

Mrs. Miller Observes Her 51st Birthday

Last Sunday was Mrs. Lessie Miller's 51st birthday and she had a happy time at a dinner in her honor at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lorene Richardson, of 1801 Pondella Drive in Hidden Valley residential section.

The family affair featured a menu of baked turkey with dressing, baked ham, chitterlings, yellow squash, collard greens, string beans, rice, slaw, orange-pineapple salad, coconut and pound cakes, fried apple pies, rolls, and tea. Even the most hearty appetite was satisfied.

Attending the festive affair were Mrs. Savanner Morrow, the honoree's mother; Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Richardson, Gregg Richardson, Phillip Richardson Jr., Mrs. John Neal Sr., Mrs. Maggie Craig, Hugh Craig, Dinah Neal, Karen Neal, and Sharon Richardson.

The dinner, the first such held to celebrate their mother's birthday, was sponsored by daughters Barbara Miller, and Lorene Richardson. Mrs. Miller has two other children, Gloria Miller, and Hosea Miller, 31, of Atlanta, Ga. She has three grandchildren, Phillip, Gregory, and Sharon Richardson.

Black Colleges Group To Hear Jesse Jackson

Greensboro.—An address by the Rev. Dr. Jesse Jackson, A&T State University graduate and one of the nation's foremost civil rights leaders, will highlight the first annual unity banquet of the North Carolina Alumni and Friends at the university March 21.

Jackson, who founded and heads Operation People United to Save Humanity (PUSH) will speak for the group's fund-raising effort at 7:30 p.m. in the new student dining center at A&T.

The North Carolina Alumni and Friends group is composed of graduates and former students of the state's five predominately-black colleges. The Coalition has addressed itself to the far reaching objectives of raising the quality of education and assuring higher educational opportunities for all students who seek these opportunities in these colleges," said Sampson Buie, a member of the planning committee.

The Coalition was also active in efforts to secure the state's proposed veterinary school for A&T and for improvements to the law school at North Carolina Central.

A native of Greenville, S. C. Jackson led demonstrations for racial equality while a student at A&T. Following graduation, he moved to Chicago and became a valuable lieutenant of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, heading King's Operation Breadbasket. In 1971 Jackson split with Breadbasket to form his own group, which is active in seeking economic gains for blacks. Buie said a number of other educational and political figures are expected to join Jackson in participating in the program. Reservations for the banquet may be secured in the Office of Continuing Education at A&T or from members of the Coalition.
