lina High Schools during his years at N.C. School of the Arts, Turner appeared as "Blue Haven" in "Ceremonies In Dark Old Man," by Lonnie Elder III, under the direction of Bill Jagger and "The Duke" in "The Cave Dwellers", a three act drama, directed by Charlie Briggs of The Circle In The Square Theater.

During the student workshops at the Circle in The Square Theatre, Turner played "Kulygin" in "The Three Sisters," "Sir Toby Belch" in Shakespeare's "The Twelfth Night" and "Eddie" in the tragic comedy "Tango."

Under the direction of Horace B. Caple at West Charlotte High School, Turner played "Noah", the principle roll, in the comedy drama "The Rain Maker" and appeared in an avant-garde four act piece by Elmer Rice called "The Adding Machine."

Turner said during the interview, "I plan to go back to New York and work on the stage - my first love." But added, "I'll try TV, the movies, whatever."

He says his "ultimate goal is to become the best actor I can be and to keep working at what I do best and like best."

He added, "I hope to reach and enrich the lives of many people through the medium of acting in live theater."

Turner continued, "My first love is comedy and serious drama, both classical and contemporary works, but I want to be well-rounded so I don't get labeled as a comedy actor, a serious drama actor, and so forth."

He says he would like to direct a musical someday even though he doesn't sing or dance.
