Officers Arrest Four Oaks Man On Liquor Count

Jader Allen Adams was ordered held for trial in Johnston County Recorder's Court Tuesday afternoon on charges of violating the federal liquor tax laws.

Adams, 46, of Route 2, Four Oaks, was arrested by Dunn ATU agent Roscoe Tedder and Johnston ABC officers Jim Britt and James Barefoot after the men found an unregistered distillery in a barn at his home in Ingrams Township.

The barn housed two stills - a 150 gallon copper pot still and 50 gallon outfit. Also destroyed were 450 gallons of fermented mash, one-half gallon of whiskey and other miscellaneous equipment and materials.

Adams was released after posting bond.

CT&T Installing 42 Phones Every Hour

The continuing growth of Eastern North Carolina is strikingly reflected by the fact that Carolina Telephone has been installing telephones this year at the rate of 42 per working hour as compared with 19 just 10 years ago.

Another indication of the area's growing dependence upon telephone communications is the number of long distance conversations being handled by the company. This year, long distance calls are being completed at the rate of 2,163 per hour as compared with 1,666 in 1955.

During the first 10 months of 1965, Carolina Telephone installed to gain 17,012. Stated another way, 69,847 telephones, removed 52,836, the company's installers placed in service 339 telephones every working day or 6,984 every month.

In providing facilities to serve these additional telephones, the company has spent an average of $84,373 each day for new construction as compared with a daily expenditure of $24,969 in the first 10 months of 1955.

At the end of October, the company served 278,796 telephones in 113 exchanges. Each of these phones was being used to complete local calls at the average rate of 6.31 time per day.

Completed long distance calls averaged 51,934 every day and 1,558,136 every month.

Thus, it can be readily seen that eastern Carolinians are relying more and more on modern and dependable communications for contact with each other and the rest of the world.

Quarter Million Russians Try Embassy March

MOSCOW (UPI) — Crowds of Russians, officially estimated at 250,000 persons demonstrated in the streets of Moscow today against American policies in Viet Nam. Strong police precautions barred a march on the U. S. Embassy although a score of persons tried unsuccessfully to deliver a petition to the embassy.

Western newsmen saw tens of thousands of demonstrators at several rallies in various Moscow squares and streets. But by early evening the official Tass news agency reported the number had swelled to 250,000.

The manifestations were part of an increasing nationwide movement against the United States, taking the form of organized mass meetings, newspaper editorials and hundreds of petitions delivered to the embassy.

The stepped up drive coincided with Premier Alexei Kosygin's bitter attack yet on American foreign policy, made in an interview with the New York Times. He said U. S. policies had forced Russia to increase its military spending per cent and accused American soldiers of killing women and children in Viet Nam.

Another official denunciation of American policy came today in a short message to Britain as co-chairman with Russia of the 1964 Geneva conference which ended the Indochina war. The draft message accusing the United States of aggression said both Britain and Russia noted the moves with "deep anxiety." Britain is not expected to agree to the joint message.

Taylor Tells House Group To Come Up With Plan

Reapportionment Work Begins

RECIPE FOR COMEDY—All you need for a hilarious movie scene is the beautiful Elke Sommer wearing nothing but a man's shirt and Bob Hope trying to hold her upright against a wall with a mop. The bit is just one laugh in Hope's new film, "Boy, Did I Get a Wrong Number." Marjorie Lord is the third principal in the cast.

RALEIGH (UPI) — House Speaker Pat Taylor told members of the House Reapportionment Committee today they were here to look after North Carolina, not their own counties.

Taylor also said he expected the committee to work today until they come up with a House reapportionment plan to be made public at the end of their session.

In this way, he said, the public can participate in their progress.

The committee assembled in the legislative building to begin work on a reapportionment plan for the Jan. 10th special session.

A federal court has ordered both houses of the legislature and congressional districts reapportioned. Taylor talked to the House committee like a Dutch uncle.

"The time has come to quit saying you don't like the rulings of the Supreme Court... Regardless of how you feel we've got a job to do. Let's look at it positively..."

"Not one of you was put on here to look after your county. You were put here to look after North Carolina."

Taylor said he wanted the committee to meet today until it comes up with a complete House reapportionment plan, no matter how imperfect. Then, he said, the public can see and comment on the plan. "We've got 30 days before the session begins and the people of North Carolina ought to participate in working it out."

John Sanders of the Institute of Government gave the committee some of the tests he thinks a court-acceptable plan will have to meet. The minimum controlling percentage in either House will have to be 45 per cent or better, he advised. The ratio between the most and least populated district will have to be below two-to-one.
