THREE KLANSMEN FOUND GUILTY

Lengthy Session Heard In Court Here Yesterday

Judge Woodrow Hill presided at Thursday's Recorders Court, which proved to be a most interesting one. Mrs. Jesse Turner, 25, was charged with bedding and rohabiting. Her case, which was quite unusual stemmed from a 1962 warrant which was served last week. Her husband was tried in 1962 and has served time on the roads, however; the couple have been married since this time and therefore the case was not prosed. Lawrence Fisher, a 53-year-old Fayetteville man, was charged with driving the wrong way on a one way highway. He was traveling in the wrong side of Interstate 95 and paid cost of court. Donald Ray Taylor, 19, of Dunn was charged with careless and reckless and was told prayer for judgments would be continued on conditions that he pay cost of court and not operate a motor vehicle in the town of Dunn from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. for 90 days. Also tried was William R. Hill, who paid cost and is not to operate a motor vehicle from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. in Dunn for 90 days. He was tried on an improper passing charge. Paying a $100 fine and cost of court for careless and reckless was (Continued on Page 8)

Headquarters Set Up; Work Goes On All Year

Dunn Christmas Cheer Committee Needs Help

The office of the Dunn Christmas Cheer Committee has been set up again in the old Presbyterian Building on West Cumberland Street, and will be open for business each day, except Sunday, until Christmas Day. Headed by the perennial leader of this work, Wesley Coates, the Committee operates throughout the year as a clearing house for the churches of Dunn as they try to meet the pressing needs of citizens who are down on their luck, and to extend aid to travelers who are stranded or in need as they pass through Dunn. But it is in December that the Committee does the major portion of its work. With the assistance of the pastors and churches of the town, plus the gifts and work of the merchants and business men, and a great many of our citizens, this Committee tries to make sure that no family is without adequate groceries, fuel or clothing at Christmas time. In addition to this, the Committee seeks to provide Christmas treats and toys for children of unfortunate families whose Christmas might otherwise be very meager. Last Christmas 228 families were helped. The citizens, the merchants and businesses of Dunn are invited to donate to the Christmas Cheer Committee as soon as possible. Checks and gifts should be made out and sent to Mr. J. N. Stephenson at the Commercial Bank of Dunn. He is the treasurer of the Committee and will handle all funds. Gifts of groceries, fuel and clothing, as well as toys, should be delivered to the office at 400 West Cumberland Street. Only clean and usable clothing should be brought. A telephone has been installed so that you may call the Christmas Cheer Office. The number is: 892-2251. Mr. Bruce Byrd and the North Carolina Natural Gas Corporation is furnishing gas heat for the office. Families in need should report to the Committee so that a list of these opportunities can be made available to donors and churches.

Defense attorney Art Hanes said he would appeal. The jury said at 10 this morning that it was hopelessly deadlocked but U. S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson, Jr. sent the panel back for further deliberations. "You have not begun to deliberate long enough to determine you are hopelessly deadlocked," Johnson told the jurors, who had been meeting for eight hours. The panel worked six hours Thursday without reaching a verdict in the case of Klansmen Collier Leroy Wilkins Jr., Eugene Thomas and William O. Eaton. They are facing fines up to $5,000 and up to 10 years imprisonment for interfering with constitutionally guaranteed rights. The indictment said that the (Continued on Page 8)

S. C. Also Ordered To Reapportion

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI) — A panel of three federal judges today ordered the South Carolina legislature to reapportion its Senate on a population basis by April 1. The panel, headed by Circuit Judge Clement F. Haynsworth of Greenville, handed down the order after listening to less than an hour of argument and motions in the case. The court said reapportionment of the Senate must be accomplished 90 days before any party conventions or primaries in 1966 but no later than April 1. Party conventions are now scheduled in March. The ruling would allow the parties to postpone conventions until May, giving the legislature more time. Lawyers for the state and a Spartanburg couple who brought the reapportionment suit agreed that reapportionment of the Senate must be undertaken. The state asked in vain that reapportionment be delayed until after next November's general election. Atty. Gen. Daniel R. McLeod noted that a reapportionment study committee had been created early this year by the legislature. They haven't acted with much speed," Haynsworth replied. Motion by Com. Perry and seconded by Com. Whitehead that the town accept the low bid of $2344.41 submitted by Surles-Rupert, Dunn, N. C. for a 1966 Dodge with 325 HP. Motion carried. Mr. John Simpson, Chairman of the Dunn Planning Board, appeared (Continued on Page 8)

To Be Announced After Holidays

New Industry Plans

Details of a new industry to be located across from the Howard Johnson restaurant and motel on I-95 will be announced shortly after the holidays. A 41-acre tract of land has been leased for 65 years from Nick DeMai, prominent Dunn citizen and large property owner. The tract extends from the bridge on 421 to the overpass on Pope Road. Mr. DeMai said he had leased the property (and already has received payment of the first year's rent) to the Delrex Corp., a business syndicate headed by Ernest P. McSwain of Sanford. The law firm of McLeod and McLeod handled the transaction. Mr. McSwain is now vacationing in Nassau. "As soon as Mr. McSwain returns after the holidays," said Mr. DeMai today, "we're going to have a meeting of city, county, chamber of commerce officials and others and announce all the details." Mr. DeMai said he was not at liberty at this time to provide further information about the new industry. "I do know they're mighty fine people and it's going to mean a lot to the Dunn community," said Mr. DeMai. There was a report that the site had been leased for a motel, DeMai said the report was untrue, that it's definitely a new industry.
