30 through November 28.

American Legion, Others Will Continue Fight

By RICHARD W. HATCH
United Press International

RALEIGH (UPI) — Gov. Dan K. Moore told a special session of the General Assembly that returning control of visiting speakers to school trustees "will end the bitter controversy which is dividing our people and our state."

He said the trustees "have measured up to their responsibilities" by adopting a policy covering Communist speakers.

"Let us accept the reasonable and honorable settlement suggested by our Speaker Ban Study Commission," Moore said.

"If you will support legislation as recommended by the commission, there will be no defeat for anyone, but a victory for all the people of North Carolina."

Moore also recommended that the assembly limit itself to consideration of the speaker ban law.

During his primary campaign, Gov. Moore stated unequivocally and without reservation that he favored keeping Communists off the campuses.

The Chapel Hill Weekly, the State's bitterest foe of the law, said Sunday in an editorial that amendment of the law by the legislature will not settle the controversy.

It said The American Legion and others will continue the fight, that the row will haunt the University in its dealings with the legislature in many ways.

The editorial said a nagging suspicion will remain with many UNC groups that "the University sold some of its soul" in the compromise amendment.

The House rules committee met just prior to the session and unanimously adopted rules limiting the session to consideration of bills pertaining to the regulation of visiting speakers on state campuses.

Sen. Sam Whitehurst of Craven visited the meeting and requested that the rules allow other bills of an "urgent" nature. This was not accepted.

Rep. George Uzzell of Salisbury, chairman of House rules, commented there probably would be another special session "early next year" to consider reapportionment and suggested that urgent legislation might be introduced at that time.

It was expected that public hearings would be held Tuesday before a joint session acting as a committee of the whole and indications were that the session would be over by mid-week.

Moore's speech was expected to reiterate his support of amending the law along the lines recommended by the Speaker Ban Study Commission. The study group recommended that the power to regulate visiting speakers be returned to the trustees and they allow "infrequent" visits by Communist speakers.

Workers Return Under "Cooling Off" Agreement

Cooling Off Period Ends Wellons Strike

BEAR HUG—A fuzzy bear appears to have a good grip on Ira Kandat at London's Battersea amusement park. The bear's not for real, but Ira is. One of the top young dancers of Moscow's famed Bolshoi ballet, she's with the company on its tour of Great Britain.

Employees of Wellons Candy Co. in Dunn returned to their jobs Monday morning under terms of a "cooling off" agreement worked out between Wellons Candy Co., Inc. and Local 503 of the American Bakery and Confectionary Workers (AFL-CIO).

A joint statement issued by the company and the union said strikers had returned to their jobs at the request of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

The strike started last Monday after negotiations for a contract and wage negotiations broke down. After a number of incidents at the plant between strikers and those continuing to work, Superior Court Judge W. A. Johnson issued an order restraining pickets from violence and limiting the number of pickets to eight at any one time.

Following is the text of the statement released by the union and the company:

The Statement

At the request of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, all strikers returned to work under the terms of a "cooling off" agreement worked out between the Wellons Candy Co. Inc. and American Bakery and Confectionary Workers (AFL-CIO).

At the recommendation of Mr. Robert Callaway, Federal Mediator, both parties agreed to a plan whereby the strike would be terminated and negotiations on a contract resumed by Wednesday with Federal and State Mediators.

Strikers and other Wellons employees were asked to report of telephone the company by Monday, Nov. 15, (today) to make themselves available for work as quickly as it can be scheduled.

Last Sale Averaged $24.77

Dunn Pig Market Among State's Best

The Dunn Quality Feeder Pig Market continues in the limelight as one of the better markets in the state for quality feeder pigs as well as price-wise stated C. R. Ammons, count extension Chairman, here today.

Quality feeder pigs sold on the Dunn market November 3 for an average of $24.77 per head, which brought a return to farmers of nearly $15,000.00. These pigs ranged in weight from 40 to 125 pounds with the largest range weighing from 40 to 75 pounds. The average price per pound was 387 cents.

Campbell Poem In Third Place

"The Filippant Joys," by Mill Lu Overton of the Department of English, placed third in the modern category among poems entered in the annual contest of the National Federation of State Poetry Societies, as announced in the fall issue of "Strophes," magazine of the national group.

Miss Overton also received honorable mention for two sonnets entered in the contest of the North Carolina Poetry Society.

Harnett County farmers have a wonderful opportunity to add substantially to their farm income through the production of feeder pigs, stated Ammons. Growers of swine and other interested farmers are urged to attend a series of meetings beginning in January 1966 on swine production. The schedule for the meetings will be published published prior to the meetings.

Airlines have increased passengers' baggage allowance. Gals can now shop for larger cosmetic cases.

Sandlin Heads Campaign Tues; Breakfast At 7

Chamber Seeks More Members

It will be Chamber of Commerce Day in Dunn tomorrow.

The Membership committee of the Chamber under the direction of Henry Sandlin will have a breakfast at 7 a.m. at Porter's and afterwards start out in an attempt to see some 103 prospects in three hours.

The membership group hopes to wind the whole drive up at 10. With a membership now of between 250 and 300 the Chamber hopes to increase this considerably tomorrow morning.

President Abe Elmore of the Chamber urged all persons contacted to give a favorable answer to the request they join the Chamber for 1965-66.

At the same time today President Elmore announced that the annual Banquet of the Chamber would be held on January 18 and that Dr. A. Purnell Bailey, superintendent of the Richmond, Va. District of the Methodist church, and a nationally known radio personality with his "Daily Bread" program, would be the banquet speaker.

Membership Chairman Sandlin and Manager Charles McCuller of the Chamber, urged as many as possible to attend the banquet.

President Elmore also pointed out today that one new industry, Dunn Modern Foods, has already started building a plant at the Industrial Park, while another industrial announcement for Dunn may be forthcoming in the near future.

He said that money was badly needed to work on industrial prospects for Dunn and the memberships to be gathered tomorrow will go a long way toward that industrial work.

Membership Chairman Sandlin and Manager Charles McCuller of the Chamber, urged as many as possible to attend the banquet.
