Fashion Show Blossoms With Sassy Dresses, Sharp Suits

By Dianne Simpson
Post Staff Writer

Sassy dresses, sharp pant suits, elegant formals, casual and dress boots, bags and shoes and classy hats, gloves and stoles were all visible items that bloomed forth at a fashion show.

These prissy and smart fashions were presented by the Elks Purple Cross Health Unit of Pisgah Lodge No. 266 and Pisgah Temple No. 228 at the Greenville Community Center at 1330 Spring Street. Mrs. Frankie Travillian manager of the Buddy Dale Hat Shop was the narrator, and Mrs. Harriett Steele hosted the show.

Camp, Bost And Associates

New Black Business To Provide Best Of Service

By Dianne Simpson
Post Staff Writer

It was once stated that the future of America lies in the hands of big businesses and enterprises. But the future of Black Americans lies in the hands of the outgoing, intellectual, black seeker who wants to get ahead to do something and plan ahead for the betterment of the establishment of his black community: These seekers don't start from the top, but have conquered the pains that his fellowman has and still is experiencing.

So it is with Ronnie Bost and Edward Camp, Realtors of the Camp, Bost and Associates. 27 and 28 years old respectively, these young black men are setting the pace for businessmen with a process of anticipation and determination.

These two young Charlot-teans, who both received their real estate training from Central Piedmont Community College, have been in business together since July 1977. They had both been members of the Cousar Realty Co. but saw this need to venture forth and start a business of their own. As Bost was already a member of the Charlotte Board of Realtors, their dreams became a reality.

Providing only the best professional services, these two young men have set their company's goal of helping all of those who seek their expertise. Their objective is that 100 percent of their clients are satisfied.

They are members of the Local, State and National Association of Realtors and base their company's foundation of buying, selling and renting homes on professional and ethical standards.

They are members of: The Charlotte Board of Realtors, Multiple Listing Bureau, N.C. Association of Realtors, National Association of Realtors, Realtors National Marketing Institute and the Charlotte Merchant's Association. They are also assisted in business matters by the Service Core of Retire Executives (SCORE).

Although Bost signifies that their business is at the present small, it is, however, rapidly growing. Working with this firm are two real estate brokers, Ms. Denis Williams and Darvin Carr. He contends that the firm is seeking other qualified, interested agents to take on the work of real estate.

These agents, if accepted, will receive above average income, continue training and an atmosphere of progression.

This company is licensed for business for the entire state of N.C. and hopefully to direct their courses to South Carolina as well.

This company specializes in sales, rentals and management on FHA, VA and Conventional basis. They place no restrictions on buyers as to age, creed, color or race for to them just as long as the buyer is ready, willing and able, this is the kind of person they want to deal with.

For anyone seeking only real estate counseling, Mr. Bost states that no fee will be charged. For their purpose Mr. Camp's comments is "to help and satisfy."

Because Bost and Camp are both young black Charlotte businessmen, they are more than willing to discuss their actions in the business world to any Jr. high, high school or college student who wants to obtain knowledge on business
